Student Council Planning Budget For Next Year

Allotments To Organizations Changed in New Proposal

PUBLICATIONS FEES SAME

The Student Council of the Junior College met with the Faculty Committee on Student Activities on Thursday, May 9, to take preliminary action on the student budget for next year. The council voted to retain the semester fee of five dollars per student, making the yearly budget for extra-curricular activities ten dollars per student. Several changes were made, however, in the allocation of this fund among the various student organizations. The budget drawn up by the council appropriates the semester fee of each student as shown below. To the right of the proposed budget for next year the apportionment made to each organization by this year's budget is shown for comparison.

Athletics	$1.25	$.75
Publications	1.50	1.50
Dramatics	.50	.75
Glee Club	.25	.15
Debating	.25	.35
Contingent Fund	.25	.75
Artist's Course	1.00	.75
	$5.00	$5.00

The only item remaining unchanged is the allotment to student publications. The allotment to athletics has been raised fifty cents per student in the hope that a more extensive athletic program may be carried on next year. Increases were also made in the funds granted to the Glee Club and to the Artist's Course. The proposed budget grants less money to debating and to dramatics. The latter receives the largest cut, twenty-five cents per student. Experience this year has demonstrated that a contingent fund as large as this year's fund is unnecessary. This item, consequently, is cut fifty cents in the proposed budget.

The new budget has not yet been definitely adopted by the council. At a meeting to be held tomorrow afternoon, Thursday, May 23, this budget will come before the council and the faculty committee for final approval. Because of the importance of this matter the council decided to hold an open meeting to which all students interested in the budget for next year may come to express their views or to cite their objections. Everyone interested is urged, (Continued on Page 2.)

THE DIRECTOR SAYS:

We shall soon have completed two years of pioneering during which we have had a part in blazing trails for others to follow. Future years will show beaten paths where we have chosen the best ways. At the same time we will not have caught the true spirit of a liberal education if we expect those who follow us to hesitate to venture in new directions.

Space compels us to be content with a general expression of gratitude for the excellent performance of our students in all academic work and extra-class activities that have meant much to college student life.

We already have a few well beaten paths that those who follow will want to use. We hope that our students who shall next year be associated with a new group of students will continue the excellent work they have so well begun here.

John H. Eisenhauer,
Director.

Debating Society Completes Season

Meets Bucknell University At Lewisburg In Final Contest

The Junior College Debating Society ended its season on Friday evening, May 10, in a debate with the Bucknell University team at Lewisburg. The debate was held in the new Literature Building on the campus. This engagement concluded the 1934-35 season, which included debates with Elizabethtown, Penn State, Juniata, and two engagements with Bucknell University.

In the last debate with Bucknell University, dealing with the nationalization of the arms industry, a new split team type of debating was used. Two students from the Junior College along with two students from the University team represented the affirmative. The negative team was similarly formed. Under this plan each speaker is immediately rebutted. Both Professor Arthur Brandon, coach of the University team, and Dr. Irving L. Churchill, director of Junior College debating, intend to experiment further with this system next year.

William Orlandi, Ralph Ford, Thomas Mayock, and Maxwell Edwards represented the Junior College at this debate. The University debaters were Sigmund Stoler, John Demos, Irving Glickfield, and Miss Elsa Patton.

The Junior College debaters were conducted on a tour of inspection around the buildings of the campus by Professor Brandon.

Prof. Gold Heads P. T. A.

John S. Gold, assistant professor of mathematics at the Junior College, last evening was elected president of the Parent-Teachers' Association of the Franklin Street school. Mr. Gold has taken an active part in the work of the Association during his residence in Wilkes-Barre.

"Y" Club Hears Prof. Schuyler

Professor William H. Schuyler of the Junior College chemistry department addressed the Y. M. C. A. Chemistry Club on Monday, May 13. During his lecture Professor Schuyler performed several experiments.

LEADER PRAISED AT CONCERT

Efforts of Prof. Gies Cited In Speech

With the presentation of its fourth concert on Monday evening, May 6, the Wilkes-Barre Symphony Orchestra completed its second successful season. Under the direction of Professor Paul Gies of the Bucknell faculty, the orchestra presented as its final numbers, Joseph Stamitz's Orchestral Trio No. 1 for Strings, the Persian Dance from Moussorgski's Opera "Khovanchchina," the Haydn Cello Concerto, and Richard Wagner's Prelude to the Opera "Rienzi". The enthusiastic approval of the audience brought two encores: Schubert's "Moment Musicale," and Beethoven's "A La Polacca."

In an address during the intermission the audience was reminded of the assistance which Bucknell University has rendered the Symphony Orchestra. Praise for Professor Gies, who, unrewarded financially, made the many trips from Lewisburg in order to conduct the numerous rehearsals, was received with great applause.

First Convocation Exercise Planned

Dr. Rainey Will Be Principal Speaker On June Program

On Thursday evening, June 6, the first annual convocation of Bucknell University Junior College will be held in the auditorium. Students, parents, and friends will be invited to the exercises which will begin at 8:00 P. M. President Homer P. Rainey will be the principal speaker.

The purpose of the Convocation is to honor all present sophomores who have taken 60 hours of work and have earned 60 quality credits. This meeting will not be a graduation exercise, for students who have 40 quality credits, or an average of 70 for one of the first two years, may go on to the junior year. The Convocation will be an occasion for publicly honoring those with scholastic standing above the average of 85 or better during the freshman and sophomore years. Students in last year's freshman class who have transferred to other institutions will also be mentioned.

To add a real academic air to the occasion the faculty of the Junior College recently voted to wear their caps and gowns.

The Convocation meeting will be held primarily to recognize scholastic achievement, while at the dinner dance, to be held May 29, participation in extra-curricular activities will be acknowledged.

New Accrediting System

A new system of engineering accrediting, substituting a single method for accrediting in place of the uncoordinated methods extant, was approved at a meeting of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education. The substitution is under the direction of the Engineers' Council for Professional Development. This council is given the authority to publish a list of accredited engineering colleges. The new system will not impose any restrictions upon such colleges. Instead it aims to promote the general advancement of engineering education.

In accordance with this system the members of the faculty of the engineering schools have been asked to submit information on the systems now in use. This information will help in inaugurating the new system.

Glee Clubs Hold Banquet

The Glee Clubs of the Junior College held a banquet last evening, May 21, at Martin's-on-the-Trail, near Falls, Pa. About 22 members attended.

May Dinner-Dance Program Arranged

Dr. Eisenhauer and Students To Speak; O'Donnell Toastmaster

The program for the second annual spring dinner-dance, to be held at the Redington Hotel on Wednesday evening, May 29, was announced last week by Charles Burns, chairman of the program committee. Director Eisenhauer will begin the speaking program with a few introductory remarks. Francis Antonelli, president of the Sen Bau Society, will give a review of the activities of the men of the sophomore class. Jean Armstrong, president of the Beta Gamma Chi, will review the women's activities. Alexander Curnow, president of the freshman class, and Mary Huntley will speak as representatives of the men and women of the freshman class. Justin O'Donnell, president of the sophomore class, will be toastmaster.

Frank Antonelli, chairman of the music committee, has announced that Russ Andaloro's orchestra will play for dancing. Dinner will be served promptly at 7:00 P. M., daylight saving time. There will be dancing until 1:00 A. M., D. S. T.

The five dollar prize offered by the Sen Bau Society to the winner of the school song prize contest will be awarded at the banquet. The cash awards for the Dramatics Society's ticket sale contest will also be presented at that time.

The subscription price is $1.00 per person, and tickets may be secured from any member of the ticket committee. The following students are on that committee: Amerigo Pennoni and James Ramsey, co-chairman, John Swengel, James Burns, Charles Connors, Nicholas Goobic, Gerald Gatti, Beverly Jones, and Frances Fleming.

J. C. English Department Selects Contest Papers

Papers written by Miss Sarah Hinton and Miss Irma Hewitt for the course in World Literature have been chosen to represent the Junior College in the competition for the Bucknell University Essay Prizes of twenty-five dollars, awarded annually for the best essay written by a freshman girl, and the best essay written by a sophomore girl. Papers from the sophomore girls will be chosen within a few days. The announcement of prize winners in each class will be made during the commencement exercises at Lewisburg. Dr. Irving Churchill and Mr. Donald Stillman of the Junior College English department are acting as judges to select the entrants for this institution.

Last year Miss Jean MacKeeby, now a member of the sophomore class, won a similar prize for the highest score in the English placement test to all entering freshmen. This was the only University prize won by a Junior College student.

Students Plan Picnics

The engineering students of the Junior College and the engineers of the campus will hold their annual picnic on May 24, at Island Park, Milton, Pa. On May 25, the biology students from Wilkes-Barre and Lewisburg will hold a picnic at Kitchen Creek near Lewisburg. They hope to make this an annual affair.

President Rainey Speaks

President Homer P. Rainey addressed the Young People's meeting of the Wyoming Baptist Association on Thursday, May 16. Dr. Rainey's subject was "The Obligations of Citizenship in the Christian Way of Life."

Caps and Gowns

Academic functions of the Commencement season are approaching and with them the usual inquiries as to unfamiliar but conspicuous features. Above all, the striking colors, shapes, and symbolism of the academic garb are sure to elicit inquiries. The historical data have been examined and compiled in various histories, and descriptive material appears in any good encyclopedia. A simple concise statement may be in order here for the satisfaction of students and other inquirers.

The academic gowns, caps, and hoods are traced directly back into the Middle Ages. Their present forms are modifications of the distinctive dress of monks, friars and other ecclesiastics; of certain features of bourgeois civilian costume, and of the student dress in universities of the 12th to the 16th centuries, particularly in Oxford, Cambridge, and Paris. Likewise, the very degrees of Baccalaureate (Bachelor), Magister (Master), and Doctor, are those which became customary in the Middle Ages.

Gowns, caps, and hoods indicate (a) the department of learning in which the degree is taken; (b) the degree itself; and (c) the institution granting the degree. The caps are shaped alike for all. The tassels vary, being of gold thread for the Doctor; and for Masters and Bachelors they are either (a) uniformly white, or (b) colored according to the department of learning represented.

All gowns are black in color; they vary as to material, size, and cut. The Doctor's gown is the most voluminous; its material is the best silk. The Master's gown is usually of silk, but is of less ample proportions. The Bachelor's gown is of material other than silk. The sleeves are characteristic. On the Bachelor's gown they are long, open at the end, and terminating in a point. On the Master's gown the sleeves are closed at the end; the arm protrudes through a slit at the elbow. The sleeves of the Doctor's gown are very voluminous, and open at the end. The Doctor's gown alone may carry, and usually does carry, three broad chevrons of velvet on its sleeves, usually in the color representing the department of learning in which the degree was earned.

The hoods are the most conspicuous and unusual features of the academic dress. They seem to be extreme modifications of the hoods of friars, monks, and certain civilians of the Middle Ages. They vary in size, from the small Bachelor's hood to the very bulky Doctor's hood. The lining, which is turned outward to afford the completest exposure, is of velvet, in the colors of the institution granting the degree. The trimming on the edges is of velvet, in colors indicating the department of learning in which the degree has been earned.

The departmental colors in standard American practice are as follows:

Arts and Letters, white; Theology, scarlet; Law, Purple; Philosophy, blue; Forestry, russet; Science, golden yellow; Medicine, green; Music, pink; and Engineering, orange. D. J. G.

CLASS PRESIDENTS

JUSTIN E. O'DONNELL
President
CLASS OF 1937

The Class of 1937

The members of the sophomore class are bringing to a close two years of pleasant relationships and good fellowship here at Bucknell: In working with many members of committees on class affairs, we have seen with interest, over a space of two years, a spirit of fellowship and school consciousness evolve, forming a firm basis for a school tradition which, as time goes on, will become more valuable.

Upon entering Bucknell in the fall of '33, we were afforded the opportunity of planning and initiating almost completely our school life and activities. The educational facilities were, of course, up to the usual high standards of Bucknell's educational policy and are too well-known to dwell upon.

In the field of extra-curricular activities great interest was early manifested; so much so, that, at the end of the freshman year, there were in existence eight societies, adequately supplementing the courses of study.

This year, in addition to three more clubs being formed, the Bison Stampede made its initial appearance. At the close of this year the following societies were actively engaged in acquainting the student with the practical aspects of his curriculum: the Student Council, the Political Science Club, the Sen Baiu Society, the German Club, the Bucknell Players, the Debating Society, the Beta Gamma Chi, the Math Club, the Economics Club, the Science Club, the Epsilon Engineering Club, the Sigma Nu Sigma, and the Bison Stampede.

This record we may point to with pardonable pride as evidence of the spirit and enthusiasm with which our students entered into life at Bucknell.

It is our sincerest hope that this heritage, great or small as it may be, will be added to and enriched by succeeding classes of Bucknell men and women.

Justin E. O'Donnell,
Pres. of the Class of 1937.

Professor Richardson Speaks

Professor Clarence H. Richardson of the campus mathematics department lectured to the members of the Junior College Math Club at their meeting on Wednesday, May 15. Professor Richardson's topic was "Straight Edge Construction."

Motor Generator Installed

The Engineering Department of Bucknell University Junior College has installed a motor generator which can convert 100 volts of alternating current into 110 volts of direct current. The generator has one and one-half horsepower.

The Class of 1938

It has given me great pleasure to serve as the president of the Freshman Class (34-35) of Bucknell University Junior College. I wish to thank the members of the class for electing me to such a position, and for their whole-hearted co-operation throughout the past school year. We are justly proud of the class of '38, and I feel that it will accomplish great things and make a name for itself. The members of our class have been active in every activity offered during the school year, and many of them have played leading roles. The Freshman Dance was one of the most successful of the year, and the freshman play was as good as the best of them. The past year has been a very fine one, and I am sure that we have all enjoyed working and playing together. The sophomores have been very agreeable, and the teachers have greatly aided us in adjusting ourselves to the new conditions. I am sure that, if they had not helped us, we should have been hopelessly lost. I am sure that it has been a great honor to be a member of such a school and an officer of such a class. I hope that the next year may be as successful as, or even more successful than, this year has been and that the freshman class of next year will be able to reach the standard set by our freshman class of 1938.

Alexander Curnow
Pres. of the Class of 1938.

Ed. note:—Unfortunately Mr. Curnow's picture was not ready for publication when this issue went to press.

Sonnet On Writing A Sonnet

As on this chair I sit me down to write,
My frenzied thoughts in one great whirl do seem:

My brain with useless hopes and plans doth teem.

Alas! I fear I'm in an awful plight;
But still I have before me all the night.
I doze awhile; O pleasant dreams I dream.

If you could give me one bright thought,
I'd deem
It worthy of the deeds of any knight.

But look! my troubles are my theme;
my source!

The night seems fairer and the stars appear;

The moon shines with a brightness like the sun.

My pen takes up a swift and certain course:

Its scratch is soft, sweet music to my ear.

I sigh a sigh and smile—my sonnet's done.

—Joseph Salsburg.

The Freshman Year

A year ago we saw gates flung wide;
Two thresholds called to us to cast our fates

With them, and threw forth tempting baits

To lure us into ways by us untried.
One portal offered us the chance to stride

Into a world of labors, loves and hates;
The other stood as education's gates,
Between these two we must again decide.

A part of us will tread the world's rough road,
And some of us will choose to further see

What lies ahead before we take our load.

Whatever end our fortunes may decree,
Let each resolve to make the breezes swell

With praises of the glory of Bucknell.
—Robert Myers, '38

therefore, to attend the meeting tomorrow afternoon. If no reasonable objections are expressed at this meeting, the council, it is believed, will pass the budget as published above.

The Student-Faculty Council constitution, printed in full on this page of this issue, will also come before the council for approval at this meeting.

Pol. Science Club Completes Program

Successful Year Includes Three Dinners And Field Trips

The Political Science Club was organized early in October, 1934, through the efforts of Dr. J. Orin Oliphant, professor of history and government. Its aim was to provide an extra-curricular activity for the students particularly interested in problems of government. Part of its program was to include trips to various local government buildings and dinners at which some prominent speaker would address the club members. The major part of this program was carried out.

Officers for the first semester were: president, Eugene Gillespie; vice-president, James Williams; secretary-treasurer, Sally Hinton.

After the trip to the law library at the court house late in October, plans were made for the first dinner. This was held on November 21 at the Vanity Fair Tea Room with 20 club members present. Attorney William Valentine was the speaker. After the banquet the next move of the club was to start clipping news items from the newspapers, which were to be collected and pasted in a scrap-book, later to be presented to the college library. Various members of the club were placed in charge of different committees to carry on this work.

Early in the second semester the club had a dinner at the Y. M. C. A., at which Dr. Eisenhower was the guest speaker. A meeting of the Wilkes-Barre City Council was attended in March. On March 18, 1935, the debating club was entertained by the society at a dinner in the Y. M. C. A. During the meeting the local debaters met a team from Elizabethtown College. Professor Daniel J. Gage was chairman. The only unfinished business on the club's calendar is the completion of the scrap-book of newspaper clippings. A final banquet may be held at the Y. M. C. A.

During the first semester meetings were held three times a month. During the second semester, because of the absence of Dr. Oliphant, who took up additional duties on the campus, meetings were held only twice a month.

Officers for the second semester were: president, James Ramsey; vice-president, Robert Renville; secretary-treasurer, Sally Hinton.

Dr. Eisenhower At Conference

On Tuesday, May 13, Dr. John H. Eisenhower attended a meeting of the committee which plans the annual educational conference at Lewisburg. This conference, usually held each year during October or November, is open to public school teachers and students. The conference this fall, the committee decided, would be confined to a discussion of the general features of the curriculum. The matter of setting a definite date for the fall meeting was left in the hands of Dr. Frank Davis.

Sophomores Take Tests

The sophomores of the Junior College passed several entertaining and interesting (?) hours on Monday, May 13, when they took the culture tests made up and distributed for the delight of college students by the Carnegie Foundation. Incidentally, the tests are intended to measure the general culture assimilated by the average college student during the years spent in acquiring knowledge. The tests were also given on the campus at Lewisburg.

Pre-Med. Club Sees Pictures

The Pre-Med Club met in the women's lounge on the evening of Monday, May 13, at 7:30. During the meeting four sets of moving pictures were shown. The pictures dealt with "Circulation of the Blood", "Frogs, Toads and Salamanders", "Development of the Bird Embryo", and "Reptiles". The meeting was open to any student interested in the subjects dealt with.

"Bucknell Players" Have Active Dramatic Season

Society Sponsors Two Major
Productions and Play
Contest

PROF. KELLER DIRECTOR

The second season of The Bucknell Players, the dramatics organization of the Junior College, has been one of considerable activity and achievement. Besides sponsoring three major productions, the society carried on a regular series of meetings at which guest speakers discussed various phases of dramatics. Professor Forrest E. Keller was director of dramatics and coached the two major productions of the college. Theatricals.

On October 19, 1934, the members of the society met and elected the following officers for the year: president, Eleanor Scureman; vice-president, Robert Beach; secretary, Marjorie Richards; business manager, John O'Donnell. Cyril Freed was appointed production manager, and Ambrose Saricks, assistant to the director.

"Bargains In Cathay"

The first public performance was given on Friday, November 16, when the one-act play, "Bargains In Cathay" was presented during the Open House program. The play, coached by Professor Keller, had in its cast Jean MacKeeby, James Williams, Eleanor Scureman, Joseph Salsburg, Mellina Davis, Joseph Lord, and Cyril Freed. The same cast presented the play before the student bodies of Dallas, Old Forge, and Moscow High Schools in April.

"The Queen's Husband"

"The Queen's Husband," presented on Wednesday evening, January 23, 1935, was the first major production. In the cast were Jack Malkames, Cyril Freed, John Kresge, Helen Arms, Irma Hewitt, Hubert Hart, Ambrose Saricks, Edson Shannon, Robert Beach, Robert Melson, Harvey Harrison, Nicholas Goobic, Lois Devendorf, and Agnes Wolfe.

Play Contest

On Friday, March 1, the dramatics society sponsored a one-act play contest among casts representing the faculty, the sophomores, and the freshmen. The faculty play, "Spreading The News," was voted the winner over the sophomore play, "A Dispatch Goes Home," and the freshman play, "So's Your Old Antique," by the Bucknell University alumni, who acted as judges. The cast of the faculty play, directed by Mrs. Donald Stillman, included Mrs. J. Orin Oliphant, Miss Kathryn Hughes, Miss Majel Brooks, Mr. Irving Churchill, Mr. Roy C. Tasker, Mr. John H. Eisenhower, Mr. John Gold, Mr. Charles Godcharles, Mr. Donald Stillman, and Mr. Vincent McCrossen. Edson Shannon, Edward Hartman, Lorna Holbrook, and John O'Donnell were in the sophomore play, directed by Jean MacKeeby. In the freshman play, directed by Mary Huntley, were Ann Hirko, Robert Mayock, James Ramsey, Jack Malkames, and Lois Devendorf.

ELEANOR SCUREMAN

The final production, presented last Thursday evening, May 16, was a three act comedy, "The Clean-Up." Eleanor Scureman, Joseph Lord, Hubert Hart, Mellina Davis, Marian Peters, Irma Hewitt, Jean MacKeeby, Edson Shannon, and Robert Renville were in the cast.

Among the speakers at the regular meetings were Mr. Clinton Long and Miss Charlotte Lord of the Little Theatre and Mrs. Marguerite Evans Carozza, well-known dramatic reader.

Student Holds Pilot's License
Harold R. Shoemaker of Forty Fort, a member of the freshman class, is the only student in the college who holds a private airplane pilot's license. Shoemaker secured his license after taking a course of instruction at the Smith Flying School of the Wyoming Valley Airport. He plans to qualify for a commercial pilot's license by taking additional courses at the Flying School during the summer.

Prof. Gummo Speaks At Dallas

Blanchard S. Gummo, assistant professor of art at Bucknell University, spoke before the student body of Dallas High School on Friday, May 10. He discussed various phases of art.

During the year the dramatics society has secured several valuable possessions, which it leaves as a legacy to future Bucknell Players. These include two flood lights, one complete set, which is convertible and may be used for many different productions, a fairly complete set of tools for work in stage carpentry, and a valuable make-up kit. The set was constructed by Victor Navikas and Alphonse Warakomski. Francis Rudnicki was in charge of make-up during the year.

Bucknell Athletes Active In 3 Sports

Basketball, Baseball, Tennis
-Are Major Lines
of Endeavor

The Bucknell University Junior College has completed its second year in athletic competition. The sports season opened with basketball. Under the direction of Coach Henry Peters, the team played a difficult schedule, winning six games and losing eight. Highlights of the season were the two games with the Wyoming Seminary team. Both games were won by Seminary by very narrow margins. The team played games away from home with Colgate, Villanova, Temple, Dickinson Seminary, and Bucknell University. Leon Kolanowski was captain of the team. Scott Mills and Vincent Maslowski were elected co-captains of next year's team. Basketball was the only winter sport, although several men students with pugilistic aspirations started to organize a boxing team.

With the advent of spring, tennis and baseball, the two major spring sports, have come into prominence. An unexpectedly large interest was shown in tennis. Joe Lord and Duncan Thomas were elected manager and captain respectively. Games are scheduled with Colgate University, Wyoming Seminary, St. Thomas College, Scranton-Keystone Junior College, and Bucknell University. Mr. John Gittens is faculty manager.

A baseball team was organized by Henry Peters, who served as coach. Vincent Loftus was elected captain. The team played with different local high schools.

Tennis Team Loses St. Thomas Match

Contests Planned With Scranton-Keystone
And Colgate

The Junior College 'varsity tennis team suffered its first defeat of the season on Wednesday, May 8, to a more experienced St. Thomas College 'varsity team, after opening its schedule the previous week with a three to two victory over the Wyoming Seminary team. The St. Thomas-Bucknell match, played on the city courts, ended in a five to two triumph for the visitors. The match was very close, three players of the Bucknell team losing after they had carried their matches to three sets.

Captain Duncan Thomas, playing first man for the home six, defeated Berryman of St. Thomas, 6-2, 7-5, and then paired with John McDonough to defeat McAndrews and Berryman, 5-7, 6-2, and 6-0. Other matches resulted in victories for St. Thomas. Werthelmer won over McDonough, 4-6, 6-1, 8-6; McAndrews beat Melson, 6-3, 6-3; Kulcgycki defeated Lord, 6-4, 8-6; Lefcik won over Tom Mayock, 3-6, 6-0, 6-1; Purcell defeated Anthony, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2. The previous week St. Thomas had lost to the 'varsity of New York University by the narrow margin of five to four.

Because of inclement weather the match scheduled with Scranton-Keystone Junior College for May 10 was postponed. This postponement makes necessary a slight revision of the remaining schedule, which includes return matches with St. Thomas and Wyoming Seminary and other matches with Scranton-Keystone and with the Colgate University freshman team.
