Student Council Planning Budget For Next Year

The only item remaining unchanged in the student budget is the $500 allotted to the Athletic Association. The allotment to athletics has been reduced by $500 per year. It is hoped that any possible savings from this source will be used to pay off the deficit that occurred last year.

The total budget for next year is $25,000. This includes all funds granted to the Bee Club and to the Athletic Association. It is hoped that this budget will provide enough funds to meet the needs of the student body for the coming year.

The new budget has not yet been defined in as much detail as possible. However, the following are some of the main items that will be covered under this budget:

- Friday: 2:15 P. M. Band Concert

LEADER PRAISED AT CONCERT

Efforts of Prof. Guest Cited In Speech

With the presentation of the fourth concert on Monday evening, May 6, the Bebe Symphony Orchestra completed its second successful season of the year. George Guest, the director of the orchestra, presented a variety of music by some of the best composers of the last century, including Beethoven, Mozart, Schubert, Chopin, and others. The enthusiastic applause of the audience brought two encore's, "Mozart's "Ludwig," and "Beethoven's "Allegro." The concert was a great success and was enjoyed by all those present.
Cats and Gowns

Academic functions of the commencement season are approaching and with them, the famous gowns and caps. These are familiar symbols of the academic garb and are the objects of all the current inquiries. The historical data have been examined and compiled in various histories, and descriptive schemes of the academic cap and gowns. A simple concise statement may be given here for the guidance of students and other inquirers.

The academic gowns, caps, and hoods are usually worn by members of the Middle Ages. Their present forms are modifications of the distinctive dress of monks, friars, and other ecclesiastics; of certain features of bourgeois civilization; and of the academic dress of universities. The gowns in universities of the 12th to the 14th centuries were of different styles, as in Cambridge, and Paris. Likewise, the very从严治党, aside from academic, the Master, Magister, (Master), and Doctor, are those who became custodians of the gowns, caps, and hoods.

Gowns, caps, and hoods indicate (a) the department of learning in which the degree is taken; (b) the degree itself; and (c) the institution granting the degree. The caps are displayed for all the tassels, varying, being of gold, silver, or for the Doctor's gown alone, carried, and usually done carry, three broad cornered velvets of different colors. The color representing the department of learning, and the candidate's degree, is worn.

The gowns are characteristic on the Bachelor's gown they are long, open at the front. On the Master's gown the sleeves are closed at the end; the arm protracts through the sleeves. The academic dress of the Doctor's gown are very voluminous, and the Doctor's gown alone can carry, and usually does carry, three broad cornered velvets of different colors. The color representing the department of learning, and the candidate's degree, is worn.

The gowns are the most conspicuous and unusual features of the academic dress. They seem to be extreme modifications of the dress of friars, monks, and certain civilians of the Middle Ages.

Pol. Science Club Completes Program

Successful Year Includes Three Dinners And Field Trips

The Political Science Club was organized in October, 1934, through the efforts of Dr. J. Orin Oilplant, professor of history and government. Its aim is to provide an extra-curricular activity for the students particularly interested in problems of government. Part of its program was to include trips to the various government buildings and dinners at which some prominent speaker would address the club.

Officers for the first semester were: President, Eugene Gillespie; vice-president, James Williams; secretary-treasurer, Sally Hinton.

After the trip to the law library at the end of October, plans were made for the first dinner. This was held on November 21 at the Van-Itt Hotel. The room was rented by the club, and the members present. Attorney William Valentine was the speaker. At the banquet the next move of the club was to start clipping news items from the newspapers which were to be collected and compiled in a scrapbook, to be presented to the college library. Various members of the club were placed in charge of different committees to carry on this work.

Early in the second semester the club met again on February 11, at which time the members were entertained by Dr. Orin Oilplant, who spoke on the political system of the United States, and also visited the Wilkes-Barre City Council, which met in March. In March, 1935, the debating team of the club met a team from Elizabethtown College. Professor Daniel J. Gage was chairman of the meeting.

During the second semester the club met two times. During the second semester because of the absence of Dr. Oilplant, who took up administrative duties on campus, meetings were held only twice a month.

Officers for the second semester were: President, James Ramsey; vice-president, Robert Renville; secretary-treasurer, Sally Hinton.

Bucknell Athletes
Active in 3 Sports

Basketball, Baseball, Tennis • Are Major Lines of Endeavor

The Bucknell University Junior College has completed its second year in athletics competition. The sports season opened with basketball. Under the direction of Coach Henry Peters, the team played a difficult schedule, winning six games and losing eight. Highlights of the season were the two games with the Wyoming Seminary team, both of which were won by Seminary by very narrow margins. The team declined away from home with Colgate, Villanova, Temple, Dickinson Seminary, and Bucknell University. Coach Peters was captain of the team. Scott Mills and Vincent Malinsky were elected co-captains for next year’s team. Basketball was the only sport for which several non-students with pugilistic aspirations started to organize a boxing team. The sport of spring, tennis, and baseball, the two major spring sports, have come into prominence. An unprecedented large interest was shown in tennis. Joe Lord and Duncan Thomas were elected captain and captain respectively. Games are scheduled with Colgate and Wyoming Seminary, St. Thomas College, Scranton-Kenny Junior College, and Bucknell University. Mr. John Gittens is faculty manager.

The baseball team was organized by Henry Peters, who served as coach. Vincent Malinsky was elected captain. The team played with different local high schools.

Tennis Team Loses St. Thomas Match

Contests Planned with Scranton-Kenny And Colgate

The Junior College “variety tennis team suffered its first defeat of the season on Wednesday, May 8, to a more experienced St. Thomas College variety team, after opening its schedule the previous weekend with a three to two victory over the Wyoming Seminary team. The St. Thomas-Bucknell match, played on the city courts, ended in a five to two triumph for the visitors. The match was very close; three players of the Bucknell team lost after they had carried their matches to three sets.

Captain Duncan Thomas, playing first man for the home side, defeated Berryman of St. Thomas, 6-2, 6-5, and then paired with John Looman to defeat McAndrews and Berryman, 7-5, 4-6, and 4-6. Other matches resulted in victories for St. Thomas. Wernerheim won over McDonough, 6-4, 6-8, 9-7; and Wehbe beat Meza. Tymchak defeated Lord, 6-4, 8-6; Lefck won over Tom Mycock, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3; a previous week St. Thomas had lost to the Variety of New York University by the narrow margin of five to four.

Because of inclement weather the match scheduled with Scranton-Kenny Junior College for May 16 was postponed. This postponement made necessary a slight revision of the remaining schedule; which includes return matches with St. Thomas and Wyoming Seminary and other matches with Scranton-Kenny and with the Colgate University freshman team.
