B. U. J. C. REVISES SCHEDULE

Next semester, there will be a complete revision of the Bucknell Junior College schedule. At first, an attempt was made to clear all eleven o'clock classes for physical education but this failed because too much time would be lost. In its final approved schedule all physical education classes will be held at three-thirty on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, while the classes now held on Monday will be moved to thirty-nine on those days. General interest will be added to all classes. The new schedule will be announced at the opening of classes.

Dr. Marts Urges Coolness

Dr. Fairley has released for the students a message which he received from Dr. Marts, our presi dent, upon the recent turn of events in the political world. Dr. Marts has just been appointed by Mayor LaGuardia as director of the supervision of the Third Corps Area of Defense composed of big Bucknellians and is therefore in a perfect position to bring the news and the wishes of those who are endeavoring to make politics prac tically safe. Dr. Marts' message says in part:

"Urge your students to keep cool at all times, and to hold the boys to stay in college until their call comes. Don't let the boys be too eager to go by; it will be better for them to study harder than ever, because America and civilization will never completely need trained leaders."
The Bill of Rights

Last week we celebrated the 135th anniversary of the adoption of the Bill of Rights. It is one of the great milestones in our nation's history. The Bill of Rights is a document that has protected the rights of Americans for over two centuries. It has been a cornerstone of our democracy, ensuring that the government respects the rights of its citizens. Without the Bill of Rights, our country would be a very different place.

One hundred and fifty years ago, when our forefathers drafted the Bill of Rights, they were concerned about the potential for the government to become too powerful. They feared that the government might abuse its power and suppress the rights of the people. The Bill of Rights was written to prevent such abuses. It guarantees the rights of every American, regardless of race, religion, gender, or political affiliation.

The Bill of Rights includes ten amendments. The first amendment protects the right to freedom of speech and the right to worship. The second amendment guarantees the right to bear arms. The third amendment prohibits the government from quartering soldiers in private homes. The fourth amendment protects against unreasonable searches and seizures. The fifth amendment guarantees the right to due process and the right to remain silent. The sixth amendment guarantees the right to a fair trial. The seventh amendment guarantees the right to a trial by jury. The eighth amendment prohibits excessive bail and cruel and unusual punishment. The ninth amendment reserves all rights not delegated to the government. The tenth amendment reserves all rights not delegated to the federal government to the states or the people.

Today, we should take a moment to appreciate the importance of the Bill of Rights. It is a document that has stood the test of time and has been a beacon of freedom and justice. We should remember the sacrifices made by our forefathers to ensure that we have these rights today. Let us continue to strive to protect and defend the Bill of Rights, so that future generations can enjoy the freedoms that we enjoy today.

Come Out of Hibernation!

When a new group of students enter Bucknell, an effort is made to interest everyone in the variety of extracurricular activities planned for their benefit. In past years, this has been successful to a great extent, but for some reason, the interest seems to wane. Perhaps it is due to the variety, the costs, or the lack of information. In any case, it seems to be the case that many students do not participate in extracurricular activities. This is a shame, as these activities can be a great way to meet new people, develop new skills, and have fun.

It is important to remember that extracurricular activities are not just for the academic or athletic types. There are activities for everyone. Whether you enjoy music, art, writing, or sports, there is an activity for you. It is important to try new things and find what interests you. This is how you will discover new talents and develop new skills.

ALUMNI COLUMN

This paper has, in its estimation, been lacking a column devoted exclusively to the doings of alumni. This week we are pleased to begin such a column by having completed their Bucknell careers and are now working elsewhere at their own places, or in industry and business. Here we present such an alumni column and are looking forward to the submission of material in this line.

Dr. Frank Colby, who recently retired as扇theatomy professor at Bucknell, has written an article on"The Importance of a College Education." In it, he discusses the value of a college education in today's world and how it can benefit a person throughout their life.

Brilliant remark! We were all discussing the different Thanksgivings; the conversation switched to the question of how we would celebrate Thanksgiving. Dr. Colby stated, "When your birthday comes around, give Phyllis a question with a groan on an answer.

Dr. Morris' new problem: There are 20 people in the room, and 150 fingers—the answer is written on a blackboard. He needs a five-dollar bill for the answer.

Chemistry Lab certainly proves interesting to Harry Baut. He's either smoking a pipe or blowing glass bubbles.

Why does Jimmy Connelly call Reta Seitch, R. B. S. and Charlotte Rechlin, R. B. S. Jr.? Does it have a significant meaning rather than the initials?

You're truly heard Mary Cogen regarding "the girl next door" a new sophomore girl. Was it the experience of a vivid imagination, a tall story, or the truth? Hum, Mary?

Does Fred Ballister eat Mexican food? He seems to be jumpy. It's easy to recognize him from a distance.

"Do you hear about the rush on the new books from Nietzsche at the library?" If not, ask Dr. Miller's philosophers.

Speaking of giggles, has anyone heard Bertie Arnold's?" He's a good one.

STOP, LOOK, AND LISTEN!

The Beacon announces the 20th anniversary of the "Ikeda" issue, which we think warrants recognition. It is the 20th anniversary of "Ikeda," a poem that has become a classic in our literature. We encourage all students to read "Ikeda." To break the monotony, we now present a new column in its place. "Ikeda" is a great poem, and we encourage all students to read it.

George Plesse and Arthur Towe are two boys who keep the hot dogs selling in the cafeteria.

B. U. J. C. Alumni Grants

Two B. U. J. C. graduates have received scholarships for superior work in the chosen fields.

Alfred Eisenbraun, who completed his work at Bucknell College in 1941, is now a senior in the Medical School of Yale University. During the spring semester, he was granted a fellowship of $1,000 to enable him to further his studies in the hospital for New York New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

The girls are very much pleased, for at last their lounge is to be fixed—new cushions, new trays, lamp fixed tin; isn't that swell?

Dick Bantle claims that he was at the last Friday night dance but he wasn't in circulation, were you? Dick? Why do you bluff so?

At last we discovered the foxed eye. Joe Farrell, shame on you, Joe.

If any reporters of the Beacon go around without their heads, you'll know that they were told not to have heads—on their articles.

Aldred Eisenbraun certainly made a good job of making one of the Friday night dances. The dancing part of the evening was when he presented a rose to Rita Seitch, R. B. S. terrifically, the students with the sieve-handled jacks so they can go to chases.

Everybody thought that the theme in the lounge was, on the day of the President's speech; was most touching. Especially when everybody rose as one when the Star Spangled Banner was sung.

HINT!!! It might be a good idea if some of the freshmen girls would come to a Friday afternoon coffee. Don't forget, certainly be a novelty.

Edwin Coleleigh airs his ideas very freely. Sometimes they seem to be a trifle superficial though, don't they, Ed?

Ray Davenport plus a big smile are certainly synonymous, don't you agree?

Al Fladd certainly made a nice appearance in the lounge the other day. It is the job, Al.

Debaters Submit To Ashley

In colleges throughout the United States student relations, with other schools have begun. After discussion, in the light of the question chosen by the Executive Council of the National Association of Teachers of Speech, Bucknell Junior College, with the usual spirit, has entered the field of discussion upon this "debating topic": The Federal Government Should Regulate Labor and All Other Matters. In the United States — Constitutionally Conceded.

Incidentally two questions are actively debated by the teams of executives in the colleges throughout the country. The other is the "state" question, decided upon by a state committee; it is concerned with the sending of an American Expeditionary Force outside the Western Hemisphere to combat Axis powers. In view of the recent startling turn in world events, this latter subject is unfortunately too able.

The Bucknell debating team of the Junior College entered their first verbal contest with the American High School of Ashley on December 7. The Bucknell team included Eva Charnowit, Phyllis Keeney, Elizabeth Wolfe, and Margaret Mullen. The Ashley team delivered the 5-minute constructive speeches, and Milton Edelman, Mr. Holman, Parkin, and Wargo, delivered the rebuttal speeches.

Debating against the proposition was the Bucknell team; Mr. Edward Farley, Mr. Atherton, Mrs. Elizabeth Staempfli, and Mr. James Atherton. Mr. Farley, who was placed in a negative role, according to the decision of the affirmative team, is a junior who is an English major.

Incidentally, Jack Keeney has since been unanimously initiated into the debating group of Bucknell Junior College.

FACULTY CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Faculty are planning a Christmas party for the students at the house on Friday, December 20. The party will begin at the usual time, and will include refreshments, entertainment, and games. The students are asked to attend in their best attire and to participate in the festivities.

STUDENT LEADERS

Plymouth would appear to be a home of many executives, besides our honorable governor, the president of the Dresher (Mass.) school. It is known that the school is a large one with a very versatile person in the high school faculty. The school was formed by Mr. George's past record fairly dazzes you with the variety of interesting topics. For three years George served as junior and senior and as a member of the debate, which evidence of his athletic tendency. He gives every impression as head cheerleader. We are quite convinced that the Plymouth football team must have their rather uninspired this past fall without his cheerful exuberance. It is worth while to note that the two Bucknell debaters are the only ones who have never been defeated in debate, as would be expected.

Mr. McDonald, the Bucknell debater, delivered the 5-minute constructive speech, and Mr. Hall was the guest speaker. Miss Margaret Mullen, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Syracuse University, Miss Mullen, who wrote "Impressions of Wyoming Valley" for the Sunday Independent, entertained the girls with a talk on the various points of journalism.

Following Miss Mullen's de-tight talk, Berneke Raphin, as editor of the Bucknellian, sang two solos, "Giannata Mia" and "Tonight We Love." After the entertainment, refreshments were served, and Katherine Freund coopered.

The committee in charge of arrangements was as follows:

Bertha Arnold, Ellen Brennan, Margaret Donaldson, Katherine Freund, and Stefana Horyn.

XMAS DANCE

As chairman of the Refreshment Committee, Sallyanne Frank has appointed the following people to serve on her committee: Eugenia Brislin, Robert Fritz, Lois Moses, Louis Morgan, Margaret Mullen, and Margaret Wolf.

Mary Pohala and her invitation Committee, which consists of Margaret Wilson, Phyllis Etchberger, and Elizabeth Womesh, have already mailed invitations to alumni and friends of the Junior College.

June Owens is chairman of the Programs and Patron Committee, composed of Jeanette Jones, Norma Lee Hatfield, Steve Whitman, Ruth L. Williams, Jack Zukle, Edward Star, and Frank Garnahan.

Muriel Keith and Evelyn Williams are co-chairs of the Publicity Committee and are being assisted by Sara Mullen, Muriel Keith, and Evelyn Williams.

These committees are doing their utmost to make this the finest Christmas dance.

ATHLETIC SPEAKS

Commenting upon the performance of his team, Mr. Williams has the students to decide for themselves whether they should instruct, or to volunteer their services as the most opportune moment. Expressing his opinion that it is present, there is no pressing demand for men, he counselled the students to finish their jobs, for, he said, "everyone has a duty in time of both peace and war." Following the talk, Dr. Farley added that in the last war, the enforcement force was a place and a service for those in charge. He suggested that within the next few months the government "will devise a plan which will introduce the larger scheme of things." Ben gin, James Paone, Michael Wargo, and Robert Sweeney.

Our Engineers Vital To Defense

In these times especially now, more than ever before, the importance of the engineer may be more than apparent. In improving our living conditions and in the development of the modern lighting and heating systems in our homes, telephone, radio, television, and so on, everything is the result of the ingenuity of the engineer who invents in the civil, mechanical, electrical, or chemical field.

Since our nation is now at war, the role of the engineer is even more clearly outlined. The engineers form one of the most inter-ingesting and exciting divisions of our army. They are important for an engineer in the S. Army as for any enlisted men, yes, Mr. Kirby in the front ranks.

The mechanized warfare has dou-tbled and redoubled the importance of the engineer. When tanks are ready to be sent out, to be either in the state of a river or in the state of a field, the engineers step in to solve the problem. This number one job and our only job is to bridge surmounts any of the obstacles in the way. These with this new bridge, 25 miles long, it will take 2 hours, under average conditions, to erect the bridge (an hour to 2 hours) to span the same river.

The engineers also must be prepared to solve problems for the enemy to advance. To do this, they must be able to destroy anti-tank mines, constructing barriers and raising up bridges. These are only things, they are only a few of the engineer's tasks.

And so it appears that the men staying in the U. S. J. C. will be soon prepared to do their part in the all-out war effort; a part which consists of road building or tunnel, or by any means.
Coming Attraction

The Giants from Brooklyn, representing the Long Island University team, will compete in Wilkes-Barre this Friday, Dec. 19, to pay a return visit to our Jay Cee cages in a game that will start at 9:00 in the second game of a twin bill attraction. The local YMCA meets the Pittston YMCA in a Northeastern Pennsylvania YMCA League contest at 7:30.

Heading the L. I. U. team is a brother to Dolly King, former all-around star Negro athlete from L. I. U., who tips the beans at 190 pounds and towers well over the six-foot mark. The remaining members of the squad are giants in their own right. We have to bend over to get through the doorways. Bucknell will administer a twosome to Brooklyn court, but managed to keep even in the scoring during the second half.

Coach Walter Thomas will rely on his regular lineup of Clements, Frederick or Kirby, forwards; Davis, center; Weir and Bynum, guards; Strunk, Scheible, Terrynski in reserve. This team is the outstanding cage contest in this area and always draws a huge crowd.

Annual Alumni Basketball Game

Saturday, December 21, at 9:00 p.m., the B.U.C.J. basketball team faces an aggregation of stars on loan from the list of guest performers are David Secunda, the number one man in his position, who are at the campus now. Aby assisting these two gentlemen are such hardy veterans as Jo-Jo Moshan now matriculating at Byrd, Vince Lofus, Andy Gernak, Les Lynam, Scottie Miller, Bob Romanoff, and one and only Walter Thomas.

REVIEWS SCHEDULE

tion numbers. Some of the questions to be considered are:

How do we account for the growth in the United States? Will a slowly growing national population mean more or less unemployment? What will happen to our educational system if we have fewer young people? Will business find new problems facing its leaders if we become a stationary population — neither increasing nor decreasing? What kind of organizations and professionals are likely to expand in the future? Is the quality (referring to health, etc) of our people going to change in the future if we do not increase in numbers? The requirements for these new courses are Sociology 100 and one more through the advanced Sociology, Economics, History, or Political Science. Dr. Crook also informs me of a great deal of practical work will be done in this department. Both of these new courses will not only prove to be interesting but are definitely pertinent to modern age.

Attention Please

The Junior College Physical Education Department has taken a great stride forward in matters of scheduling physical education classes in the YMCA. Previously, and even this semester, classes have been held each morning from 9-12, with intramural games Tuesday and Thursday at noon. Starting the second semester in February, all physical education classes will meet each afternoon during the week from 3:30 to 4:30.

The program concerning intramural games and varsity basketball practice has not been worked out as yet by the faculty athletic committee. Suggestions have been made that each student take only two regular hours of class work supplemented by one hour credit for intramural contests. If this pattern is followed, classes will be held Monday and Wednesday for one group, and Tuesday and Thursday for a second group. However, this setup has not been officially approved as yet.

These changes have been brought about with the cooperation of the Junior College faculty and Dr. Roy C. Tasker, faculty athletic adviser, with the aid of Walter Thomas, physical instructor, and James B. Hilkieh, general secretary of the YMCA. This setup will facilitate class handling and will make for a better program and broader game contests. The intramural bowling tourney will be aided by this change, since all classes in scholastic work will be completed by 3:30 each afternoon. Bowling has been set for Tuesday afternoons from 4:30 to 6:00.

Registration for physical education classes will be given in the same manner as all other scholastic work during the first week in February.

B. S. "A" BLITZKRIEG C. & F. TEAM

The volleyball season came to a thrilling finish Thursday, December 10, when the B. S. "A" team romped the grizzled fight-ners under the name of C. & F. in a manner that methinks would put our navy to shame. Operating smoothly and without any signs of internal dissension, such as shown by the "moneymen," they romped to an easy victory in the third and decisive game "Babe" Weiss, the ever-alert manager of the vanquished, learned afterward that the victors had used an ineligible player, but true to his own standards of good sportsmanship, the "Babe" refused to take advantage of this opportunity. His only remark to the query, "Why don't you protest?" was, "We were beaten by a better team."

This gives "Babe" a voce from this corner when it comes to nominating an all-star manager.

SWIMMING TEAM ROSTER

With the swimming season in full swing and the team boasting of 34 applicants, we bring you a list of the valiant natators of 1941-42.
