M.G.A. PLANS PROGRESSING

Barbara Vose

The students in the Wilkes Chapter of the Collegiate Council of the United Nations will be extremely busy on March 28, 29 and 30. The Continuation Committee of the Collegiate Council will sponsor a Model General Assembly on that weekend, hosting 500 students from the Mid-Atlantic States.

These are seven of the CCUN members who will host 500 students from over 50 Middle Atlantic colleges in a three-day session of a campus Model General Assembly. Seated, from left to right, are: Cliff Kobland, Francine Bishop, Judy Richardson, and Mary Homan. Standing: William Duffy, Robert Amey, and Don Murray.

The purpose of the Model General Assembly is to enlighten the students in the field of international relations and to acquaint them with the mechanics of the functioning of the United Nations. "The Strengthening of the United Nations" is the general theme which will be carried out in the Assembly.

About fifty colleges and universities will send representatives to the Assembly to present the views of approximately fifty-five countries. The Wilkes delegation will represent Ghana, and Seth Ansah will act as advisor on the policies and conditions of his home country.

Seth is a junior on campus and a native of the Gold Coast, specifically Monrovia, Liberia. Members of the Wilkes delegation are now preparing for their part in discussions of world problems by studying literature on Ghana and background information on rules of procedure, minutes, etc.

Activities will begin on Friday afternoon at 1 in the gym with registration. Plenary sessions will be held throughout the weekend, and will be presided over by Philip Eyrich of Albright College who is president of the Model General Assembly. Mr. Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, will be the guest speaker.

In the post of secretary-general, carrying out administrative duties, will be Dave Vann, president of the local chapter of the CCUN and vice-president of the national organization.

Members of the Wilkes chapter preparing for the Assembly are: Herman Fleissner, United Nations flag and decorations; Bob Amey, arrangements in the gym; Ellie Lazarus and Al Lester, housing; Roman Borek, arrangements; Heddy Horbaczewski, art; Marianne Levenoskie, invitations; and Wendy Russo, Mary Anchel, and Ann Curran. ## DRIVE FOR HOSPITAL GIFTS STARTED BY WILKES JAYCEES

by Bill Zdancewicz

The Wilkes Chapter of the Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a two-week campaign for the collection of recreational articles for patients at the Retreat State Hospital. The campaign officially opens on Monday, March 17, at which time collection boxes will be placed on campus for the articles donated by the students.

Reynolds' Music to be Featured At First Dance in Three Weeks; Souvenir Favors to be Presented

by Jim Eidam

The sophomore class has advanced the calendar three days and will observe St. Patrick's Day tonight as it presents "The Shamrock Stroll" at the college gym. Dancing will be from nine to twelve to the music of Frankie Reynolds and his orchestra. This will be the first appearance of this band on the Wilkes campus in several years.

SORORITY BAKE SALE TOMORROW FROM 9:30

The Annual Theta Delta Rho bake sale will be held tomorrow in Pomeroy's Department Store. The traditional sale will begin at 9:30 and continue until 5:30 or until sell-out.

Everything from cake to candy will be sold by sorority members in the fifth floor booth. Since all the goodies are home-made, a great rush of business is expected and Sandra Ungar, general chairman, has urged all members to help sell. Any member who has some spare time on Saturday, can drop up and lend a hand.

In the past, the TDR bake sales have been successful in reaching their goal. The main goal again this year is to add to the scholarship fund. Each year the sorority grants a partial scholarship to some deserving girl and the money for this grant comes from activities such as the bake sale.

The bake sale depends on the donations of the sorority members. Although the mothers of sorority members usually do the cooking, it takes a few hints from the girls themselves to promote a little extracurricular cooking.

While the sorority members have been recruiting cooks, they also have been telling grandmothers, aunts and neighbors about the sale so a large representation of town people is expected.

Working with Miss Ungar are several committee chairmen who are in charge of seeing that a large variety of baked goods are on hand. These chairmen are: Jozia Mieszowski, cakes; Vicki Kovacks, bread and rolls; Mary Ellen Zwiebel, cupcakes; Virginia Margavitch, candy; Peggy Kratz, pies; and Lynn Boyle, cookies.

GROVE CITY DEBATE EVENTS POSTPONED

The four-man varsity debate team, originally scheduled to meet at Grove City College this weekend to defend its state championship, was informed that the state tourney will be postponed because of widespread illness in the vicinity of Grove City.

Last Saturday, four novice debaters from Wilkes were entered in the annual Scranton Novice Debate Tourney and placed second among the five teams participating with a 4-2 record, Wilkes won this tourney in 1956 and 1957.

Three of the novice squad had never appeared in a tourney previous to last Saturday. They are: Roberta Feinstein, sophomore elementary education major; Bill Duffy, junior economics major; and Evelyn Godleski, sophomore elementary education major. The fourth member of the team, Don Murray, participated in the state debate contest here last spring,

According to Bob Beneski, who is serving as the general chairman for the affair, souvenir favors will be presented to each person in attendance. The admission price for the dance will be fifty cents. Tickets are available from the members of the ticket committee and will also be on sale at the door.

The following sophomores are serving as committee members for tonight's dance:

Band, John Mulhall, chairman; Art Hontz, Frank Edwards, Allyn Jones.

Planning, George Reynolds, chairman; Roy Morgan, Frank Steck, Bob Adams, Charles Billings,

Bob Beneski

Adeline Chopak, Roger Cease, Paul Klein, and Grace Sheasley.

Refreshment committee members are: Connie Yahara, chairman; Gordon Roberts, John Kuhar, Evie Lebowitz, Marcia Senderovitz, Pat Ide, Carolyn O'Rourke, Barbara Bachman, and Beverly Nagle.

Publicity is being handled by the following: Arnie Mrozinski, chairman; Georgianna Sebolka, Vincent Murphy, John Matthey, Ira Himmel, William Maxwell, and Pat Hemenway.

Paul Katz, Bill Edwards, and Todd Bower are members of the cleanup committee, of which Ronald Simms is serving as chairman.

and also debated at a novice tourney in December.

Murray and Miss Feinstein debated affirmatively, and were undefeated. They won over Scranton, Marywood, and Lemoyne.

Duffy and Miss Godleski represented the negative, defeating Scranton and bowing to King's and Lemoyne.

EDITORIAL

Thoughtlessness Endangers Bowling

Last Sunday night, the intramural bowling league suffered another night of poor attendance which caused officials of the Jewish Community Center to question the advisability of allowing Wilkes to continue to enjoy guest privileges in the bowling lanes.

The Center has many bona-fide members who would like to bowl on Sunday nights, but cannot because the college people have been allotted the time. The generous consideration given Wilkes bowlers has been repayed with thoughtless and unnecessary inconsideration by a handful of students. Two teams have failed to appear on schedule for the past three weeks, a violation of the league's agreement to post six teams of five bowlers each on the alleys every week.

This shameful behavior must not be repeated. If Sunday night's games are not fully attended by each team, the league will be disbanded immediately. It would be a pity to see the pleasure of the majority spoiled by a thoughtless few. Team captains and bowlers take note and act accordingly. — RJM

by Fred Roberts

In the last few weeks the longest major strike in American labor history has achieved a renewed and deserved importance in the public press as a part of a larger controversy. The Senate management-labor sub-committee has at the continually prodding of Barry Goldwater et al begun its probe of Walter Reuther, his United Auto Workers and especially its 45 month Kohler strike.

Since it is for Goldwater and Reuther the final showdown of right wing versus left wing labor philosophies, conservatives did not want to give the articulate Reuther a chance to speak at the opening hearings.

Chairman McClelland had originally accepted a staff recommendation that the hearings on the strike open with comprehensive statements by a company spokesman and then by Reuther. But the Republican committee members fought Reuther's early appearance fearing his ability to easily sway his listeners, and McClelland yielded to break the deadlock.

The Republicans wanted the staff to build a background of violence, vandalism, and boycott before Reuther's appearance — this with some justification in view of the precedent established in previous labor hearings.

The evidence developed, to no one's surprise, applies to both sides a rather tarry brush, but it serves also to point up the larger context of the struggle at the Kohler plant in Wisconsin.

There in a "model village" live 1,800 persons representing largely the supervisory personnel. In nearby Sheboygan lives the rank and file of about 4200. These two groups were early and totally caught up in the struggle between ardent unionists and pro-management employees.

Historically the company's relations with labor have been bitter. In the early 1930's the plant was organized by an A.F.L. union, but in 1934 this union was broken in an unsuccessful strike. Kohler then embarked upon a policy of paternalism as a solution to his labor problems. He built his company town and formed a company union. But its membership went over almost in a body to the UAW which organized the plant in 1952.

In 1954 the UAW called the workers out over the company's refusal to renew the union contract which called for discharge arbitration and adequate protection from silicosis. That strike continues today at a cost to the union of over $10,000,000; to the employer of serious business damage, and in the face of divided families and friendships.

At the start there was mass picketing which closed down the plant, but after two months, mass picketing was banned by court order and the plant reopened. This brought recurrent waves of violence—clashes with company police, vandalism of homes and property of strikers and non-strikers alike, and disgusting beatings.

The UAW will settle if the company agrees to preferential rehiring of strikers and arbitration of disputes. Additional pressure has been put on the company by an NLRB examiner's finding of Kohler guilt of unfair labor practices.

But, Herbert Kohler, unreconstructed employer of the old school, maintains the union is guilty of unlawful coercion by violence and unfair boycotting, and he refuses to meet UAW demands.

It is undoubtedly true that the union has committed more than its share of abuses, and that it is using nationwide pressure on purchasers of Kohler plumbing fixtures, but

BIOLOGICAL SOCIETY TO HEAR UROLOGIST

March 19, Dr. William J. Daw, Director of the Department of Urology at the Wilkes-Barre General Hospital, will address the Wilkes Biological Society. His topic will be "Infections of the Kidney."

The lecture will emphasize the prevalence and importance of kidney infections in everyday life. Since the advent of antibiotics, this problem has become more important since many of the organisms have become drug resistant. Problems to be considered from a biological standpoint will be the recognition of the infection and methods of diagnosis that can be carried on in a biological laboratory. Methods of treatment and progress of such cases will be lightly discussed.

Dr. Daw also plans a research program at the Wilkes-Barre General Hospital on kidney infections and hopes to carry this further with the co-operation of the Wilkes College Department of Biology especially concerned with the field of bacteriology.

This program will be an extensive study of the causes of persistent and recurrent kidney infections. The purpose of such a research project will be to enable students interested in the field of bacteriology to work in conjunction with a hospital project.

Dr. Daw received his BA and MD degrees at the University of Pennsylvania. He is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons and a Diplomat of the American Board of Urology.

The Wilkes Biological Society extends a cordial invitation to anyone interested in hearing Dr. Daw's presentation. The lecture which will begin at 7:30 will be presented in Room 116 of the Stark Science Building.

CITY SCHOOL CLUB HOSTS ED. MAJORS

The members of the Education Club were recently the guests of the Coughlin High School Education Club at an installation tea held at Coughlin.

Margaret Jones, president of the Wilkes Education Club, conducted the services for the newly elected Coughlin officers. A short program was given which included a piano solo, a vocal solo, and a short speech by Mr. Francis Truscott, principal of Coughlin.

Wilkes students attending the tea were: Margaret Jones, Evelyn Lebowitz, Beverly Nagle, Barbara Bachman, Nancy Boehm, and Joan Llewellyn.

An invitation was extended to the Coughlin Club to attend a social meeting of the Wilkes Club on Tuesday, March 18. Beth Reed, chairman of the entertainment committee, has planned an interesting program. All members and prospective members of the Education Club are urged to come to this event for a most enjoyable evening.

"Mommy, why is it that Daddy doesn't have much hair?"

"He thinks a great deal, dear."

"But, Mommy, why is it that you have so much hair?"

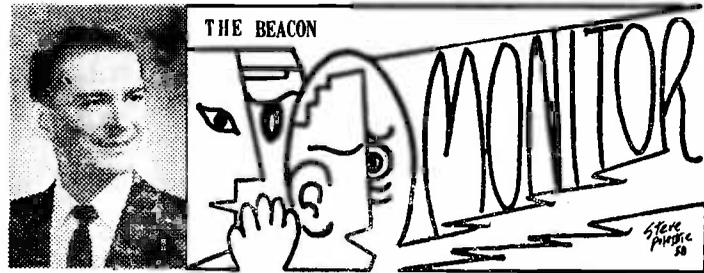

"Finish your breakfast, Dear."

the weapons unions have are limited and, taken individually, relatively weak; moreover, it seems to me that there is little question where the final blame lies.

Kohler in refusing to accept the representation of his workers by a strong union precipitated the strike, and he has perpetuated it by continually refusing to arbitrate.

The UAW has even recently suggested that federal arbitration, perhaps by the Senate subcommittee itself, be attempted. But, Kohler again refused.

The current hearings will, it is hoped, force a reasonable conclusion to this most unfortunate strike, but it is certain that the UAW will come out certified as militant and politically inclined but completely uncorrupted because with the Kohler strike, Mr. Goldwater has shot his biggest bolt and missed the mark.

For What It's Worth!

Are you tired of getting C's??? Do you want to get better grades and still enjoy an active social life??? Well... the first thing to do is analyze your study habits. You may be going about the task the wrong way.

Why burn the midnight oil in cramming for an exam? We do not promote that you should go to a movie the night before an exam; however, that's not a bad suggestion either. What we do suggest is that students formulate a study plan — that will really work.

We recently noticed a booklet at the college bookstore which should aid students in setting up a method of studying. The booklet is How to Study and it is compiled by the Johns Hopkins University.

How to Study contains practical pointers and rules for studying, as well as tips on taking notes and examinations. Specific directions and techniques are offered in addition to examples showing what works and what doesn't work. We believe this booklet may aid students to see the forest from the trees.

Ready to Go

The recent Asian Book Drive was a big success according to a report from Mrs. Nada Vujica, librarian at the college. Approximately one hundred books and magazines were collected. These books and magazines will now be mailed to the Asian Drive headquarters in San Francisco.

We wish to compliment the students for their cooperation in the Drive and also, our compliments to the faculty committee members in charge of the collection — Mrs. Gertrude Doane, dean of women; Miss Millie Gittins, and Mrs. Nada Vujica.

It All Depends!

The young man in the store was embarrassed. He said haltingly: "I am supposed to buy either a casserole or camisole, can't remember which."

"That's easy," said the salesman. "Is the chicken dead or alive?"

Coming Up

Tomorrow evening, Saturday, March 15, the Faculty Women of Wilkes will sponsor a covered dish supper in the college Commons. All faculty members are invited to attend.

Coffee Hour — The Wilkes Faculty Women will sponsor a Coffee Hour on Tuesday, March 18, from 3 to 5 in the Commons.

Students and faculty members are invited to attend this informal get-together next Tuesday. Chairman of the affair will be Mrs. Gertrude Doane.

Nothing Was Said

Patrick and his wife had always wanted a ride in a plane, but the price of $20 seemed too high for them. At the airport, the amused pilot offered Pat a proposition. If Pat and his wife would ride for an hour without talking, the pilot would charge them only $5.

Pat thought this was a fair proposal and he and his wife climbed into the plane. Throughout the trip, they didn't utter a word.

The flight included looping the loop, riding upside down, and going through dizzy dives and tailspins.

"I've got to hand it to you, Pat" said the pilot. "It took guts to go through all that without uttering a word."

"Aye," said Pat, mopping his brow with his handkerchief. "But ya'll never know how close I came to talkin' when the wife fell out."

Note of Thanks

The following letter was received on Monday by the Senior Class of Wilkes College (It pertains to their annual Beard Dance):

Dear Friends:

I was indeed glad to receive your very kind letter of the 21st, and you can be sure I was most happy to be able to help. Here's to bigger and better mustaches!

Sincerely yours,

DANIEL J. FLOOD, M. C.

Still Going Strong!

We are pleased to mention that many students are still contributing their pledges to the Wilkes Development Program. Pledge cards are available in the college bookstore and students wishing to contribute may see Millie Gittins for a card.

CEGERS ENJOY WINNING YEAR FOR SECOND STRAIGHT SEASON

Improvement was the keynote for Eddie Davis and his cagers this season, as they wound up the year with a solid 73-67 win at Albright on Saturday.

The win was the 14th, a new high for Colonel courtmen. They suffered only seven losses, one less than last year's banner season, hiked their 1946-58 record to a total of 112 wins against 139 losses. The wins have made rapid strides towards equalization in the past three years.

At Albright, Big George Morgan and fiery little Eddie Birnbaum went out in a blaze of play-making and point-scoring glory. The co-captains shared the honors, Morgan hitting for 35 points, Birnbaum acting his usual role of sparkplug and playmaker. It was the end of college basketball for the two seniors.

Fran Mikolanis and George Gacha each contributed 13 points to the cause. The game marked the first time this season that Davis has depended entirely upon only a limited squad. Bob Turley and Bernie Radecki were the other men (continued on page 4)

Neki Hoki Five Wins Intramural Cage Title In 72-29 Runaway Game

by Jim Hennighan

For the second year in a row the Neki Hoki intramural basketball squad has dominated National League play and ended the season undefeated. To top their impressive league record, they captured playoff honors and last Wednesday night romped to a decisive victory over the American League playoff champions, the Dirty Rotten Low-down Hombres, by a 72-29 score.

In the championship game last Wednesday night, the two league champions met in a sudden-death playoff for the college's intramural honors. The first quarter was even at 6-all, but in the second period the power of the winners began to tell and the Neki Hokis surged ahead, 25-9, at the half.

DIAMONDMEN DRILL FOR BUSY SCHEDULE

Preparing for the long-awaited cry of "play ball," the Colonel diamond squad has been meeting with coaches John Reese and Bill Mock at the gym every afternoon for indoor drills.

The outlook for the coming season, according to Mr. Reese, should be considered at about the same level as last year. Three key men were lost, Bob Sokol, Bob McGurrying and Minnie Minarski, but replacements in the form of freshman infielder Ron Palazzi and ripening sophomores from last year's successful squad should make up the difference.

Named Week's Athlete For Leading Colonels To Best Cage Season

This week's Beacon "Athlete" award goes to "Big George" Morgan. The big center rightfully deserves the award for his great work in the Colonels' final victory at Albright on Saturday night. The Blue and Gold basketball squad stopped Albright by a 73-67 count.

George receives the award this week on the strength of his scoring and rebounding in the victory which enabled the team to complete a very good 14 won, 7 lost season, the best in Wilkes history. "Big George" controlled both boards the entire game and came through with some timely tap-ins and beautiful defensive work to keep the Colonels in the game in the second half. He hit on 15 field goals and 5 fouls to finish his final collegiate game with 35 points. This last big game enabled George to finish the season with better than 24 points per game average. His scoring record here at Wilkes stands at nearly 900 for the past two seasons. This gives him over 22 points per game average during this same period.

A senior, George is majoring in business administration. Upon graduation he plans to continue on a career in insurance underwriting, even though he has had feelers from the St. Louis Hawks of the N.B.A., to try his hand at professional basketball.

BOY CHOIR PERFORMANCE HIGHLIGHTS ASSEMBLY

by Toni Scureman

Tuesday morning the student body was entertained by the delightful singing of the Warren Boy Choir of Warren, Pennsylvania. One of the especially charming features of the school boys' performance was their obvious enjoyment in singing.

Their red choir robes with gold sashes and the less formal short suits were reminiscent of the German boys' choir for which that nation is famous.

One of the highlights of the program was the "Echo Song" with three boys, in the back of the gym, providing the echo. "He was despised", a selection from Handel's Messiah, was sung by an alto soloist. One twelve-year-old soloist rendered an expressive version of the spiritual, "Water Boy".

The program also included two numbers by Palestrina, "Ascendit Deus" and "O Bone Jesu", "Bist du bei mir" and "Break Forth, O Beautiful Heav'nly Light", both by Bach. For the rest of the program, which was in a lighter vein, the boys, in a change of costume, sang "Echo Song" by di Lasso, "Galway Piper", an Irish air, a lullaby by Mozart, and "Birth of the Blues".

Ten years ago, a group of ten boys decided to form the choir and asked Mr. Byron Swanson, the present director, to lead the new organization. Eventually the choir consisted of fifty boys, ranging from nine to twelve years of age. The boys are trained at the Conservatory of Music in Warren, of which Mr. Swanson is director.

In 1956 the choir appeared at Town Hall in New York City before an audience which included four of New York's leading critics from the New York Times, the Herald Tribune, the New York World Telegram, and the trade magazine, Musical America. Without exception the critics applauded the choir's performance and described it with such phrases as "superbly schooled" and "incredible perfection".

The Hombres, American League champs, consisted of Czoch, Zielinski, Frank Steck, Paul Klein, George Reynolds, Bill James, Ron Simms, and Ron Wajda.

Looking Ahead

In their first year of Conference participation, the Colonels turned in a noble performance with a 9-2 record, losing to a powerful Scranton quintet in playoffs for the Conference title.

Morgan and Birnbaum will be missing from next year's edition of the basketball team, but the showing of the bench this year indicates that there are a few men returning to take up the slack. Hopes are high that the steady improvement over the years since Davis began coaching will continue and that next season's conference activity will be dominated by the Wilkesmen.

Academic Requirements Completed by Sixteen For Bachelor Degrees

Sixteen seniors completed the requirements for their degrees in February at the end of the Fall semester. Although these students are finished with their academic training at the college, they will not receive their diplomas until the annual commencement in June.

Included among the graduates are the following city students: Peter Gale, A.B. in mathematics; George Morrash, B.S. in Commerce and Finance; Samuel Mines, A.B. in biology; Thomas Myers, A.B. in English; Charles Steinhauer, A.B. in philosophy and religion.

If you answered "No" to all questions, you obviously smoke Camels—a real cigarette. Only 6 or 7 "No" answers mean you better get on to Camels fast. Fewer than 6 "No's" and it really doesn't matter what you smoke. Anything's good enough!

But if you want to enjoy smoking as never before, switch to Camels. Nothing else tastes so rich, smokes so mild. Today more people smoke Camels than any other cigarette. The best tobacco gives you the best smoke. Try Camels and you'll agree!
