THIRTEEN NEW INSTRUCTORS ADDED TO WILKES FACULTY

By BOB MILLER

The faculty of Wilkes College will be enlarged this fall with the signing of new members whose appointments have been announced by the administration.

In the Economics Department we will have Leon Agranat, Assistant Professor in Economics. Charles S. Steckel, who was on the faculty from Pennsylvania State College will also be in the Economics Section.

Dr. Thaddeus Miana will fill the position of instructor in Polish. Dr. Miana received his Ph. D. from the University of Cracow, Poland. He has published several articles and essays in Polish and American magazines dealing with Polish and American culture and education. He has taught in both American and polish Universities.

Hazel Hart will be instructor in Mathematics. She received her B. A. from Pennsylvania State College.

Amy MacMaster has been appointed instructor in Sociology. She received both her B. A. and M.A. from Pennsylvania State College. Miss MacMaster also attended the University of London, University of Vienna, and Columbia. She was engaged in social work, research, and writing regarding social matters.

The Dean of Women will be Betty L. Harker who will also serve as Instructor of Psychology. Miss Harker received her B.A. from Lawrence College and her M.A. from Northwestern University. She will be instructor in Chemistry. She received her B.S. in chemical engineering from Drexel University.

THIRD ISSUE OF MANUSCRIPT READY; COPIES WILL BE PLACED IN CHASE HALL

By EDIE RUDOLPH

Today the Manuscript will make its second appearance at Wilkes College with a publication of 8000 words, increased from the previous issue of 4000 words. The Manuscript has been increased in size because the war has given rise to war news, many of which are of a critical nature. The Manuscript will continue to be published weekly, but the frequency may be increased in the future.

The Manuscript will continue to present news and information of interest to the students and faculty of Wilkes College.

By GEORGE BRODY

Friday Wilkes College invades West Point for the season's opening game and to galvanize this this will be a very important event. However, no doubt, it will be the biggest event of the Wilkes schedule and a victory is sure to usher in a successful season. To this end, Ralph has worked his work hard.

The coach is not optimistic. He has predicted the team's conditioning, shortened the scrimmage sessions. The dream of the isherside find themselves with a sturdy defensive line. Ralph Jayvorse show a three-year unbeaten season, the Academic scoring record, and the psychological advantage of the players.

Ralph, the biggest headache, is present. The question of his role, is still in the air. Coach Ralph realizes he needs a signal caller, but feels that he isn't quite ready to select his man. If the man is available, this will be fine. The probable starting lineup is as follows:

By R. E. Yeary

1. B. E. Hendershot
2. C. Lewis
3. L. G. Gorgas
4. E. Miller
5. W. R. Waters
6. B. R. Josephs
7. F. R. Supinski
8. T. R. Florkiewicz

The Manuscript Will Be Out Tomorrow

All students attending school this summer must complete their final examinations on September 29 or 30. Failure to do so will result in a charge of $5.00 late registration fee. There will be no exceptions made to this ruling because the great number of students on waiting lists seeking admission.

Day school students will be enrolled to even coming courses only if the subjects required are not offered in day school, and then only by permission of the registrar. The time of Mac or Dr. Palmer.

Day classes for the fall semester will start on October 9. Evening classes start September 29.

LIBRARY WILL BE EXPANDED

Mr. Joseph Mayors, librarian of the Wilkes College Library, announced this week that there will be three new rooms added to the library.

The expansion of the library will be made by acquiring three large rooms on the first floor of Kirby Hall. The new library rooms will be on the two rows that are present cur use by the Commercial Department, and room number 108 which is being used by the College.

The new rooms will provide the library with much needed space. The new additional space is to be used mainly as reading rooms, and also in addition to cover the need of Wilkes students attending the University.

The library has also purchased 1500 new books adding to the library's growing collection. A list of the new books will be printed in this issue of the library. The library is in the process of selecting a new library and the new books will be available in the library to the student body.

At an election held in the inclosure at Kirby Park yesterday, members of the 1947 football team favored John Florkiewicz and Gerald Wasisco as co-capitains of the squad.

Four members of last year's unbeaten squad were nominated for the positions of co-captains. The four were, Bob Waters, John Florkiewicz, Bob Gorgas, and Gerald Wasisco.

Before the election Coach George F. Bartlett gave the boys a short pep talk and impressed upon them the importance of picking a captain that had all the qualities needed for the position.

Wasico, who will be in the first-string tackle slot this year, is a senior at this college. He played on the railroad for this institution last season. Prior to coming to Wilkes he attended Nanticoke High School, where he played the backfield instead of the backfield in 1941-42, under Coach Stanley Galatin. Florkiewicz, another Nanticoke High graduate, played two years of scholastic football in 1940-41, under Galatin. He alternated with Francis Pinkowski at the quarterback slot last season. When Wilkes Invades Wilkes, was umpire at the 1947 football

MISS BETTY L. HARKER

Born: October 10, 1924, in the town of Kunkletown, Luzerne County, Pennsylvania.

Miss Harker graduated from Luzerne High School in 1942, and then attended Luzerne College, where she majored in home economics.

Miss Harker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Harker of Kunkletown, and is a member of the Kunkletown Church.

Yearbook, Beacon Staffs To Meet Friday, Sept. 26

A meeting will be held on Friday at noon in the Beacon office to discuss plans for the Yearbook and Beacon for the coming semester. Members of the past staff of the Yearbook and present staff of the Beacon are urged to attend. Any student interested in joining the staff is encouraged to attend.

Betty L. Harker will assume the position of Dean of Women with the opening of the fall semester. Miss Harker received her B.A. degree from Lawrence College and her M.A. degree from Northwestern University.

Upon graduation from Lawrence College, Miss Harker held the position of housemother at a college in Oregon. She then accepted a position as a research assistant in the institution of a concern employing two thousand. From here Miss Harker returned to Pennsylvania College for Women for her master degree.

Miss Harker's educational and business background should prove invaluable in her new position as Dean of Women.
At present a chapter of the AVC, a national veterans' organization, is being organized on this campus.

Many active veteran students at Wilkes have long feared the institution of a veterans' organization on this campus. The chief objection to the establishment of a veterans' chapter here has been that such a chapter can easily effect an insurmountable breach between veteran and non-veteran students. At this time when this college is in its infancy, a time when cooperation among all students is needed to help in directing the growth of the college, it is particularly evident that a breach between two such factions can be most unfortunate. It should be understood that a breach is not predicted, but it is possible.

The number of non-veteran students entering this college is increasing in great proportion. In fact, all of the students entering here in the fall, sixty per cent will be non-veterans. In subsequent semesters the percentage will greatly increase. It is probable that they will present the establishment of a campus organization of which they cannot be part.

Another objection to a veterans' chapter here, arises from the fact that such a chapter has in the past, and still misinterpret, the aims of a veterans' organization on a campus as a means of obtaining veterans' demands from the college. It must be emphasized that veterans have no special status in college. They are solely students, but have no separate organization.

Since it is likely the chapter will be formed despite any objections, those who have been opposed to veterans' organizations at this college hope that the leaders of the chapter will consider the intentions of the chapter and will not allow its purposes to be misdirected.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

I wish to answer the letter in which Mr. Daniels and Mr. Miller have written to the editor, criticizing the "Yearbook." First of all, Mr. Daniels and Mr. Miller were not informed as to why the "Yearbook" was delayed. If these two students were informed as to what they were writing about, they might have written a statement, for were articulated in the delay of the "Yearbook" on the front pages of the March 14 and March 28 issues of the BEACON.

The name of the book is clearly printed on the cover. It is called THE BEACON, and the word BEACON is in large, gray letters. This is a title name which might have satisfied our two outspoken critics of our publication.

I am very sorry about the duplications of photos, but publication is perfect. Furthermore it is the policy of the "Yearbook" to list as many students as possible and gain the wealth of knowledge from actual experience gained from publishing the book rather than to hire professionals who would undoubtedly present a better book. One of the purposes of the publication is to gain the wealth of knowledge that can be gained from practice alone.

Welfare Committee, Being Organized

A committee is currently being organized on this campus to plan the role the Wilkes student Welfare Committee will play in Welfare Drive which will open on October 1. The committee will attend all classes and drive to raise funds that will extend welfare to veterans who may have been overlooked in the last Welfare Drive.

HE LOOKED IT

The colored soldier had been the feature of a lecture in which we had gathered. Turning to a fellow W. P. he said: "What do you suppose that Negro did?"

"Ah dunno," replied his co-worker.

"He walked up to the stand, put his caption on the caption strip, turned it in, and then the picture editor came around and looked at it."

"Oh, yes, he did," was the reply.

Editor's Note

The colored soldier and the caption editor were both members of a Wilkes College Photostaff. They were among the many students who have been involved in the student Welfare Drive.

At the end of the present semester, the Polish Club will sponsor film "The Color of the Cross for Service" which has been highly recommended by the Polish government. The film is a musical about Poland and its struggle for freedom. It will be shown on October 30 in the College Chapel. The price is $1.00 per person.

I entered the cabin of the sur- plus glider, which I maintain as my living quarters, and prepared, for an exhilarating flight—er, studying, as finals were looming in sight. Finals had taken to looming instead of hovering due to the scarcity of hovering since the war.

Suddenly I became aware of a disturbing sound. “Bloop, bloop, bloop,” reverberated through the cabin. I turned to the water faucet, thinking it to be the source of the melodious disturbance, but remembering a bit of financial trouble I had with the water company, I realized that since there was no water in the pipes there couldn’t possibly be a drip.

I looked in other directions for the disturbance, thinking all along that “bloop, bloop” would make a wonderful song novelty for someone to compose. Suddenly my eyes fell on an object curled up in my mustard bag, which was hanging on the wall. I was convinced that “bloop, bloop” was being issued by the oddest part of the bag, the heaviest of the basset hounds I keep on hand for such purposes and prepared to put an end to the life of the interloper when suddenly I saw a pair of legs and a hand that belong to Hank Anderson, my editor! Hank will have hisdemarces plus a tendency for nosing, which accounted for the “bloop, bloop.”

“Sorry, Hess,” I said, “but it will have to be snipped.”

“Aw, come on, Rein,” he pleaded, as he playfully began swinging a straightedge razor naively nicking off a piece of my left ear.

“Can’t do it, I said. “If I write a column for you, I’ll have to join the Columnists’ Trade Union. If you know what I mean, I’ll be asked to do character sketches for the local paper. It will have to be the Character—Schemers’ Union. Then, as my work will undoubtedly improve, I will be asked to write editorials. That means joining the Editorial Writers’ Union. By that time I’ll have a load of dough on me, and will have to set up a riding academy, as that is a business where knowledge of how to write comes in handy. I own this riding academy and I’ll be doing fine until some of my men join the Horse-Groomers’ Trade Union. Naturally they won’t work under the same contract with those of my men in the Manure-Spreaders’ Union, so I’ll have to change the contract, but it probably won’t agree with the Tail-Sladders’ Union, as they’ll claim it a-ways getting the back end of the deal.”

“I’ll get out of the riding academy business with just enough capital to set myself up in the junkyard business (another business where knowing the art of writing is an asset). I’ll just make up my original investment and be

In my previous articles I have given you a few tid bits of information concerning the outstanding trios in the valley. In this article I will attempt to give you a little info from a different point of view on the Allen Forest Trio. I happen to be very well acquainted with Allen Forest because that is my professional name.

The trio is comprised of Walter Rice on clarinet, Eugene Benton on accordion, and myself (Allen Forest) on piano and solovox.

The style of the trio is not exactly original. I have based my arrangements on those of the Three Suns. I was a bit skeptical as to how the public would take them. It took me ten weeks to receive my answer. The arrangements were very well received throughout the valley.

Many problems confront the leader of a band or trio. Arrangements are made, cut, thrown in the waste paper basket, and rewritten. Rehearsals may be pleasant or unpleasant. At a rehearsal coasters, thrown aside, ties are taken off, and shirt collars are opened. Three or so grueling hours of practice cease. Comments are made by the members of the trio, both pleasant and unpleasant. I am forever stressing the importance of dress and actions while on the road, and I believe that the fellows dress immaculately.

Fall Enrollment Largest In History Of This College

By TED WOLFE

The enrollment for the forthcoming fall semester at Wilkes College is the largest the college has had in its 14-year existence as an institution of higher learning. In addition to the 1300 students who will attend day sessions, there will be approximately 600 students pursuing courses in the evening. This brings the total to an all-time high of 1800, compared to 1000 in 1940. Of the nearly 400 incoming freshmen, sixty per cent will be non- veteran high school graduates. This is in contrast to previous years in which they were composed largely of World War II veterans. The institution will also experience an increase in its enrollment of women, from 135 of the new students.

Evidence that Wilkes popularity is steadily increasing can be noted from the fact that the registration includes 51 advanced students who have been accepted by other colleges prior to entering this one. These students represent such institutions as the University of Pennsylvania, Western Reserve, Columbia, the University of Chicago, Duquesne, and others.

Also entering Wilkes are some students from other academic institutions. From China come two 18-year-old girls, one of whom is a new Miss Way who is from Shanghai, intends to pursue a career in either music or drama. Miss Won from Kuming Yen-nan, will enter the business school. The girls are working toward a common goal—a greater China.

Here from Spain to study chem istry is Manuel Duch, Mr. Duch pre- viously attended Mrs. Haber's School of Fine Arts and graduated from a secondary school in Barcelona.

It has been nice to meet the United States six months. His par- ent, the present, are in business with San Salvador, Central Amer- ica.

Gen in operating the black, when understanding his work, Gen is known as a student of the Junk-Sorters’ Union will demand cleaner working-conditions and surroundings, so I’ll have to buy a long, the Bag-Picker-and- Litter Collectors’ Union. After building both unions swimming pools to use in the summer when the lake is open.

“Can’t,” I said. “If I’ll get out of the junkyard business, I’ll probably sink my last penny in a Milk-Curd- ing Plant. I’ll get along fine until the Cudders’ Brotherhood demands the same wage scale as the Bottle-Dippers’ Union. I’ll have to in- crease wages, and in addition, build a Solarium-cafe to soothe the union members’ unrest. That will mean a necessary increase in the price of curdled milk, and as the editorials written about me, accusing me of the profiteering and being responsible for the death of thousands of innocent baby Armandelles, the state will be black-balled by the Human- itarians’ Union, and all self- respecting people are going to go out of business, and attack me as a walkout in my plant, causing me to lose every penny I own.

“In despair I will hit the rode, fall off a fast train, lose my memory, fall in love with a beautiful heroine, promise to marry her, fall on my bed, wake up, and realize: memory, leave the beautiful girl, and marry someone with bismuth. Some smart Hollywood script-writer will hear about me, write the story of my life with my permission, call it POSSESSED, and I won’t make a penny out of it.”

“Now, Hank,” I continued, “I just can’t write that column for you.”

Again I placed the pair, “Bloop, bloop, bloop, bloop.” I looked into the musette bag and saw that it had fallen asleep again.

I carefully covered him with an old blanket, tenderly kissed him on the forehead, and left him in the care of his mother and sister.

John Riley To Join Wilkes Faculty

By RUSSELL WILLIAMS

The first graduating class of Wilkes College is comprised of five men who will complete their four-year course at the end of this semester. However, first graduation exercises of the college will not be held until June 12, 1841 when a speaker of world-wide reputation will deliver the commencement speech. The five graduates will be issued certificates of graduation in lieu of diplomas when they receive in June. The diplomas will be received from Bucknell University.

John Riley, current president of the Student Council, will be a member of the faculty here at Wilkes College following his graduation. He will teach Economics 101 and 102 while doing graduate work. The degree of Bachelor of Science in Commerce and Finance will be awarded him at the close of the present semester.

Wally Jones has secured a position with the Daily News and Broadstreet in Philadelphia and will follow his duties following his graduation. He will receive the degree of Bachelor of Science in Commerce and Finance.

Joe Blazon will return to the employ of the General Electric Company. He is a Commerce and Finance student and will receive a Bachelor of Science degree in that course.

Frank Kocher will enter the employ of Eastman-Kodak in Rochester, New York. Mr. Kocher is also a Commerce and Finance student and will receive a Bachelor of Science degree.

Hatchin’ It Out --

By BRODY

At the end of four weeks of intensive drill, Coach George Rankin furnished us with our uniforms by walking over the broad playing field where some forty stalwarts were busy jarring each other's teeth, dipped deep into a barrel of glue and quaffed his fill. "West Point is too good a school to be beaten by a line of three touchdowns," he grunted in typical "Gloomy Gil" Dobey fashion.

"Why, I prodged him, "are we that bad?"

"Bad! Look!" So it looked. It looked good. We haven't had a fast man on the team, he continued No breakdown or climax runner who can be a threat on the fifty yard line!" At that moment one of the guards approached by like a jay that had three touchdowns, he grunted in typical "Gloomy Gil" Dobey fashion.

Contest To Name Athletic Teams Opens

Contest Opens Today, Closes Oct. 5; Winner To Be Announced Oct. 10

A twenty-five dollar United States Victory Bond will be awarded to the student who sends in the ballot bearing the best suggestion for a nickname for our Wilkes College athletic teams. It was decided at the last meeting of the Wilkes College Student Council that a new nickname should be chosen for this school's athletic teams to take the place of "Bisons," which was used when this college was known as Bucknell University Junior College.

The contest opens today, and will close midnight, October 5. The event will open to all students of Wilkes College. Ballots should be sent to Tom Moran, Public Relations Department, Wilkes College, for the affair will be headed by Tom Moran, editor of the Wilkes Beacon, John Boller, president of the Wilkes College Student Council; Nelson Nelson, editor of the Wilkes College Accouint; Nan Richards, editor of the Wilkes College Literary Magazine; Jack Josephs, president of the Wilkes College Letterman's Club; Tom Moran, director of sports publicity; and George F. Paleon, director of athletics. The winner of the contest and the awarding of the twenty-five dollar Victory Bond will take place on Friday night, October 10, at the school's first fall semester sports dance, which will be held in the pavilion at Knox Park, Orchestra for the dance will be Lee Vincent and men. Vincent's band has played for several past Wilkes College dances and was so well received that it was decided to engage the popular young musician and his group for the first dance of the fall semester.

Committees, headed by Tom Evans and Charlie Temploth, starting making plans for the dance last Sunday. Plans call for a gigantic floor show which will feature the best in the college's student talent. The Wilkes College cheerleading squad will be present to lead the group in cheerleading during the pep rally which will be held in honor of the first Wilkes College home game scheduled the next afternoon against Keystone College at Kingston Stadium.
