BEACON Selects Co-ed
To Reign for Weekend
Of Games and Dances

by M. J. Klawun

The BEACON’s choice, Miss Marian Burdo, will be crowned Homecoming Queen by Dr. Edgar, faculty at the annual Homecoming football game this afternoon. Miss Burdo was elected from a choice of 10 other candidates last Friday. Miss Theresa Mazarella and Miss Joan Llewellyn were chosen to reign with Marian as princesses.

Queen Marian, a senior terminal student majoring in medical stenography, will make her first official appearance at the soccer game tomorrow. Following her coronation at the football game, she will be the guest of honor at the annual Interdormitory council party at The Commons.

Saturday evening Queen Marian will wind up her royal activities as guest of the Alumni at their dance in Irene Temple Country Club. She will be welcomed at the dance by Mr. Jerry Luft.

Janice Lehto, Beacon Editor, and Miss Anita Janderich of the Alumni Association will present Queen Marian with several lovely gifts, among them will be a gold wrist watch, compliments of the Beacon. A list of gifts and their donors will be published in the Beacon in next week’s issue.

Miss Burdo is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Burdo, 46 Northwood Avenue, Elkhart City. She is active in ‘Ye Curtain and has been chosen as one of the dancers for the forthcoming production, Paint Your Wagon. Marian will be assisted by the dancers of Theta Delta Rho during her tenure at Wilkes and also played on the girl’s basketball team last year.

While attending Kingston High School, Queen Marian was active in drama and swimming and plans to be both the junior and senior plays. She was named to the National Honor Society in her junior year at Kingston.

Queen Marian will preside over the football games wearing a genuine ermine trimmed cloak. The cloak made by the mother of Anita Janderich, Alumni Secretary, Stein’s Furs of Public Square donated the ermine trim the cloak which has been on display in Stein’s window during the past week.

SENIORS INVITED

The Alumni Association has invited the seniors to attend the dance Saturday night at the Irene Temple Country Club. This is the first time that the Association has invited seniors to the dance honoring the Homecoming Queen. Tickets are on sale for $1.50.

The seniors have graciously offered to contribute the flowers for the queen and her court for the football game.
EDITORIAL

Thank You So Much...

We've worked hard to make this year's Homecoming a success, but we could not have been able to make several of the necessary arrangements without the help of Aitin Jurisch, Alumni Executive Secretary, and several other people connected with the college. Anita made the arrangements to secure a lovely throne and crown for the queen, all at her own expense. Mrs. Jurisch's mother, Mr. and Mrs. Jurisch, gave us permission to use their house, and Mr. Jurisch arranged some exciting activities for the weekend. We must remember to give our thanks to our queen and the many others who made this Homecoming a memorable one.

We believe that Marjorie Riddle, Toni Scruenger, Mary Louise Onumber and Jim Edson, who have given their time to insure a successful Homecoming, deserve our thanks.

We extend our thanks also to Ron Tremayne and members of the class for thoughtfully donating the lovely flowers to Marianne Bards, 1957 Wilkes College Homecoming Queen.

TENTATIVE BUDGET DISCUSSED BY COUNCIL

Several Requests Cut: 'Beacon' Editing Staff Meets with Committee

by Marjorie J. Klawon

Several requests for cuts in the student council at the October 17 meeting were proposed by the finance committee. Headed by Ron Tremayne, the student council budget committee, along with another council member, the entire budget will be presented to the Administration Monday.

At this writing there is only one item that has been approved by the student council. This item is the request by the Beacon for $100 to pay for the printing of the program for the Homecoming talent show.

Grants which have been accepted by the council for submission to the administration follow in this order—Organization, Request, and Accounting.

- The planning of the Queen's arrangement, which was approved by the council after some discussion.

- A request for a scholarship in honor of a member of the class of 1966 who was killed in an accident.

- A request for money to purchase a new Christmas tree for the Administration building.

- A request for funds for the purchase of a new computer for the computer lab.

The finances of the Wilkes student body are being carefully watched by the administration. It is clear that the council has a lot of work to do in order to get everything up to speed for the Homecoming season.

Hello Again

"Welcome Back" to all the old familiar faces of the Wilkes Alumni. We hope to see all of our old classmates and friends at the games and/or the dance tomorrow. Just in case you are seeing us personally, we wish you all a "Happy Homecoming!"

Rewards

The team will be a season for "re"-wards. Billy Graham led off in Madison Square Garden the "champions" are here! surviving friendships: The School Spirit Committee has been 'executed'... and the old Kennes' Korn has been 'brought' out of mothballs. Or should we say comballas? The School Spirit revival is probably indirectly responsible for the return of Brer Dick's column. They've gone gung ho on those signs on campus: "Dig up your spirts for the Homecoming Games!"

Sympathy

We would like to extend our deepest sympathy to Mr. Francis J. Boley, on the death of his mother last Tuesday.

Wilkes College lost a friend this week with the death, on Monday, of Dr. Francis J. Boley, 62, president of education administration at Bucknell University. Dr. Boley taught at Bucknell for 32 years before his retirement and was a key figure in the establishment of Bucknell Junior College in 1952.

New Social Group

In addition to the other Wilkes college programs, we have come across this site for a new organization for the Wilkes campus. It's a natural.

It is just the thing for those students who are always saying of this thing, "the All is that know it will look good under my name in the Amosco." This organization is designed for this type of individual, who wants to have a long list of activities followed his name. But, don't want to alter in the work. Here's the setup:

1. The name of the group shall be the S.F.A. Students For Agreements.
2. Every member shall be an officer.
3. There will be one business meeting each year (this will be held in May), and the minutes will be the taking of pictures for the yearbook.
4. All members will be given an emblem which closely resembles a Phil Beta Kappa key.
5. Informal meetings will take place in local bars with the membership picking up the check.
6. The S.F.A. will sponsor other activities, but will never organize or publicize them—for example, an S.F.A. Song Fest. Not so that we need is Student Council support. Let's put the S.F.A. over the top.

UNITED FUND DRIVE QUOTA NOT REACHED

by Carol Brenner

According to a report made by Tom Ruggiero, student chairman of the United Fund Drive, the official end of the school's 1977 campaign, which was to have been Friday, has been extended to the end of the month. Though no official figures are available, returns have not yet reached the $20,000 quota.

Students who have not made their contributions as of today are asked to do so by Wednesday. Monday, October 25, at 8:00 a.m., at Barre 101. The United Fund Drive is Wednesday, October 27, at 8:00 a.m., at Flit 112. On Tuesday, October 26, at 8:00 a.m., at Flit 112. On Wednesday, October 27, at 8:00 a.m., at Flit 112.

The United Fund has been organized with an eye toward eliminating the many separate fund-raising campaigns held throughout the year in Wyoming Valley. Class presidents are chairmen of their respective class campaigns, and have appointed a committee, with whose duties it is to solicit contributions from individual students. The United Fund Drive has raised approximately $125,000. The Seniors are also doing quite well. The campaign aims are to encourage active campaigning and have set the example for those classes where class members may make their contributions.

The Student Senate is sponsoring the United Fund Drive being held throughout the month of October. All proceeds from this dance will be in the students' quota.

The Wilkes Alumni Association and the Faculty of the college have presented the United Fund Drive with a several requests cut: "Beacon" Editing Staff meets with committee.
Cue ‘n’ Curtain Play November 6th

Joza Mieszkowski Choreographer for Play, Usherettes Chosen to Appear in Production Of Cue ‘n’ Curtain Musical, ‘Paint Your Wagon’

by Peggy Kratz

The Cue ‘n’ Curtain musical production, Paint Your Wagon, will open at Irwin Temple on Wednesday evening, November 6, and continue for the remainder of the week.

Mr. Alfred Grob, director of the show, announced that the dance hall girls for the musical have been chosen. The six girls are: Joza Mieszkowski, Jonathan Carey, Gail Roman, Nicki Rosenbaum, Arlene Martin, and Lonna Plantizer. Dancers will be directed by Joza Mieszkowski, who is in charge of choreography for the production.

Pat Ide, publicity chairman, announced that publicity is well underway, since articles are appearing in the local papers advertising the musical, and since posters are appearing on campus. Backstage members are working like beavers on sets for the show. Last Saturday they finished painting the flats, which are now awaiting the finishing touches of the art department. Chase Theater will be a beehive of activity tomorrow. People will be designing flats, constructing a bar, and building framework back for flats.

The property committee is collecting various items for sets decorations, so don’t be surprised if you see someone wandering around the campus picking up hints and ideas. They’re for authenticity in Paint Your Wagon.

The skirt, a gauze sheet for front of a backdrop, has arrived from New York. When it arrives, the girls of Cue ‘n’ Curtain are getting out their needles, for skirts and stars have to be sewn on the skirts.

Twelve girls from the campus were picked to serve as usherettes for the show. They will wear costumes that will appear in one of the production numbers.

Marion Laines, costume chairman, expects the costumes, which were ordered from the Eaven Costume Company in New York, to arrive in time for the opening.

ACTIVITY PASS GOOD FOR ONLY ONE NIGHT

by Bill Zdaniewicz

Mr. Grob of Cue ‘n’ Curtain announced that student activity passes will be honored Thursday, November 7, only for the musical Paint Your Wagon. Though ticket sales have been good, some doubt exists as to the use of student activity passes.

Paint Your Wagon will be featured four days, November 6-9, at the Irwin Temple in Wilkes-Barre. Thursday has been set aside for students from area colleges.

Season tickets are available, for the price of $5.00, which will be good for the three productions to be presented by Cue ‘n’ Curtain: Paint Your Wagon, Witness for The Prosecution, and Holiday Inn.

The use of student activity passes on one day only, will be followed for the three plays. At this time there is no indication that there will be any tickets sold at the door. Season tickets can be obtained from the Cue ‘n’ Curtain committee: Chairman Ray Litman, Betsy Eaves, Anita Bruff, Ron Christman, Dave Roebuck, Mike Piccarrata.

Next Assembly

Mr. J. Harvey Williams, director of the Alexander Hamilton bicentennial commission will be the principal speaker at Tuesday’s assembly. He will address the student body on the subject of the life of Alexander Hamilton.

Mr. Williams was originally scheduled to speak on November 8, but appearance of Mr. Roosevelt, sponsored by the CCUN, made necessary this change in the assembly schedule.

BIO CLUB DANCE FOR U. F. DRIVE

by Frank Gallia

The Wilkes Biology Club is sponsoring a dance tonight at the college gym, with all proceeds to be donated to the United Fund Drive. Dancing will be from 9 to 12 with Al Anderson’s band providing the music.

Last year the freshman and sophomore classes introduced the practice of the college of sponsoring a dance for the benefit of the United Fund. The practice will be continued this year, under the direction of the Biology Club, at this evening’s dance.

Several novelty dances have been scheduled for intermission. Refreshments will also be available. The donation is fifty cents.

The co-chairmen for the dance are Donald Ohliefeld and Martin Awan. They are being assisted by the following committee chairman: Tickets, Tony Puzza; refreshments, Tom Dreischau and Jerry Killian; publicity, John Schade and Jerome Guterman; band, Theresa Maraxella; cleanup, Ray Ozebek and chauffeuring, Gary Do Hope.

THE ROVING CHIMERA

by Fred Roberts

As my contribution to campus conclusion, I have agreed to do a frequent article on public affairs. The title of this column is intended to indicate the policy of the writer (see dictionary).

Just three weeks ago today, a small round object, literally hooting derision at the Free World, began its orbital journey into the atmosphere. The U.S.S.R., using rocket engines with five times the thrust of the largest we have, launched a satellite or “Sputnik” weighing 184 pounds into an elliptical path varying from 170 to 570 miles above the Earth. This triumph coupled with the now undoubtedly successful firing of an intercontinental ballistic missile in August, 26 has, at long last, jolted us out of the state of euphoria into which we had been lulled by over-confidence in the judgments President Eisenhower and the determined half-truths released to us through a friendly press.

It is now apparent that Russia is a technical giant second to none. It is no longer safe or relevant to rationalize her development of an atomic bomb three years before we expected her perfection of a thermonuclear device only a year after ours and her successful release of an H-bomb from a plane five months before us - by protesting that she stole our atomic secrets and used captured American technology.

Neither the American public, nor, I suspect, most Congressmen had any inkling of the scope of Russian accomplishments, so the largest amount of blame for the shaming for military budget limitations lies elsewhere. Although the Central Intelligence Agency had no knowledge of the actual Sputnik launch or October 4, 1957. And according to Aviation Week, a respected technical magazine, U.S. radar stations had been tracking Russian satellites for two years. It is clear that our policy makers must now undertake to discover the shortcomings in our present defense program.
Homecoming Sports Program Starts With Hofstra Soccer Match at 10:30
by Jim Hennighan

Tomorrow morning at 10:30 the Wilkes booters will meet the Hofstra soccer team for a match at Kirby Park. This match is in conjunction with the Homecoming activities and will be presided over by the Homecoming Queen.

This game is also the last home game of the season for Hofstra and is expected to be a sellout.

The booters played their first home game of the season last night in a contest at the Kirby Park field. Because of the lateness of the match, the results were not available for this story.

Now back to the Homecoming match with the Long Island college. The Hofstra booters went down before the guns of the Wilkes soccer team in last year's match by a 2-0 count. This year's edition of the Flying Dutchmen is a vastly improved club and has gotten off to a fine start this season. The team is coached by Paul Lynser and he has built by the East.

Bianco with the Halves has been in excellent physical shape. This up week when Clarence Michaels suffered a setback for the team for this season. The team has been bolstered by halfbacks having returned.

The defensive line has been in excellent physical shape. Coach Jim Ferris has contemplated no major changes in his starting lineup for the Homecoming match.

The defensive line of Colonel co-captains Ed Mason and Tony Bianco have been outstanding. Both halfbacks have been in the thick of every game so far. Coach Jim Ferris is depending upon both to bolster the backfield in the rugged Hofstra match.

Again for the information of the spectators, the booters' home field is located between the tennis courts and the dike at the rear of Kirby Park.

The Wilkes booters are away for their next game next Wednesday at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College. In this match, the Wilkes booters meet one of the best soccer teams in the East. The Teachers team was the national champion in 1955. And this year's club is a replica of their last season's strong team; they pass well and are strong on defense. The Wilkes booters have never defeated the East Stroudsburg team, and this year's Colonials are out to break the losing streak.

Rescigno Wins Conference Fame, Gains Athlete Title Third Time

Named 'All East' Back
In Weekly ECAC Poll;
Records 93-Yard Romp
Ron Rescigno once again is the Beacon's "Athlete of the Week." The opinion of this paper's staff of sportswriters is shared by the sportsminded of the Atlantic Coast board, for he was named to the All East team of the week by the Eastern Colleges Athletic Conference. This is due to his fine performance in the starting 39-0 upset of Uris less last Saturday.

Ron gained a total of 139 yards from scrimmage, scored two touchdowns, set up another with a 38-yard breakthrough, and turned in the longest run recorded in any of Saturday's collegiate games. The run was on the Wilkes seven-yard line when the speedy little booter took the second half's opening kickoff, scooted up the right side of the field, reversed his direction twice, eluded several would-be tacklers, and outraced the last two Bear safety men to record a 60-yard touchdown sprint.

His other score came on a beautiful bit of faking when he burst through the Ursinus secondary and ran foul of Bear safety man Bob Fanning. With his patented twisting, turning, deceptive footwork, he completely outwitted Fanning and scored untouched.

In naming the All East team, the ECAC lists the Colonials' tailback as a halfback, since the weekly honors usually go to T-formations. The other halfback on the squad is Army's Ron Anderson who scored twice and intercepted two passes to lead the Cadets to a 20-13 win over Pitt.

The quarterback, to add to the distinguished company Ron keeps these days, is Navy's Tom Forrest, who completed 10 out of 17 pass attempts, scored once, and rang up a total of 135 yards.

‘Flu Bug’ Latest Foe Of Ralston’s Players

In Last-Minute Drift by Dick Myers, Sports Editor

Today’s thermometer, which measured a sensational 205-degree John Joe, a fast-breaking fullback and will wake a few of the colonels of the information with the ball-handling doing on by Frank Agenolo, who is another new addition to the defense a dangerous

The ends are tall, fast, and aggressive and are good on defense, particularly on the left side, which is bolstered by their best defensive man, Worth.

The fullback is big and strong, studded with 60-mile men. Their play is hard and rugged and they keep getting to top speed all the time.

Working out of the split-T as they do most often, they use a lot of good cross-blocking and hit the right backs hard to make tackle or over guard, with plenty of force.

To date, the only blot on their record was a defeat suffered to the annual Pre碗 Bowl against Al-bequerque last season.

That was their last game, two weeks ago; since then, they have had the whole season to work on the flu epidemic. They are ripe and ready, and will certainly provide the Colonels with a good test of their overall team, and a good test of the Colonels with a good test of their overall team, and a good test of their offensive and defensive power.

A few of the key men, at the time of the last game, were: The miseries of the flu, Frank Spudin and Steve Pekorski joined the team, thus adding three more valuable players. Dick and Harry Gavazzi were the best performers, and the Colonels' line, led by Steve, was excellent in the final game.

The Colonels have 21 men on the roster. Ralston’s roster is large, including four returning men. But Dick Myers expects to be able to bring all 21 men in to play, which should make it easier for Wilkes to find themselves once again in the position of outmanned, underweighted foes.

FRED'S TIE BISON ON RAIN-SOAKED SOD

The Wilkes College soccer team played a hard fought 3-3 tie at Lebanon on Sunday. The game was played on a muddy field and in a continual downpour. Through the first half of the game, both goals was exceedingly middy and made the movements of both goals quite dangerous.

Bucknell scored first on an 18-yard penalty kick. Paul, the Colonels’ center-forward scored this goal in the second period of the game. Paul was by far the best player Bucknell had on the field.

The Colonels surged back in the second period and on goals by Tim Jenkins and Carl Hlavik tied the score at 1-1, and then Bucknell scored a second goal to make the score 1-2.

The Colonels played on an even footing until late in the fourth period when Bucknell’s linemen banded the third Bucknell score. Things looked dark for the Colonels, for though they had dominated the play in the entire second half, they were now on the losing end. With only a minute left the Wilkes booters mounted another offense and with less than a minute remaining, Carl Hlavik botched a shot, and Bucknell goalies blocked the kick but fumbled the ball. It was then claimed by Jenkins, and that Nick Glorioso, Wilkes center-forward, stepped up to bomb the netting the tying tally.

The teams then fought through two scoreless overtime periods and the game ended in a 3-3 tie. A curious subplot to the Bucknell - Wilkes soccer match ended in a 1-3 tie and in 1955 was scoreless.

All afternoon the Colonels booters were at least 3-1 to 1 but were unable to capitalize on these opportunities. Their offense was superb and steady throughout the match. Led by the stellar defense of Dick Myers and Bob Dunn, the team went on to win the game entered to the Wilkes goal to a bare minimum.

The finish of the Bucknell match, the Colonels booters have won two of their three games in the season, and are winners in the Middle Atlantic States Soccer Conference.

Kampus Keglers’ Lead With Four-Point Win in Intramural Bowling

In last Sunday night’s bowling, the Kampus Keglers took four points to go back to a goad early grip on the first place spot of the Wilkes Campus League. Hildard Hoffman ’61-476 led the Keglers as they outscored their opponents, the average total of 70 pins per contest.

Steve Klein was high man for the Keglers, scoring a total of 168.

In other action, Barry Miller’s ’62’s led last year’s champions, the Ashley Acies, to a 3-1 win over the unnamed Team No. 1. Emil Forrancar was the key man for the Aces, who as the season’s leader, the long-time leader of the league, is also high mark for the young team.

The Acies took the first game by a large margin, but Emil’s big game in the second carried them into a tie with the Ashley Acies and total pins for the 3-1 win.

In the finale on Sunday night, the Wilkes 35 and 20-0 lead held steady at its point from the first half to the end of the game. Caple led the contest with a 147-40. The first match went to the Wilkes 18-7. John Macri rolled a 175 in the third match, but Wall and Gavazzi, who each rolled a 146, registered a 40-pin score and won the final point of the match. Caple then rolled his third 146 to take the match by a 3-1 score.

Ron Polozzi

In the second quarter when he took the ball from the line of scrimmage on the Bears’ 41-yard line, faked a handoff and raced out tackle for a 41-yard touchdown run. Dick Wozniak again added the conversion; Wilkes led, 14-0.

Near the close of the first half, the valiant Bear offense began to roll with a 40-yard breakthrough by quarterback Hassler who raced to the 15. From there, Bob Famos registered a 27 and appeared to be a scoring drive when Dick Wozniak blazed the Bears for a 40-yard field goal. They raced to the goal for the final second half touchdown of the day. Wozniak booted the point after touchdown into the goal, Wilkes won by a 39-0 margin.

knew what was going on behind the Iron Curtain. Why weren't we given some idea of Russian development? And now that the Soviet successes are in the open, why does the President and Sherman Adams continue to minimize their significance?

Admitted that we can strike any Russian city with conventional S.A.C. bombers, and that this is no time for panic, but how long will planes retain instruments of successful war? What is to be done about the enormous prestige gained that the Soviet has made with this scientific coup? The efficacy of communication and the control of the eyes of the uncommitted nations. Russia now deals from a position of strength, witness Khroushchev's tough talk to Turkey and his bold notes to European Socialists.

There is then, considerable room for doubt - something of what must be done, but we must guard against over-reaction. There is no need to emulate the Russian crash program; we can easily boost the military budget as much as 2 billion dollars without seriously affecting the economy. Convictional aviation expenditures can go on gradually reduced, and the released funds can then go into basic research. It is largely a question of emphasis, and this should be solved by the retirement of General Webster.

The missile programs of the three services should be consolidated for greater efficiency into a project like Manhattan of World War II. Our satellite program should be considered an important part of the defense effort. But a space satellite in now not enough, we must first be to place a manned station in space or fire an rocket to the moon in order to regain a Position of strength.

HOMECOMING DISPLAYS ADORN CAMPUS

by Jim Eidan

A tour of the Wilkes campus during Homecoming week will provide views of the artistic talent of various campus groups. Most of the colleges and organizations have been busy planning and preparing their decorations during the past weeks. Following are some of the displays which will be seen around campus.

Members of the Biology Club are including a large, colorful tape in their display. The decorations, which adorn the lawn between Chase Hall and the field house, include a load of dynamite, and the Wilkes Colonel is standing by, ready to "blow off" the Lycoming Warriors. Theta Delta Bhs girls are responsible for the display in the dormitory and are busy planning a football game.

The Business Administration Club will have a display to capture the fancy of all local space-enthusiasts. Spotnik is the central theme of this display, and from outer space Colonel Wichiyo is sniping on the Lycoming Warriors.

The Economics Club display at Pi Sigma features the Colonel holding a football in one hand, and totaling up the score of the game on a calculating machine with his other arm. Names of our football players appear on the keys of the calculator. The chief warrior is seen pleading for mercy of the Colonel, following the warriors defeat in the battle.

Sturdevant's Educators are featuring a large blackboard display. In the center, Ron's selection committee is meeting. The dorms contribute much color to this scene.

Stirling Hall is the scene of a three-dimensional picture of a warfield hanging upon a tapestry with the Wilkes Colonel standing by, beating the warrior on his head.

RESIGNIO WINS location of the Russian students, who won the annual intercollegiate tournament, with class, Mental Ron's performance on Saturday brought his total yardsage for the year to the respectable 228 in four games, which should place him high in the running for Conference leadership in this department.

Ron's selection to the honor of the team also solved the problem in the light of the above honors, but the selection committee faced a perplexing problem this week. Ron would probably be the first to make the team effort, but was it the policy of the Russians to make multiple awards for members of the same Wilkes team, this would be the only name to the title this week. The team was superb both on offense and defense, but few realize that Resignio's leadership and fire inspired his mates to win this contest in such a manner. For that reason, Ron was named this week's winner in a close battle, with other great players.

MAD: MEN TO DRILL MONDAY IN GYM

Coach John Egan has issued the call to the grapplers to begin flexing their champions’ muscles and report for workouts on Monday, October 28.

Several good men were lost through graduation last year and new material is needed to replace them. Coach Egan stated that he is looking for new blood to get some depth on his squad. He emphasizes the fact that no previous experience is required, that men are welcomed to come out to the gym and give the sport a trial. There may be not a lot of new-comers who will make the starting squad at once, but they will be able to gain valuable experience and get themselves good head start for later seasons.

The Wilkes campus will be the wrestling capital of the East this year, with the gym being the scene of two major tournaments. The first of these will be the annual Holiday Tournament, dubbed the “Rose Bowl” of wrestling which is attended each year by hundreds of wrestlers from Pitt, Navy, Michigan, and many other schools.

The other tourney will be the Middle Atlantic Conference championships, the tournament will last one year by the Colonels. Defending

VETERAN’S AIR RESERVE

Are you a veteran? Do you need money? Do you want to help your country as well as yourself? If you can answer these questions “yes,” you may be interested in a newly formed organization, the 4847th Air Terminal Squadron.

Meetings will take place one weekend a month (4 days regular base pay).

There will also be an active duty tour, which will be held at McGuire A.F.B., New Jersey. It will last for two weeks and there will be 15 days regular base pay.

The location of the 4847th Air Terminal Squadron is the Air Reserve Center, Wilkes-Barre, Penna.
