This address was on the creation of a world organization, one which will be able to prevent conflicts between nations from recurring every quarter century.

Miss Elizabeth Faint, president of the Student Federalsists, following Dr. Richardson's introduction, took the floor and made the following statement:

"We do not have a dream of world federation, but we are anxious to make the dream come true. We want a world organization that will hold our loyalties as well as the national, state, city, or town in which we live.

"For the past five years the student body has been under the watchful eye of Dr. Robert Richardson, and it is his wish to give to the future generation a better understanding of the world."

Student Council Outlines Activities

This semester a calendar of social events has been drawn up by Student Council for the students. A variety of activities has been suggested and offered in order to make sure that each student might find at least one event that would interest him. There are, however, several open dates for students to fill in. The calendar with the activities and open dates is as follows:

- April 6—Women's Day
- April 13 or 14—Open
- April 22—Movie Party
- April 27—Dinner
- April 28—Open
- May 4—Open
- May 11—Mother's Day Tea
- May 18 or 19—Open
- May 25 or 26—Play
- June 2—Pageant
- June 9—Picnic at Fairaire
- June 13—Dinner for all Students

So far events on the social calendar for March have already been held. These were the "mixed swim" and the roller skate party, both held on March 17, and Tuesday night, March 27, respectively.

MIXED SWIM

On Saturday night, March 17, thirty-five students of Bucknell University Junior College attended a mixed swim at the Y. M. C. A. Before exposing themselves to the evils of ducking, diving, and dipping, they met at the Reception Room of Chase Hall at eight o'clock. The viertola furnished music for dancing until 9:15. After the rugs were rolled back, the co-eds and fellows mingled down to the Y. M. C. A. At 9:30 the pool was alive with human fish. Some fancy dancing was exhibited by Mr. Steinmann, Shapiro, Ensign Bob Farley, and Ensign Joe Markowitz, guests of the evening. The dancing was well enjoyed by Miss Jane Nagro, Mrs. Dorothy Hughes Dyer, (Continued on page 4)

STUDENT COUNCIL PROGRAMS

This semester Student Council has proposed several programs for the next few months that pertain to the enjoyment and to the welfare of the entire student body. These programs concern themselves with social events and with courtesy and honesty.

The first plan deals with the social calendar, recently drawn up by Student Council. The calendar contains a number of varied activities for the next months with the intent of interesting every student in at least one activity. There are still several open dates for which tentative suggestions have been made. These suggestions likewise involve the “likes” of the students.

The second program is perhaps more essential. There is a seeming carelessness among the students here about such matters as courtesy in relation between students and between students and faculty as well. Courtesy and honesty are basic qualities; they are expected and even taken for granted, just as every year the seasons are expected and then taken for granted. Nevertheless, these qualities appear to be absent by their absence in many instances. Student Council has realized this and is willing to follow out a policy of correcting it, thus in turn making the students realize the necessity of maintaining these qualities.

Student Council is, we believe, taking steps in the right direction with these maneuvers. This is simply the old student tradition building up the sources of trouble and then attempting to alleviate the situation. In the first case, the calendar tries to satisfy all the students with its different affairs. In the second case, it is a question of keeping up standards.

By-laws to be adopted

Clayton Karambelas, president of Student Council, recently appointed a committee to the purpose of drawing up by-laws to be followed by Student Council. Cracking the Quip

By Jack P. Karnofsky

(Editors' Note: In this issue "Cracking the Quip" will be written by Mr. Karnofsky, who is on vacation.)

Greetings, kids. Won't you join me in the poet's nook, please?

The following lines are parodies on nursery rhymes with humorous apologies to Mother Goose:

A La cafeteria
Hot dogs hot,
Hot dogs cold,
Hot dogs in the pot
Nine days stale.
Some like them fresh,
Some like them with mold,
But I won't pay fifteen cents
For nine old days.
Dedicated to Joe Berger
Hickory, dickory, dock,
It's half past two o'clock.
If he ever got to school on time
We all would die of shock.

Mixed Swim
Saturday night on March Seventeen,
Some B. U. J. C's who thought it was kev
Went down to the Y and got ready to swim,
And dove into the pool with vigo and vim.

Roving Rover
"Cookie" had a little dog,
It followed her to school,
It backed so loud that 'tis my class
got quite hysteric.

Up-Hill Work
Eurythmics class went up the hill.
To see St. Mary Academy,
And though they stumbled, I had to run,
To keep up with those ahead of me.

English Comp. Lament
Oh gosh, oh gee! What shall I do?
I didn't write my theme.
Oh Lord, I must have one more of them,
I'll blow my top and scream!

T.E.A. Held
On Friday, March 16, the women of Gamma Chi gave a tea in Chase Hall. The speaker was Miss Annette Evans, lectured on the topic "Speaking to Oneself."

Engines Meet

On Friday, March 9, a meeting of the Engineers' Club was held in the drawing room in Conyngham Hall to elect officers to fill the new terms. The last meeting. The officers replaced were Albert Jonicki, president, and Charles Nemshick, vice-president.

New officers are:
President—Doris Raub, formally secretary.
Vice-President—Ralph Weaver.
Secretary—William Ellis.

The club plans to have more field trips. One recent trip included a visit to the Shady Plant in Georgetown. Arrangements for the trip were made by Lloyd Farley.
OUT OF THE FRYING PAN

In this issue we would like to call attention to the release of the novel "Cracking the Quip" published by the University of California Press, which is a result of the author's personal experience. The book is a humorous account of life in the 1960s and 1970s, and is available at bookstores nationwide.

CONVERSATION, 2144

7/4 Dudley James, an alumnus of the Junior College, now stationed somewhere in Germany, appeared on the radar screen with an interesting article to Miss Sangalino:

Somewhere in Germany.

"Beautiful, my friend, isn't it? Oh, don't be alarmed. I've been watching you admire the scenery while we were driving along the road. I've been watching the scenery myself for 200 years, which

Where I especially like the view this month is June—and there my first impression was a new green and the waves shimmer in the sunlight as they wrinkle along the shore, and then disappear.

"It might be a bit difficult to explain who I am; I doubt if you have ever met any of my kind. We are called 'G.I.s,' but in history we became the American infantryman two centuries ago, on this very shore. Then it was known as 'the Bastille.'

"For instance, my grassy knoll was a pillbox. A clever position, but difficult to command of the approaches. The path below, the children are rolling balls down the road, over which our equipment went inland after coming off the ship.

"What an impressive sight the ships made, stretching towards the horizon as they were moored in the distance. The blanketing of the sea. Many of them resembled flower pots, with bars, and some had steel cables in the gale breeze. Landing craft wiggled the turret to discharge driblets of supplies and to swarm back for more.

"During the day our planes were overhead, keeping watch for the enemy. However, their bombers most frequently came at night, and were met by generating multi-colored rainbows with tracer shells, circumcising against the moon. "Although magnificent, it was war. Because it was war, there was no "hell here, 200 June ago. As far as the distant cliffs lay men, torn and twisted, killing and dying, and in God that the gun and the bayonet can now be found only in muskets. They were not brought to bear with precision; a cruel barrier to decency.

"I long wondered if it was worth it. I found that it was much the same as before—and there were more and even worse scars than ever. I succeeded in living together peacefully. So I think of this beach as just another long pass in mankind's struggle to become mature and to respect his brother.

"Your description was unusually vivid. You might be surprised that it is told before by others such as you. I had serious interest in this matter. It is interesting to me about the men who accomplished our tasks.

"As a matter of speculation, did you ever consider what the world would have been like if the (Continued on page 4)

FASHION HIGHLIGHTS

By Phyllis Kirschner

This month Fashion Highlights decided to conduct an investigative report. We were able to see if the student body had any pet dislikes in respect to general apparel among our own group of women alike. We asked the men to tell us what they didn't like to see on campus and the women what they didn't like to see on men. We found some interesting and very enlightening facts which we hereby impart to you.

First, let us see what the men don't like. Harvey Trachtenberg—Too much make-up, especially Max Factor's Panakee.

John Shoemaker—Earrings and bleached hair. Clayton Kramelsab—Crooked stocking teams. Joe Peters—Ships showing out of dresses. Joe Callahan—Socks and donuts. Bob Sakowski—Those clumsy heels on shoes. (We presume he means wedges.)

John Kuts—Stoopie Joe sweatshirts. Bill Owens—Too much make-up. Ralph Beane—Dino. Frank Harkins—I don't go for any of these 20th century costumes. Give me the old-fashioned girl with hoop skirts and dozens of petticoats. (Picture Frank in "Surraty with the Fringe on Top.")

Bill Ellis—Too much make-up and arms covered with bracelets. John Pulos—Slacks and long, cowry-toed sweaters. Dick Williams—not hard to please.

Next for the feminine viewpoint:

Elayne Williams—I despise street shoes.

Eddy Miller—Two-day beards they scratch! Eleana Forish—Bright colors.

Jane MacK—Red ties and red buttons. Lillian Paszewicz—Rolled-up sleeves.

Lila June Astor—Dirty fingernails.

Jane Wolksman—Hair with scarves—Hair without scarves. Kay Vanderlick—Loud-colored shirts.

Pat Steele—Slickem on the back of her head.

Jean Witley—Long hair on the neck.

Eddy Cooper—Black color combinations.

Jean McMahon—Wrinkled collar shirts.

Dolores Matecki—Bright-colored socks.

Mary "Lu" Huter—Colored shirts. Men should always wear white ones.

Rosemary Zukowski—Suspenders—when men don't wear coats.

BASKETBALL TEAM AND CHELOR LEADERS HONORED

On February 24, a banquet was held at Hotel Sterling by students of the Junior College in appreciation of the Junior College in honors of the basketball team and the swimming team.

Clayton Kramelsab, President of the Student Council, was toastmaster of the evening and his address on the occasion included remarks by Dr. Eugene Farley, who called on the coach, Ed. Kucinski, to say a few words, and the presentation of letters to the following: Giffor Cappellini, Jerome Stadulis, Albert Jonekis, John Gorski, John Shoemaker, Harvey Trachtenberg, Clay- ton, and William Roszans. Appreciation for their cooperation was expressed to other members of the team: James Flynn, Gene Markowski, Richard Watson, Paul Kurt, Kat Kozak, Myron Freed, and Emery Lewin.

After the dinner Mrs. Nat Lev played for singing group.

John C. Keeney, navigator of a B-17 Flying Fortress of the 95th Bombardment Group, was awarded the Air Medal for "meritorious achievement while participating in Eighth Air Force bombing attacks on vital German industrial targets, Nazi airfields, supply dumps, and gun emplacements in conjunction with advances by Allied ground forces on the continent.
