Sophomores Sponsor Shamrock Stroll

The Wilkes Chapter of the Collegiate Council of the United Nations will be extremely busy on March 28, 29 and 30. The Continuation Committee of the Collegiate Council will meet at the Model General Assembly on that weekend, hosting 500 students from the Mid-Atlantic States.

The purpose of the Model General Assembly is to enlighten the students in the field of international relations and to acquaint them with the mechanics of the functioning of the United Nations. The "strengthening of the United Nations" is the general theme which will be carried out in the Assembly.

About fifty colleges and universities will send representatives to the Assembly to present the views of approximately fifty-five countries. The Wilkes delegation will represent Ghana, and Seth Aanah will act as advisor on the policies and conditions of his home country.

Seth is a junior on campus and a native of the Gold Coast, specifically Monrovia, Liberia. Members of the Wilkes delegation are new, preparing for their part in discussions on world problems by studying literature on Ghana and background information on rules of procedure, minutes, etc.

Activities will begin on Friday afternoon at 1 p.m. in the gym with registration. Preliminary sessions will be held throughout the weekend, and will be presided over by Philip Byriel of Albright College who is president of the Model General Assembly. Mr. H. R. E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, will be the guest speaker.

In the post of secretary-general, carrying out administrative duties, will be Dave Vann, president of the local chapter of the CCUN, and vice-president of the national organization.

Members of the Wilkes chapter preparing for the Assembly are: Herman Fleischer, United Nations flag and decorations; Bob Amey, arrangements in the gym; Ellen Lazarus and Al Lester, housing; Roman Berek, arrangements; Heddy Herbachowski, art; Marianne Lemenke, invitations; and Wendy Moore, Mary Ann, and Carol Cowens.

The Wilkes Chapter of the United Nations plans to sponsor a number of activities at the Assembly. Among these, two are particularly noteworthy: the sale of stamps and programs; and the tea and reception for Mrs. A. H. Paterson of Ghana.

The purpose of the Stamp and Program Sale is to raise money for the purchase of stamps and programs which will be sold at the Assembly. The sale will be held at the Assembly on Saturday, March 29, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The reception for Mrs. A. H. Paterson of Ghana is being sponsored by the Wilkes Chapter of the United Nations in order to give Mrs. Paterson an opportunity to meet the students of the Wilkes Chapter and to exchange ideas on international relations.

The reception will be held at the Wilkes Chapter House on Saturday, March 29, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

The Wilkes Chapter of the United Nations is deeply grateful to the students of the Wilkes Chapter for their support and for their cooperation in making this Assembly a success.

The Wilkes Chapter of the United Nations looks forward to a successful Assembly and to the opportunity of meeting the students of the Wilkes Chapter.
In the last few weeks the longest major strike in American labor history has achieved a renewed and deserved importance in the public eye. The Kohler Company, a manufacturer of washers and dryers, and the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations management-labor sub-committee has at the continuously probing of Barry Goldwater et al begun its probe of Walter Reuther, his United Auto Workers and especially its 45,000 month Kohler strike.

Since it is for Goldwater and Reuther, respectively, the smoking gun versus left wing labor philosophy who did not want to give the articulate Reuther a chance to speak at the opening hearings.

Chairman McClelland had originally accepted a recommendation that the hearings on the strike open with comprehensive statements by company spokesmen, then by Reuther. But the Re-coupled raison d'etre of the public hearing - this with some justification in view of the previously published in previous labor hearings.

The evidence developed no new, but merely a description of the struggle at the Kohler plant in Wisconsin.

In the "model village" live 1,400 persons representing largely the supervisory personnel, in near- by Sheboygan lives the rank and file of about 4,500. Two these early and totally caught up in the struggle between arduous hours and non-striking manage ment employees.

Historically the company's relations with labor have been bitter. In the early 1930's the plant was organized by a CIO, and in 1934 this union was broken in an unsuccessful strike. Kohler then embarked upon a policy of "fire and help," its labor problems. He built his company on a state by state basis to be a company union. But its membership went over almost in a body to the UAW as soon as possible.

In 1954 the UAW called the workers out over the company's refusal to renew the union contract which called for discharge arbitration and adequate protection from discrimination. That strike continues today to 65 as in the union of over $10,000,000, to the employer of serious business damage, and in the face of divided families and friendships. At the start there was mass picketing which closed down the plant, but after two months, mass picketing was banned by court order and the plant reopened. This company has been in the news-clashes with company police, vandalism of homes and property property and work rooms, theft and dressing up of the workers and defiance of all administration. The company agrees to preferential rehiring of strikers and arbitration of any incidental labor pressure has been put on the company by an NLRB examiner's finding of Kohler guilt of unfair labor practices.

But, Herbert Kohler, uncompromised employer of the old school, maintains the union is guilty of unlawful violence by violence, unfair boycotting, and he refuses to meet UAW demands.

It is undoubtedly true that the union has committed more its share of viciousness nationalism, its nationwide pressure on purchasers of Kohler plumbing fixtures, but

FOR WHAT IT'S WORTH

Are you tired of getting C's?? Do you want to get better grades and still enjoy an active social life?? Well, the first thing to do is stop taking notes and examinations. You may be going about the task the wrong way.

Why burn the midnight oil in cramming for an exam? We do not promote that you should go to a movie the night before an exam; however, that's not a bad suggestion either.

What do we suggest is that students formulate a study plan - one that will really work.

We recently noticed a booklet at the college bookstore which should aid students in setting up a method of study. The booklet is How to Study and it is compiled by the John Hopkins University. How to Study contains practical pointers and rules for studying, as well as essays on talking notes and examinations. Specific directions and techniques are offered in addition to examples showing what works and what doesn't work.

We believe this booklet may aid students to see the forest from the trees.

The recent Asian Book Drive was a big success according to a report from Mrs. Nada Vujic, librarian at the college. Approximately one hundred books and magazines were collected. These books and magazines will now be mailed to the Asian Drive headquarters in San Francisco.

We wish to compliment the students for their cooperation in the above drive with the full cooperation of the faculty committee members in charge of the collection - Mrs. Gertrude Doane, dean of women; Miss Millie Gittis, and Mrs. Nada Vujic.

The young man in the store was embarrassed. He said helpfully: "I'm supposed to buy either a canoe or a camille, I can't remember which.

"That's easy," said the salesman. "Is the chicken dead or alive?"

Nothing Was Said

Patrick and his wife had always wanted a ride in a plane, but as long as $200 seemed too high for them. At the airport, the amased pilot offered Pat a proposition. If Pat and his wife would ride for an hour without talking, the pilot would change the ticket only $5.

Pat thought this was a fair proposal and he and his wife climbed into the plane. Throughout the trip, they didn't utter a word either.

The flight included the looping, riding upside down, and going through dizzy dives and tailspins.

"If you charge me $200," said Pat, "you've got to do it. "It took guts to go through all that without uttering a word." "Aye," said Pat, hopping his way with his handkerchief. "But I'll never know how close I came to kiting 'when the wife fell out.'"

Note of Thanks

The following letter was received on Monday by the Senior Class of Wilkes College (It pertains to their annual Beard Dance): Dear Friends,

I am indeed glad to receive your very kind letter of the 21st, and you can be sure I was most happy to be able to help. Here's to bigger and better mustaches! Yours truly,

MORGAN CAPS CAREER WITH 35 IN FINAL APPEARANCE ON COURT

Named Week's Athlete
For Leading Colonels
To Best Cage Season

This week's Beacon "Athlete" award goes to "Big George" Morgan. The big center rightfully deserves the award for his great work in the Colonels' final victory at Albright on Saturday night. The Blue and Gold basketball squad stopped Albright by a 72-67 count.

George receives the award this week on the strength of his scoring and rebounding in the victory which enabled the team to complete a very good 14 won, 7 lost season, the best in Wilkes history. "Big George" controlled both boards the entire game and came through with some timely tip-ins and beautiful defensive work to keep the Colonels in the game in the second half. He hit on 15 field goals and 5 fouls to finish his final collegiate game with 35 points. This last big game enfolded George to finish the season with better than 34 points per game average. His scoring record here at Wilkes stands at nearly 900 for the past two seasons. This gives him over 22 points per game average during this same period.

A senior, George is majoring in business administration. Upon graduation he plans to continue on a career in insurance underwriting, even though he has bad feelings from the St. Louis Hawks of the N.B.A., to try his hand at professional basketball.

BOY CHOIR PERFORMANCE HIGHLIGHTS ASSEMBLY
by Tom Scureman
Tuesday morning the student body was entertained by the delightful singing of the Warren Boy Choir of Warren, Pennsyl-
nia. One of the especially charming features of the school boys' performance was their obvious enjoyment in singing.

Their red robes with gold sashes and the less formal short suits were reminiscent of the German boy's choir for which that nation is famous.

One of the highlights of the program was the "Echo Song" with three boys, in the back of the gym, providing the echo. "He was described," a selection from Handel's Messiah, was sung by an alto soloist. One twelve-year-old student rendered an expressive version of the spiritual, "Water Boy".

The program also included two numbers by Palestrina, "Ascendit Deus" and "O Bone Jesu", "Blit du bel mir" and "Break Forth, O Beau-teous Heavenly Light", both by Bach. For the rest of the program, which was in a lighter vein, the boys, in a change of costume, sang "Echo Song" by di Lasso, "Galway Piper", an Irish air, a hallelujah by Mozart, and "Birth of the Blues".

Ten years ago, a group of ten boys decided to form the choir and asked Mr. Byron Swanson, the present director, to lead the new organization. Eventually the choir consisted of fifty boys, ranging from nine to twenty years of age. The boys are trained at the Conservatory of Music in Warren, of which Mr. Swanson is director.

In 1956 the choir appeared at Town Hall in New York City before an audience which included four of New York's leading critics. The choir has appeared on the Herald Tribune, the New York World Telegram, and the trade magazine, Musical America. Without exception the critics applauded the performance. The choir has been described with such phrases as "superbly schooled" and "incredible perfection".
