HELEN MILLER APPOINTED EDITOR OF 1959 AMNICOLA

Miss Helen Miller has been appointed by Mr. Cathal O'Toole, in conjunction with the Board of Publications, to the position of Editor of the 1959 Amnicola.

Miss Miller is the junior art major and has been a member of the yearbook staff for three years, serving as Art Editor of the 1959 Amnicola. She has been active in Cole 'n' Curtain and has helped design and paint the sets for all the productions of that organization this year. Miss Miller also did the program cover for the annual variety revue, Paint Your Wagon.

She is a member of Theta Delta Rho, Miss Miller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Levenson, a senior majoring in art education. She is an active member of Theta Delta Rho, the Education Club, and CCMU. During the recent Model General Assembly, she was a member of the editorial staff in charge of the planning of the affair.

Miss Levenson has also been active in painting sets for Cole 'n' Curtain. She designed the program cover for the recent Cinderella Ball and has done several posters for clubs on campus.

The names of the business manager, copy editor and photo editor were not announced in time to appear in this issue of the Amnicola.

New Officers Elected By Wilkes Collegians

At the recent election of the officers, Dick Myers was elected president for next year's term. Other officers are: vice-president, Wayne Walker; secretary, John Salter; treasurer, Carroll Davis; assistant secretary, John Holden; and auditor, Bob Morgan.

The group plans to make a larger number of appearances around the valley - at schools, church and civic functions, and general community affairs. If possible, a formal concert may be in the making for next year.

John "K.K." Thomas will serve as correspondent for the men's section.

1959 Manuscript Has 'New Look'

by Jim Eidam

The Manuscript, literary and art magazine of the college, is ready for distribution on campus, according to the editorial staff. Since there is a tremendous variety of material incorporated in this year's issue, the magazine will undoubtedly be of interest to all who read it. Contributions in the form of essays, short stories, poems, and art work have been submitted by faculty members and students of Wilkes.

The theme of the publication is "Past, Present and Future," as the works which appear have been classified accordingly. Two essays are contained in the section devoted to the Past. They are Gordon Roberts' "Selections from the Sermons of St. Augustine," centered around the theme of proving the existence of a Divine Being; and, George Black's "The Significant Middle Ages," which relates some noteworthy achievements of the period which historians commonly identify with intellectual stagnation and "darkness."

The second section, featuring the Present, contains a variety of short stories and essays. "For Ladies Only," a humorous and somewhat satirical commentary on "ladies'" magazines, is offered as one of the lighter pieces of work. It is a most enjoyable essay by Elena Devenne, "Never to Know," by Barbara Federer, is an expository biography of an unfortunate member of a b a w o d a Pennsylvania farm family. Additional features in this section are: "Lassos Moon," by Robert V. Stavros, "Was He Mad?" and "Football Fever," which are captions to the photos on the cover, Pat Hemenway.

Four photographic reproductions of works of Mr. Bernard W. Zinna and a bust by Dr. Kruger will also appear.

The editorial staff of the Manuscript consists of the following personnel: Ed McDermott, editor-in-chief; R. J. Fordyce, associate editor; John Toner, business manager; and Peggy Salvatore, photography editor; Patricia Hemenway, art editor.

NOTICE! The students of Wilkes wish to announce that additional favors will be secured for those girls who did not receive one at the recent "Delightfully Tall, Finely Feathered Dinner Dance."

End of the Line

Today marks the end of another academic and social year at Wilkes and it also marks the end of another year of publishing the Beacon. We are ending the fourth year of our serious and joyous activity. There will be others to take our places here at the college as we begin our futures elsewhere. We have had a busy and good year, and we have thoroughly enjoyed working on the Beacon. The last six months have been excellent, not only because of the enthusiasm of our staff but we leave with the feeling that the paper will be left in competent hands. We wish Marion Klawon and her staff the best of luck, and we hope that the profit of the Beacon will continue to increase.

This year’s Business Staff was handled more efficiently than previous staffs in the past few years, and we have had better and more efficient news from our regional editors. We would like to thank the six-page papers because of the extra funds the ads brought in. We salute Tom Myers, who was responsible for this achievement, and Coril Hollas and Peggy Schwaarz who carried on Tom’s good work when he graduated.

Of course any publication could not be successful without the guidance and encouragement of Mr. Frank J. Solley who was always the best possible one we could have. We needed only to present a reasonable request to him, and he worked until our request was completed. It was his interest in knowing exactly what we were planning to do each week and he was always willing to offer constructive criticism.

Naturally the mechanical aspects of a newspaper are most important, the printing even more so. However, the hard work can be enjoyable when with pleasant people such as Mr. Stanley E. Schmidt and his sons, Eddie and Leo, from Schwalb’s Printing. We have received here the Beacon to the fullest extent and we have enjoyed working with them.

We will miss Wilkes College and the Beacon next year but we will not forget all the pleasant experiences we have had.

Opinions expressed by students and special writers are not necessarily those of the Wilkes-Barre Beacon. Facts Worth Noting

This being our closing issue of the year we wish to mention a few worldly facts which we believe are worth noting. First of all, the price of television sets has increased 30% since last year. If they are anything like the car, they may go up another 10% this year. Secondly, what do you think of the price of record players? They are up 50%. Last, we should mention the price of meat. The price of beef has risen approximately 15% since last year. In addition, we should mention that the price of feed for cattle has risen approximately 50%. We hope that these facts will give you a glimpse of the inflation that is going on in the world today.

Letter to the Editor

Madam Editor:

In the May 9 issue of this Beacon, Professor Lehet says of the inflationary wage demand of the unions: “These (unions) demands, met by the key companies, set in motion a chain reaction for the entire economy. Labor costs having risen, prices now rise. If continued, this wage bargaining will lead to the ultimate and excessive decrease of profits. Unemployment will result and the British firm will have to close down the company.”

Professor Lehet’s statement is evidence to prove that it is not the union movement but the unionization of the wage philosophers who are responsible for the price increase. The theory that the wage increase is due to the union movement is a total and utter falsehood. If continued, this wage bargaining will lead to the ultimate and excessive decrease of profits. Unemployment will result and the British firm will have to close down the company.

The technical term for this condition is “administrated pricing.” The administration of prices in the face of a recession, the shortage of supply and demand dictates that prices should fall, and yet the giant corporations do the exact opposite of what theory lies a basic cause for the creeping inflation that Philip Lehet was so careful to point out.

A quick look at the price indices also shows that unions, although in theory responsible for the price increase in the United States, have little responsibility for current price increases. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that prices in March 1958 rose 19% over the previous year. However, the increase is due to the fact that prices which rose sharply — 37% since the 1947-1948 period — have almost completely increased in the consumer goods of food.

The Christian Science Monitor of October 24 reports that a survey of the nation’s industrial and commercial leaders shows that “there never was a more serious domestic problem than that of the labor unions.” Again this neglects empirical facts. The increase in the power of the labor movement is actually decreasing as measured in several ways.

The Labor Department reported in November that if one computes the total strength of the AFL-CIO, and compares it with the independent unions with the expansion of the U.S. labor force as a whole it is evident that the proportion of union strength has decreased. This rose slowly to a peak in 1930, and has fallen off since then. The number of members has fallen to 30%. The latest 1958 figures are 25.4 million. The proportions of the country’s labor force which are unionized dropped from 1957 that from 1954 to the end of the year, from 26.2% to 21.5% — a growth of 4.7%. In other words, labor’s share of the total is decreasing at an alarming rate. This trend is more true than ever more true as a result of the recession.

Union power can be measured not only in membership but in the financial power of the labor unions. The financial power of the labor giants vanishes. Newspaper reports that the combined assets of all the $80 odd labor unions are still less than of Metropolitan Life.

The United States Steel Workers Union has assets of $20 million while the United States Steel Corporation has assets of $8 billion. It is obvious that the assets of one union are of course of greatest significance when it comes to the common strike. One wonders, therefore, if the $20 million in the hands of 15% of the country’s workers can ever be an equal. Although union members only recently have had anything to do with the $20 million in the hands of all the country’s workers, it is not the same union movement that was so powerful a number of years ago.

In conclusion, we believe that this attack upon the labor movement is a logical one. If the concept of the union is in fact sound theoristically; and that Philip presents no solution to the problem he poses, other than the implied destruction of the union movement, it is to say the least an untenable position.

Sincerely yours, BRUCHARLES BALDWIN
AWARD ASSEMBLY HELD ON TUESDAY

Mrs. Liva Will Judge Auditions

Doctor In Allison, Austin, Texas, President of the National Guild of Piano Teachers, has named Mrs. Ferdinand Liva as judge for the Piano Auditions in Cleveland, Ohio, May 19-25.

The Cleveland Center is one of the largest in the country. It is divided into three sections, a choirman for each center. Mrs. Liva will judge for Dr. Franklyn Cornman, chairman of the first center.

Since 1929 the National Piano Auditions have been sponsored in organized centers from coast to coast for the purpose of stimulating a deeper interest in artificie piano playing. An examiner of repute is sent to each city. Students from the earliest beginner to the artist, adult performer can enter the auditions.

They are held privately and on the order of conservatory tests and examinations. Performance is graded on the following points: Accuracy, continuity, phrasing, dynamics, pedaling, rhythm, tempo, interpretation, style and technique.

Report cards with detailed analysis by the judge are presented to students. Certificates, diplomas, and fraternity pins are awarded in each classification.

Mrs. Liva has been active in solid work for twenty-one years and is a member of the board of adjudicators. She is a member of the Wilkes College faculty.

ECONOMICS CLUB TOUR

Twelve members of the Economics Club toured the Bethlehem Steel Company last week. The tour was conducted by Mr. Reylbitz of the Bethlehem Corporation and included the machine shop, the open hearth, the rolling mill, and the exhibition hall. They also saw a movie entitled, "35 Minutes with Bethlehem Steel," depicting the growth of the steel industry.

Members attending: Mike Melnik, Frank Steck, Ron Simons, Al Kuchinsky, Ray Sordoni, Charles Gromko, Bill James, Harold Stan- nion, Joe Schoenover, Reggie Turkowski, John Buseck, and Bob More.

But perhaps, currency and appraisal that I am completely satisfied. It is important to remember that when we go to war, we are not only fighting for the sake of the "freedom of the world," but we are also fighting for the sake of the freedom of the American people. We must remember that the cost of war is very high, and we must be prepared to pay that cost. We must also remember that the cost of war is not just financial, but also moral. We must be prepared to make sacrifices, both material and moral, in order to win the war.

NEW FOOTBALL COACH WRITES OPEN LETTER

To the Male Students of Wilkes College:

This is an open invitation to the male students of Wilkes College to try out for the varsity football team on September 25. Winning football teams are made of men with courage and ability; extraordinary desires; I promise that it won't be easy to have a winner and there will be a lot of hard work. I believe, however, that there are men in the student body who are willing to give of their time for that feeling of satisfaction that comes with pride of having made the sacrifices necessary for a good job for the best results.

DIAMONDMEN ROUT VIKINGS WITH 11-RUN EIGHTH INNING

Returning home for a game on Tuesday against the Upsala squad from New York, the Colonels spotted the visitors eight runs and came from behind to grab an error-filled, 18-8 win in a non-conference battle.

Ralph Hendershot, slugging centerfielder for the Blue and Gold aggregation, had a busy day at the plate with four hits in five trips to the plate. He scored three times and drove in four runs. His one out came on a tremendous fly ball to center which sent Upsala fielder Burnett back to the fence before bounding in the ball for a long out.

The visitors jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first, increased to 7-5 in the fifth and led 8-4 going into the eighth inning. Then the Colonels struck like a bolt out of the blue, registering 11 big runs on five hits, while capitalizing on walks and errors to put the game on ice. Upsala failed to score in its half of the last inning.

In that big eighth inning, Walt Folke walked twice, Mike Godzik, Mike Dydo, Joe Parmalee, and Ralph Hendershot each got a free pass once. Hendershot smashed a big double, Ray Kryzman and topped that with a triple. Dydo contributed a double. Garga and Ron Palazzi each hit singles for the most productive single inning in many years. Ron Palazzi made the catch of the year when he took a drive over his shoulders in the seventh inning, catching it in the wall and picking up a few braves for his efforts to rob the New Yorkers of a potential rally.

Boyd Haupt started for the Colonels, but left in the sixth inning. George Gacha vacated the leftfield spot to take over on the mound. He retired the side, then worked his way through the next two innings without incident to take the win in his second in succession.

Haupt was pitching well, but the Colonels had trouble finding the handle on the ball and committed seven errors behind the southpaw. Upsala fared very little better, contributing to pitcher Rawding's downfall with five errors.

Totals: Wilkes, 18 runs, 13 hits, 5 errors. Upsala, 8 runs, 10 hits, 5 errors.

The overall record for the year now stands at 8-8 against four losses for the Colonels, who lead the Middle Atlantic Conference North Division with a 7-1 record.

First Come, First Serve

Last Saturday at Carisle, the Colonels suffered their first defeat in Middle Atlantic play, going down to a 9-1 defeat at the hands of the Dickinson Red Devils in the first game of a doubleheader, but bounced back under the steady pitching of right-handed George Gacha to cap the night-cap of the bargain bill by a score of 8-2.

Steazir Eddies Brolleya suffered the defeat of the opener, as the Colonels failed to show any of their latent power after arriving late and having insufficient batting practice for pre-game warmup.

In the second tilt, however, the locals had their own way, hitting heavily and making up for lost time to pull away to a 10-3 Conference championship race.

PLANS UNDERWAY FOR 1958-59 BOWLING, ADDITIONAL NIGHTS, COLLEGE TEAM SEEN

Plans are underway for a bigger and better intramural bowling season next year. The new automatic pinsetters at the Jewish Communi ty Center make it possible to arrange new and more convenient hours for the students to set up their schedules. It is hoped that two leagues will be formed next year, with the action to be divided among several nights, rather than just one, as has been the case over the past years.

Next year, Dan Lewis and Dick Myers will arrange for the scheduling and procurement of alleys, bowlers who participated in the past season or who would like to bowl next year are urged to contact either of these men now to help formulate plans which will allow a greater number of people to take part in the popular and beneficial sport.

Tentative plans for an interscholastic league bowling season are also under consideration, making the coming year particularly one of long nights and the Conference championship race.

PHONIES WIN SOFTBALL TITLE ON ONE-HITTER BY DURISLAN

Intramural softball came to an end on Wednesday night at Kirby Field when Joe Durishan hurled a one-hitter for the Phonies, American League champs, to down the Dirty Hombres, 6-1. The game was the second consecutive playoff contest for the Phonies, members who ended the regular season tied with Club 20. The tie forced a playoff for the National League title on Tuesday, which turned out to be one of the best games ever seen in the local season. Club 20 was edged out by a 10-9 score, in spite of a record four-run hit by George Morgan. The Phonies, who were also called on to pitch, were led by "Big" Joe Durishan, who was both hero and goat, when he hit a big fly pop fly for the final out of the game, which could have gone either ways.

The Phonies, called by George Yenian, held a perfect record throughout the season, and were leading the league when the league crown on a 4-0 record. They won in impressive style and were led into their last game by a perfect game by Jace Sisk. Norm Hyland, Larry Williams, Aramond Caruso, Gregg Trednowski, Art Guck, Art Gack, Andy Bashin, Chuck Billig, Bob Anderson, Art Miller, C. J. McCollin, Robert Turley, Roger Klein, Joe Moldzi, and Dan Jacobs.

The Hombres were called out by Paul Klein and Glenn Johnson. The Phonies had won only one loss in the regular season, and held a 4-4 record to tie with Club 20. Team members were: Paul Klein, Bob Anderson, Art Miller, C. J. McCollin, Robert Turley, Roger Klein, Joe Moldzi, and Dan Jacobs.
