Inauguration of "Powder Bowl" To Kickoff Tonight's Dance At Gym

Dean's Tea for College Women Scheduled for Sunday Afternoon

by Cynthia Hagley

Sunday will mark the beginning of a new aspect in the campus life of the women at Wilkes. This is the occasion of the Fall Tea given by the Dean of Women, Miss Beryl Cole.

All coeds are invited to attend this candlelight affair. It will be held on the second floor of the Commons from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday afternoon.

Merle Benisch, sophomore elementary education major, is chairman of the tea. She has announced that those present will be given favors and are asked to sign the guest book. About 400 girls are expected to attend.

Others invited to the Fall Tea are the head residents of all women's dormitories, and women members of the faculty. A few of these women will assist by pouring. The attire of all women present will reflect the day — that of Sunday best.

A number of women students will serve as hostesses and will be wearing yellow roses. They are as follows: Elaine Adams, Lois Agnostine, Leona Baiera, Mary Frances Barone, Merle Benisch, Patricia Brady, Janice Bronson, Carol Brushkoski, Jeanette Bucholtz, Phyllis Cackowski, Alice Cola, Jane Denby, Frances Corace, Lorraine Dyers, Carol Draper.

Myrna Fishman, Maureen Haley, Marsha Hochberg, Mary Hurley, Erin McCormack, Rita Minelli, Bianco Moscato, Virginia Morgan, Marilyn Obaza, Romaine Olzinski, Linda Paonessa, June Patrylak, Barbara Piledggi, Sandy Potapczyk, Alice Powell, Judith Powell.

Roberta Rayeski, Mary Regalis, Carol Rhines, Marion Ripple, Patricia Rossi, Ruth Schimmelbusch, Joan Smith, Jane Sokola, Gale Sullivan, Nancy Tinklepaugh, Carol Thomas, Elizabeth Weiss, Jane Woolbert.

If a student is unable to attend it is asked that she notify the Dean's office. This will prevent unnecessary preparation.

Merchant of Yonkers Hires a "Matchmaker" In Cue 'n' Curtain Play

by Leona A. Baiera

Cue 'n' Curtain will present its second play of the season, The Matchmaker, a four-act, farce-comedy by Thornton Wilder, on December 7th, 8th, and 10th at 8:30 p.m. in Chase Theatre. Admission is free.

The play, under the direction of Alfred S. Groh, English professor, concerns a wealthy merchant of Yonkers, New York who employs a "matchmaker" to arrange his domestic affairs. The matchmaker becomes interested in him and his niece. All problems are resolved with the conclusion of this rousing farce-comedy.

The cast for the play is as follows: Bob Schechter, Mr. Vandergelder; Bill Lowry, Cornelius; Don Pieratos, Joe; Roger Rymer, Barnaby; Barbara Stevens, Mrs. Levi, the matchmaker; Sue Vaughn, Minnie; Hana Janjigian, Mrs. Malloy; Harvey Stambler, Rudolf; Pat Chapraki, Gertrude; Emily Weinberg, the cook; Dolores Amir, Miss VanHuyesen; Joan Pitney, Ermengarde.

Other directors in the play are: Andrew Palencar, art director; and Ray Litman, technical director.

Committee heads of the play are: George Watson, stage manager; Warren Hartmen, lighting; Dave Meister, properties; Romelle Gomba, costumes; Bianca Moscato, makeup; and Joel Harrison, house and program.

Costumes for the play are from Van Horn and Company, Philadelphia.

A $600.00 grant from the administration has enabled Cue 'n' Curtain to purchase equipment such as prefabricated scenery flats, lighting equipment, and makeup which will be used in future productions.

Technical rehearsal for the play will be held Sunday at 8:00 p.m. and dress rehearsals will be held on Monday and Tuesday evenings at eight.

Blood Donor Day Reminder

The Fall Semester Blood Donor Day will be held on Friday, December 9th, from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. at the Red Cross Blood Center on South Franklin Street. This was announced today by the executive committee of the Biological Society.

Members of the Biological Society will be on hand to register each student as he donates blood. The club, class, or other campus organization which donates the largest percentage amount per membership will receive a trophy.

Anyone who donates blood for this program and any members of his family or her family are eligible to receive an unlimited supply of blood if needed for any illness or operation for six months following.

Any student who would like to donate blood and is under twenty-one must have a parental release form signed by his or her parent or guardian. These forms will be available in the gymnasium office or at Assembly on December 8th.

Huffers and Puffers vs. Masketeers In Featured School Spirit Contest

by Gloria Zaludek and Pat Rossi

Friday night dance fans will be in for an added treat tonight at 8:00 in the gym. In addition to the regular night's dance, "An Evening with Bobbi Baird," sponsored by the Radio Club, there will be a "Powder Bowl" football game sponsored by the School Spirit Committee.

"QUEEN" NOMINEE

Marvin Lipton

Football fans who enjoy rough and tumble touch football played by world-renowned "all star" athletes will pack the gym to see another one of the thrilling bowl games — the "Powder Bowl".

Unlike many other football games having rugged men playing under definite rules and regulations, this one will feature two teams of "fragile" girls who will throw all rules to the wind and play with only one rule — "WIN!"

Announcer Glen Beebe will report the game's progress. Rick Reese and Bill Meneely will referee the game between these two top-notch teams — the "Huffers and Puffers", featuring members from the kickline, and the "Masketeers", with girls from the cheerleaders, majorettes, and School Spirit Committee.

The girls have been practicing all week for this game under the coaching of Ted Toluba and Paul Aquilino for the Huffers and Puffers, and Jerry Mohn and Gary Carr for the Masketeers.

The spirited cheerleaders for the game will be Ed Gavel, Jim Brunza, Pat Shovlin, John Adams, Lenny Bosilio, Craig Huddy, Dick Duffey.

Halftime activities will be announced by Walt Buzby. At this time, nominees for the Powder Bowl "Queen" will be presented for inspection by the audience, who will then vote for their choice on ballots distributed by George Gavales. Nominees for "Queen" are: Pete Greenburg, Marvin Lipton, Chris Loesch, Charles Livingston, and Ed Kemps. Results of the contest will be announced during the dance intermission.

Another feature at halftime will be an all-male kickline review with captain Ralph Pinsky and his high-steppers. Members of the kickline include: Ed Rogalski, Ted Begun, John Hosage, Fred Smithson, Steve Klein, Kenny Miller.

The second half of the night's double-bill will be the Radio Club Dance, "An Evening with Bobbi Baird," which will begin at 9 p.m. Herb Kline is general chairman for this affair. Assisting Kline are Dick Emuel, publicity chairman, and (continued on page 2)

Seasonal Decorations Planned for Xmas Formal; Lettermen to Provide Intermission Entertainment

by Wayne Thomas

The annual Lettermen's Club Christmas Formal will be held Friday, December 13, from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight in the gymnasium. Ted Toluba, junior secondary education major, and Marv Antinnes, senior social studies major, are serving as co-chairmen of the affair which will feature an outdoor winter scene.

The club has planned some unusual decorations for this year's formal including a new ceiling decoration and a minimum use of crepe paper. Stars and snowflakes will be suspended from the ceiling in order to produce a seasonal effect.

DANCE CO-CHAIRMAN

fect in keeping with the theme of the dance.

Intermission entertainment will be provided by the Lettermen who will sing under the direction of Dean George Ralston, the club's advisor. Dean Ralston has also been instrumental in formulating plans for the Christmas Formal.

Assisting Toluba and Antinnes will be the following committee chairmen: Mike Armstrong and Brooke Yeager, decorations; Joe Hiznay, band; Ron Roski and Bernie Kosch, program; Frank Spudis, refreshments; Paul Aquilino and Tom Pugh, publicity.

Jan Pethick and Frank Polanowski are designing the backdrop for the dance. As in previous years, favors will be distributed.

Campus Caroling Planned By SCC for December 14

Janice Bronson, chairman of the School Spirit Committee, announced plans today for the all-college annual Christmas Carol Sing which is sponsored jointly by the S.S.C. and the Mixed Chorus under the chairmanship of Patricia Lutz.

Everyone is invited to join with the mixed chorus in front of the gymnasium at 8:30 p.m. on the night of December 14. The group will serenade all the dormitories starting with Gore Hall and working its way down to Chapman Hall.

Upon arrival at Chapman Hall all the carolers will be invited in for a nightcap of hot chocolate, doughnuts, hot caffeine, and good old-fashioned Christmas Cheer. See you there.

Local Reporter to Speak At Press Conference; Editors to Form Panel

by Mary Frances Barone

The annual Press Conference, sponsored by the Press Unit of College Misericordia, will be held tomorrow from 2 to 5:30 p.m. at College Misericordia, Dallas, Pennsylvania.

The main event of the day will be the opening address to the assembly by James J. Collis on "Problems of News." Mr. Collis is a graduate of the Journalism School of Columbia University and is a reporter and news commentator at WDAU television station in Scranton.

A panel discussion will follow the main speech. The panel speakers are the editors of the newspapers of King's, Wilkes, Misericordia, and Marywood. They will discuss the "Problems and Pitfalls of a College Newspaper."

Four topics which will be considered are: problems and pitfalls of the editor's work, page layout of a college newspaper, cultural advantages of a college newspaper, and the responsibilities of a college publication.

Following the panel discussion, a social will be held at Regina Hall. The conference is open to all college students and high school newspaper staff members.

'BEACON' NOTICE

All BEACON members who are going to the Misericordia Press Conference tomorrow, will meet at Pickering Hall at 1 p.m.

EDITORIAL—

To Be or Not To Be

The question of whether or not Wilkes College students will again enjoy a Winter Carnival during the mid-term vacation appears to be still in doubt.

At the recent Student Leaders' Conference, Ralph Pinskey, who was appointed by the Student Government to look into the possibility of having a Carnival this year, reported that he had contacted several Pocono resorts with no results. Now, it appears, Student Government has set up a committee to make a "last ditch" effort to obtain a site.

For those who wonder how the present dilemma came about, an explanation is in order. The Winter Carnival has always proved to be a huge success each year since its inauguration. However, the past few years have been marred by small amounts of damage caused by students who couldn't contain the joy of having completed final exams. The owner of the establishment where the carnival had been held decided last Spring (after more damage had been incurred at last January's event) that he would not accept Wilkes in the future. It seems that he has influenced other Pocono resort owners to do the same.

Last semester the Beacon took the position that if the Winter Carnival would jeopardize the good reputation of the College which has taken years to establish, it would not be worth such a loss to continue the Carnival just for the sake of tradition.

We now reaffirm this position, but we do suggest that some such function might be held in the Spring, when such a large crowd would conceivably be outdoors most of the day, and the possibility of breakage caused from intoxicating effects would be lessened.

What plans remain for a Winter or a Spring Carnival depends upon student action and opinion. We certainly hope that something can be worked out by the Student Government—something which will not damage the College's reputation as a leader in the community.

Employment Agency Mgr. To Speak at SAM Meeting

Thomas L. Wroble, northeastern district manager of Snelling & Snelling Employment Agency, will speak Monday at a meeting sponsored by the Society for the Advancement of Management.

Mr. Wroble is a resident of Asrley, Pennsylvania, and a graduate of Temple University. He will discuss the method of obtaining employment through a private agency in administrative, engineering, executive, sales, secretarial, managerial, and technical fields.

All interested students are invited to attend the meeting at 12:10 p.m. in Pickering Hall, room 203.

Letter to the Editor . . .

Dear Cynthia:

We traveled by an ancient overcrowded bus to the town of Sialkot about eighty miles north of Lahore, from where one can, on a clear day, see the massive skeleton of the Himalayas. Mrs. Foster, who with her missionary husband has labored in the Presbyterian vineyard in the Punjab "Land of the Five Rivers" for the past 39 years, offered to show us a Punjabi village. Only the narrow middle section of the road was macadamized, and when our jeep met another vehicle both had to turn sideways into the heavy layer of dust, so that for a few minutes everything disappeared into a grey cloud. The snowstorms in Pennsylvania are idyllic in comparison. Pretty soon without any warning the macadamized part ended, but our jeep kept wading through dust several inches deep, till it could not make it any more, and for half a mile we traveled by foot. Occasionally the dust changed into mud caused by the overflow of the irrigation canals in the fields. On both sides of our narrow path we were flanked by ripe rice fields, and the peasants were busy thrashing and winnowing their precious harvest.

When we reached the village named Chitti Sheikhan ("The White City of the Sheik") our gracious hostess and guide, Mrs. Foster, asked, in Urdu, a youngster to take us to the home of Syed Khan, the teacher of Urdu and Arabic at the Presbyterian Missionary High School in Sialkot. She in the meantime explained that this was one of the advanced villages, where, because of the nearness to town, more modern improvements may be expected than in an average village.

As soon as the village children saw us approaching, they rushed toward us like a swarm of bees. They pressed against us so closely and stared at us so insistently that I felt as if a heavy wall were closing on me and suffocating me. I was glad that I could occasionally take refuge behind the back of Acey Jackson, an athlete from Chicago, now a teacher in the local missionary school. Not being white he had great difficulty convincing the people here that he was an American.

The children had nothing on their skinny, little bodies but a short frock. Their hair was greasy and uncombed, the noses and eyes of many of them were running, and it seemed as if everyone was coughing. And yet they are among those who were "fit" to survive, since statistics show that one-third of Punjab babies dies in the first year of their life. They are likely to reach the age of thirty, the average life-expectancy here. But even so the fact that modern medicine has curtailed such once common epidemics as malaria and cholera has resulted in what we now call "population explosion". Here in Pakistan every painful advance accomplished by foreign aid and Pakistani's own efforts is cancelled with deadly monotony by the increase in population. The average income per person is 250 rupees a year (about one dollar a week); literacy rate is estimated at less than 20 per cent and for women 5 per cent.

We were fortunate to find Syed at home with his youngest son—his wife and the only unmarried daughter had gone to town "purchasing". We entered through a wooden gate into a small courtyard surrounded by a mud wall, and all the children pushed in with us, so that we stumbled over them. From there we were ushered into the room; on both sides of the room were "charpais" (wooden frame of a bed interwoven with strong strings) covered with a blanket; we were invited to sit down on the beds, women on one side, men on the other. On the outer wall was a small window with bars and a

Plurality of Semesters to Begin at PSU; Students Asked Opinion of Program

by Jerry Shilanski

Beginning next summer, Pennsylvania State University will initiate a Four-Term Academic Year.

The announcement of the forthcoming change was made by the University's president, Eric A. Walker, after receiving final approval from the State Senate. Mr. Walker recently outlined the University's new quarter program in a letter sent to Dr. Eugene S. Farley.

The quarter calendar is to be divided into four terms of ten weeks each. Class time will be increased from 50 to 75 minutes, thus giving the student the same amount of class hours allotted under the present 15-week semester plan.

The new system is expected to provide a more flexible program of study and one more readily adaptable to the needs of the rapidly increasing number of students. It will also provide for the year-round utilization of the resources of the University, giving a maximum contribution to the varying needs of the Commonwealth for instruction and research.

The four terms will be equal in all respects, and students may accelerate or make up lost time by attending the Summer Term. There will be little need to change the University's present schedule, course organization, or credit structure. No immediate need is foreseen for revamping the sports or extra-curricular activities on campus. The fee structure will be divided by three rather than the two payments.

Students will be enrolled in three or four major courses each term, and all examinations will be given during the regularly scheduled class periods.

Faculty members will receive additional compensation for the fourth term which will be in proportion to the teaching or research load assigned them.

With this system in practice, it will be possible for students to receive their degrees in three years, or they may interrupt their studies and re-enter at more frequent periods.

One advantage of the four-year system will be reduced course loads for both students and faculty, who will carry fewer courses and classes while engaged for about the same amount of time per week. The credit load for three terms will remain about the same as now provided for two semesters.

Other institutions of higher learning throughout the country are attempting to up-date their programs in order to keep pace with the fast-moving society in which we live. The Four Term and Tri-Semester plans are examples of solutions being employed to relieve the problems of overcrowded schools and cramped schedules.

In conjunction with this article, the Beacon is interested in learning of the opinions of Wilkes students regarding the possibility of instituting such a program here at the college.

After answering the questions, please clip the questionnaire below and deposit it in the box provided in the cafeteria.

Would you be in favor of either the Tri-Semester or Four-Term Program here at Wilkes?

out glass. When they closed the door to keep the rest of the crowd out, this was the only opening for air. In a minute the children who could not fit into the room, climbed on this window from the outside. The teacher took off his belt and pounded against the bars a few times, but it helped only for a couple of minutes.

On the little open fireplace were several family photographs. Our host was particularly proud of the photographs of the graduation of his two sons, both of whom now have positions, one in the government and the other in the army. Next to the fireplace another wooden door led to the outside, but it was locked at this time. Syed considered it his duty as a host to invite us for tea. After a while a small table was brought up from somewhere, and on it a tea-pot with black tea, sugar, milk and two plates—one with oversweetened cookies, and the other with especially hot pepper fritters. The whole village has proudly helped to prepare this tea party for the unexpected guests, and to refuse Syed pleaded: "But it is from my own buffalo and I milked her myself." I wonder if he believed us when we explained that it was not for sanitary reasons that we declined.

After tea, Syed showed us the other parts of his dwelling. Next to the room where we sat was a similar one used for storage; an open stable adjacent to it housed a black buffalo-cow with a new-born calf. Across from it, in the same enclosure, he was building a new room, a bedroom for his children. A small room was used as a kitchen and storage space. This is an unusual improvement because most of the people in villages and in towns cook on small charcoal-burners outdoors. The fuel used is a sun-baked cow-dung; the outside walls of almost every house and courtyard are covered with fresh cow-dung cakes plastered on the wall for drying. Occasionally dried grass or kerosene may also be used for fuel. The village diet is monotonous; a gruel made of parched gram flavored with salt and helped out with "chappatis" (pancakes of unleavened bread). On festive occasions some meat and cheap vegetables heavily spiced are served and as a delicacy curry made of cereals.

We were now ready for the guided tour of the village. Were it not for Syed, our party which consisted of men also, would not be admitted to the Moslem homes to see women at work. Syed is one of the two leaders elected by the villagers according to the scheme of "basic democracies" which the new revolutionary government of President Ayub has devised as the only possible form of democracy for illiterate voters. We were told that the village supports thirteen Mosques and fifteen mullahs (priests), this large number being due to the fact that several Moslem sects are represented in this village.

Basketball Team Loses Opener, 91-78

Football Team Loses Last, 26-0; Missed Punts Hinder Injury-Ridden Team Against Scranton

The 1960 Wilkes football campaign ended as the Colonels were defeated, 26-0, by the Royals of Scranton University in Kingston High School Stadium on Saturday, November 19. The Royals used two first period breaks and two final period drives to pound the hapless gridders. Although they were penalized 117 yards, Scranton had the punch to take advantage of fumbles and pass completions and have little trouble with an offensively weak Colonel eleven.

The Colonels were hampered by a leg injury to Marv Antinnes which saw him in limited action in the second half.

The opening kickoff by the Colonels was an attempted outside boot which went two yards and gave the Royals possession of the ball on the Wilkes 42 yard line. A series of ground plays got them to the two where the Colonel defense held, giving the Blue and Gold the ball on downs. Tom Krisulevich's gain of seven yards in one play was futile as Wilkes was soon forced to punt. The boot was taken by Royal back Roy Davis on the Wilkes 42 from where he dashed down the sideline to score. The run for the extra point was blocked by Jim Brunza and Bob Herman.

Later, a pass from center on a Colonel punting situation was low and the punt was never made. A Scranton punt shortly thereafter was fumbled by Wilkes with the Royals recovering on the Colonel 35. Three plays later Davis picked up one of his team's fumbles on the Wilkes 42 and scored. The plunge for the extra points was blocked.

The second and third periods were highlighted by Royal fumbles and penalties and Wilkes' only threat of the contest. Taking the Scranton kickoff to open the second half, Antinnes alternated the ball-carrying chores with quarterback Paul Aquilino to get to the Royal 41 from where Antinnes broke through the line and got to the eight. However, the drive halted on the one as Antinnes could pick up only two of the three yards needed on a fourth down situation.

The fourth period opened with the Royals taking possession deep in Wilkes territory as another Colonel punt never got off the ground. Scranton quarterback John Wastak then completed a pass to halfback Vince Panette on the one from where he stepped over for the touchdown. Later, Carl Rader intercepted a Colonel pass on the Wilkes 40 and again Wastak completed to Panette at the 30, with Panette getting to the 14 before being hauled down.

The Royals managed to score shortly thereafter but were called back on a penalty and on fourth down quarterback Joe Murray completed a toss to George Brooks at the ten, from where he went over

Ebonites Lead Bowling, Second Round to Begin, Dydo Sets Pace with 213

The intramural bowling competition on November 20 completed the first round of bowling, with each team having met every other team in the league. The Ebonites are in first place, followed by the Gutterdusters in second place 2½ games out and the Playboys in third three full games back. The top average of 179 is held by Bill Watkins, with Sam Book second at 172, Dave Sokira and Joe Shemanski with 171 each and Emil Petrasek with 170.

Howie Williams holds the high game record with a 233, Dave Sokira is next with 231, Bill Watkins third with 226, followed by Emil Petrasek with 224 and Dave Guss with a 222. Emil Petrasek has the high three game series of 575, Bill Watkins second with 570, Dave Guss third with 568, Dave Sokira next with 565, and Jerry Chisarick fifth with 554.

Tornadoes 4, Playboys 0

The Tornadoes dropped the Playboys from a first place tie with the Gutterdusters into third place as Jerry Chisarick led the way in the clean sweep with a 191-493. Bill Watkins' 181-516 and Joe Shemanski's 200-513 proved futile for the

Ebonites 3, Pinbusters 1

The Ebonites took a solid 2½ game lead over the second place Gutterdusters as they downed the Pinbusters, 3 to 1. Dave Sokira rolled a 186-535 for the winning Ebonites. Emil Petrasek turned in the night's best series with a 206-564 as his team managed to win only the final game.

Gutterdusters 3, Screwballs 1

Rolling a 199-506, Dave Guss led the Gutterdusters into second place. The 'Dusters are scheduled to meet the league-leading Ebonites in the near future. The undermanned Screwballs could manage to win only the second game.

Boozers 3, Alley Cats 1

Mike Dydo's 213-532 sparked the Boozers to a 3-1 win over the Alley standing up. Frank O'Bell then took a pitchout around right end for the two-pointer.

The Colonels ended the season with a record of two wins and seven losses, the Scranton game being the final contest for Antinnes, Spudis, and Dobrowalski. Spudis was hurt in the game along with Jim Brunza, and Paul Aquilino, all of whom, along with Antinnes, missed most of the final period.

Albright Lions Feature Speed, Sharp Passing in Colonel Loss; Clem Gavenas Scores 22 Points

Last night the basketball team was defeated in its first outing of the season by a fast squad from Albright College, 91-78. The game, played before a crowd of 750 at the South Franklin Street gym, saw the Albright Lions feature snappy ball handling and accurate passing as they led throughout most of the contest. Both teams started slow, but the Lions started to click late in the first half and at the half-time intermission had built up a 47-36 lead. Tom Pearsal, fiery Albright guard, took charge of the Lion scoring power as he dumped in 23 points in the first half.

The Colonels stayed in the contest on the defensive play and rebounding of Bernie Kosch. The 6' 6" Colonel blocked five Lion scoring attempts and grabbed 11 rebounds in the first half while scoring eight points. Clem Gavenas added eleven points to the Wilkes cause with five set shots and a foul.

The Colonels started fast in the second half and with Ed Kemps leading the way managed to narrow the margin to five points midway in the stanza. The Lions came back and countered with Evans' five straight baskets to build up a comfortable lead once again. Although the team stopped Albright's Little All-American Dick Van Dine with five points, Pearsal and Evans took up the slack with 27 and 23 points respectively. Sommerstadt proved to be their top rebounder and added 19 points to their cause.

Leading the Colonels was Gavenas with 22 points. Kemps, who played with his left ankle taped because of an injury he received Wednesday, added 15 while Ron Roski and Bernie Kosch each had 12.

The team takes to the road tomorrow to meet Juniata College in a MAC contest scheduled to get under way at 2:30.

Intramural Basketball

Those groups of students who intend to enter teams in the intramural basketball leagues have been requested to submit their team rosters to Mr. John Reese, Director of Athletics, as soon as possible so that the schedule can be arranged.

Mr. Reese has stated that a student commissioner for the leagues is needed along with officials to referee the games. Any students interested in these positions have been asked to get in touch with him as soon as possible.

John always did take things too seriously . . . like that habit of locking his Coke up in a safe! Sure everybody likes Coca-Cola . . . sure there's nothing more welcome than the good taste of Coca-Cola. But really—a safe just for Coke! Incidentally—know the combination, anyone?

Fourteen Seniors to Begin Accounting Internships in February

by Lillian Bodzio

Fourteen seniors from the commerce and finance department have been accepted by accounting concerns of national repute to serve their internship with those firms. The internship lasts from February 1, 1961, until March 16.

John J. Chwalek, placement officer, announced that the following have been accepted: William Van Fossen, James Skesavage, Martha Menegus, Charles Keast, Maurice James, Fred Pello, William Morris, Christopher Loesch, Joseph Zielinski, Irving Moses, John Rinko, Joseph Chisarick, and John Lehet.

It has been the custom for some years past for accounting firms which are represented in major cities throughout the country to make an annual visit to the Wilkes campus for the purpose of interviewing those seniors interested in making accounting their career. Those selected are sent into the field and are paid a salary during their internship. After this practical experience, many are given permanent positions. The current list of interns will begin their practical training program in New York, Chicago, Newark, Scranton, and Wilkes-Barre.

Companies participating in the program include Laventhal and Krekstein, Baron Strassman and Abraham Marcus, of Wilkes-Barre; Jack Yanover, Scranton; Haskin and Sells, Hurdman and Cranston, Price Waterhouse, Peat, Marwick and Mitchell, all of New York; Price Waterhouse, Chicago; and Price Waterhouse, Newark.

Insofar as accounting as a career is concerned, Mr. Chwalek reports the field "wide open". "There is a crying need for trained accountants, not only public accounting but in the fields of government and industry. Actually Wilkes College does not have enough students to supply the demands of the companies conducting interviews."

S. Illinois U. Holds Poetry Reading Contest With 500 Dollar Award

Southern Illinois University, in conjunction with Webcor, Incorporated, manufacturers of tape recorders and recording tape, has announced the opening of the 1960 National Intercollegiate Competition in the Oral Interpretation of Literature.

This Competition is a speech contest open to all college and university students in the United States. Participants may be of graduate or undergraduate standing, either full- or part-time. The contest involves the interpretive reading and the recording of a selection. The selection to be taped is Edna St. Millay's "Renaissance," in its unabridged form.

Competitors must be approved and sponsored by the Chairman of the English Department. Not more than four recordings can be submitted from any one institution. The sex of the participants in the Competition will not be a matter of consideration.

The taped selection must be recorded at fast speed (7.5) on a five inch reel. No identification should appear on the box. Although it is not a rule of the Contest, and will have no bearing on the award of five hundred dollars to be given to the person recording the best interpretation, it is suggested that as a matter of courtesy, Webcor tape recorders and recording tape be used.

No original introduction to the selection should be made. After the conclusion, however, the student should identify himself and his college. Tapes may be submitted at any time prior to but not later than March 1, 1961.

Students interested in entering this contest should see the Beacon editor for further details.

Student Government Surplus To Be Used for Scholarships

This year, as was the practice last year, the Student Government has been accorded the privilege of awarding its budget surplus in the form of scholarship aid to eligible, qualified student applicants.

Bill Davis, committee chairman has announced that scholarship application forms may be secured from any Student Government representative, at the Student Government office between the hours of 9-12 and 1-4 daily, and from the secretary of the Student Government advisor, Mr. Robert Morris, center office, Chase Hall.

"Collage" Magazine Invites Student Works

by Bob Bomboy

Like to earn extra money for Christmas? Collage, the national collegiate-humor magazine, will pay for your wit-work.

College students are the magazine's chief contributors according to David Preiss, editor-publisher of Collage. "Collage Magazine," he says, "specializes in entertainment, enlightenment, and enjoyment."

Collage pays a penny a word for accepted material. Five thousand word, five thousand pennies — all in a paper sack.

Penmen may submit compositions in five writing categories:

Campus Compendium consists of at least five thousand words with pictures describing and commenting on the educational resources and facilities of the student author's alma mater. Compositions in this category must be submitted to the editor in outline form before acceptance of the finished article.

Athletica — two thousand muscular words. Background and anecdotes of participation are desired rather than spectator know-how.

Poetica — Serious commentary on any subject in verse is preferred.

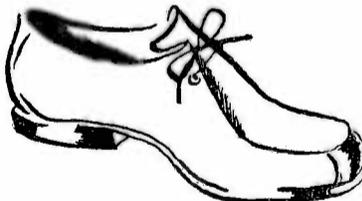

Fictional introspective stories consisting of no more than 850 words dealing with a single situation, individual, or idea are also acceptable. All magazine rights are normally purchased by Collage.

Artists may submit any composition other than wood cut, lithography, or silversmith. A photobiography of the artist will be published with each accepted composition.

All compositions must be submitted to: Collage Magazine, 1822 N. Orleans Street, Chicago 14, Illinois.

These scholarships will be available to students with good records of achievement and performance in high school and college who cannot fully finance the cost of their college education and who can demonstrate seriousness of purpose and effort.

Scholarship requirements:

1. Students holding present scholarships or receiving scholarship aid will not be eligible.

2. Students are required to exhibit academic prowess by the maintenance of at least a cumulative "2.0" average.

3. Selections shall be made primarily on the basis of need, scholarship and activities with weight assigned in descending order. The first category, need, shall carry the greatest weight.

4. The strict requirement stated in number 2 above may be waived by vote of the committee if the need is great and participation is strong.

Instructions to the Applicant:

1. To establish eligibility for a scholarship, the student must apply on an official form and submit such form to a Student Government representative or to Mr. Morris' secretary before 5:00 p.m. on December 14, 1960.

2. The back of the application is to be used to demonstrate financial need.

3. Any additional information may be submitted to the above named.

4. All information will be treated confidentially by the committee and students are invited to submit the applications in a sealed envelope if they so desire.
