Shambe, O'Connell, and Jim Jones Gain Classes' Presidency Posts

As a result of last Friday's election, Joseph Shambe, Brent O'Connell, and Al KisheL were elected as the senior, junior, and sophomore class presidents respectively during the 1961-62 academic year. The class of 1962 chose incumbent Joe Shambe, a commerce and finance major from Duquen, as their president. Running unopposed, Brent O'Connor of Alley was re-elected to the presidency of the class of 1965. Of the five candidates aspiring to the office of sophomore class president, Jim Jones, a biology major and a resident of Warner Hall, was selected to head his class during the coming year. Of the four candidates selected for the offices of vice-president, treasurer, secretary, and class representatives to the student government, respectively, are as follows:

Class of 1964: Barbara Stevens, Roger Kuehn, Larry Davis, Bob Len Yoblonski, Richard Burns, Fred Smithson, and Louis Coope.

Kishel To Head Student Government

Bianco, Walters, Thomas Chosen To Assist in Administration

Michael Bianco
Al KisheL

TUESDAY night's student government election saw close contests for all but one of the available offices; Jim Walters, incumbent student government president, ran unopposed for the office of treasurer.

In contests for the other offices, however, it was a different story. Active and able leaders were almost evenly matched in every campaign.

Carol Thomas, a representative of the class of 1963 and an elementary education major, was re-elected to the position of representative of the class of 1963, for the office of secretary.

Mike Bianco, a senior majoring in political science, successfully opposed Bob Rees and was elected to the office of vice-president for the 1961-1962 year.

The biggest clash of the election, however, was the race for the presidency. Here Al KisheL, a one-term president and twice-elected representative of his class (1962) defeated Mike Bianco.

The votes of newly elected representatives of the Student Government helped to make the outcome of the election improbable. The following new members voted for the first time last week: Bette Morrisson, 1961; Joe Smith, 1962; Benji Laskin, 1963; Richard Buran, 1964; and Bob Len Yoblonski, 1964. Climbing the election's ladder, Ms. Alfonso Zawadzki, Assistant Registrar, discussed the presentation of the controversial film, "Operation Abolition". This film, secured for her by the Student Government, shows the activities of the House Un-American Activities Committee last year. The film has elicited calls from area clergymen for objective interpretations of the marque concerning how the qualified and detached person familiar with the movie saw the guest of the riots.

As the final order of business it was announced that the final student government meeting will be at 6:30 p.m.

Another ‘First’ for Wilkes

This coming Monday, May 8, Wilkes will have the honor of playing host to the annual golf tournament of the Middle Atlantic Conference who will be holding once again for the championship of MAC golf.

This is the first time the tournament has ever been held in this area. The one-day event will be held at the Irem Temple Country Club — which boasts one of the most beautiful but experience golf courses in Pennsylvania — and Dr. Ben Marshall, local dentist and one of the area’s finest golfers, the Irem course was obtained for this year’s tournament.

With Colonel Coo ‘n’ Curtain in the direction of Mr. Alfred S. Greh. The tournament exhibited the outstanding performance of the evening at the humorous, melodious Bandwagon. This year’s winner was a wonderful ill-fated collaboration in the revivals of the Carolinian and Firstie. He exhibited a clear understanding of a difficult role that required both wit and perception for successful execution.

The Colonel portrayed the proud, scheming nobleman, brother of the Duchess. He performed the role with confidence and his skill remained constant throughout the entire performance. From his Vermont to his Wilkes, the character of the Duchess, must have featured the warmth and vitality which the character of the Duchess, must have featured.

Steve Schwartz, as the Duchess’s stepson, portrayed the youthful spirit of the romantic fanniebelle which the role demanded. This deficiency may have prevented Schwartz in experience, though, Mr. Schwartz exhibited the same affinity to the stage which the Duchess, as is evident in his phrasing and delivery of his monologues and blank verse.

Marc Hirschman, playing the part of the malvolent Cardinal, portrayed the role with a great deal of warmth and vitality which the character of the Duchess, must have featured.

Dear Sir,

You are quite disappointed and a little saddened to read a letter in this column on Friday, April 28, which posed the question, “Do you want to live?” I feel that the question should have been, “How do you want to live?”

The basic question is whether or not we have the potential and the desire to exterminate himself. We must accept the fact that the scientific and technological progress during the past century, and all the regrets and misgivings of which we are capable will not alter this situation. But we must also accept the fact that mankind still feels, I hope, that freedom is a condition worth fighting for. If we lose it, if we lose that freedom, then we lose the hope of living against fear against freedom.

There are worse things than fear. Mankind has lived with fear during most of his existence. This has often been a driving and stimulating, though uncomfortable, emotion.

If our fear of fear leads us to actions which result in the premature casting aside of weapons necessary to maintain our freedom, we may well find that we have traded one freedom for another, that of freedom.

Many of those who have lost freedom through reluctance to defend it or ignorance of its true value may have found that the opportunity of weighing fear against freedom.

We can be free, just as we can escape from insecurity, but we should ask ourselves — is it worth the price?

To the Editor:

I would like to extend my appreciation to all of my friends at Wilkes, and the many favors shown me during my stay here.

Everyone whom I have been extremely nice to me, and I am in a sense, representative of the Elizabethan stage. Mr. Greh deserves much credit for the comedy and every one demanding an undertaking.

STUDENT SKETCH

Busy Senior Favors Teaching; Class President for Three Years

By Jerry Shulanski

It will look more than eight weeks of student teaching to change Gilbert Davis’ mind about teaching or discourage him from continuing in the education field.

Summing up his recent teaching experience at Meyers High School, Gilbert, a senior English major, said, "If the experience I had at Meyers High School will be the same as my other experiences, I can only say that they will be of tremendous value to me when I enter the teaching profession this fall."

In talking with this generous senior and his attitude towards teaching, it is quite evident that he thoroughly enjoys his work. He is interested in people. In view of this it is not surprising that he is so enthusiastic about his field. Nor is it surprising that his classmates have elected him president of their class for three consecutive years.

Gil’s pleasant personality is echoed by the fact that he was one of the students chosen for this year’s Who’s Who Among Students in colleges and Universities, with being Treasurer and Parliamentarian of the Wilkes Chapter of the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity. He has been named the Outstanding Rotarian in the Wilkes Chapter for the past two years. Gilbert has been a Dean’s List student, a member of the Wilkes Student Senate, and was instrumental in promoting the recent Armstrong Jazz Concert last year.

When asked what he thought of the various organizations here on campus, he replied that he naturally considered the Jaycees to be the best organization, "but I do not think I can go very far in this," he said, "as I have been disappointed with many of the groups on campus, and I think they work too hard and because they seem to exist from nothing, they are not much of a group."

He remarked that “although the student participation has increased in the past year, and I think it has to do with the efforts of the School Spirit Committee, there could still be more coordinated activities between the day and dorm students. We could use the same people of fraternal organizations to work together to better the campus and we will not have to always work in the mountains for more than six sessions.

When fall comes Gil will go back to the lands where he will accept a teaching position at the Union County Regional High School in Springfield, New Jersey.

For long-range plans he is looking forward to graduate school and teaching English, and personal which he hopes to obtain within the next five years.

Gil is a 1967 graduate of Plymouth High School and is at this time residing in Plymouth, Pennsylvania, with his family.

Diamonds Down Scranton U., 6-3; Meet Crusaders in Return Game

The Colonel baseball team will journey to Scranton tomorrow to meet the Crusaders of St. John's University in a return MAC powder. The Crusaders won the first contest, 6-5, on the five hit pitching of Tom Williams. The big right-hander sent seven Colonels down swinging in downing Bob Fleming. On Tuesday afternoon the Colonels diamond celebrated their first game at the new athletic field by defeating the Crusaders of Scranton nine, 6-3. Bob Fleming won his second game of the campaign with six hitter while sending seven Royals back to the dugout strike-out victims.

After a scoreless first inning Coach Dyke's men exploded for four runs in the second stanza. A base on balls to Sam Cooper was followed by successive singles by Len Yankosky and Lou Zampetti to account for two runs. After "Tagy" Malferd received the second free pass of the inning, Matt Himlin sent two more runs home with a sharp single to left field.

The Royals scored single runs in the second and third innings and the Colonels added two in the bottom of the third. The Diamondmen put together three walks, a sacrifice by Cooper and a single by Yankosky to account for the runs. Scranton completed the scoring for the contest on a home run by catcher Oral Quinn in the sixth.

Len Yankosky led the Wilkes batters with three singles in four trips to the plate. The handy catcher also scored two runs when getting an rbi. Matt Himlin registered two runs batted in while Lou Zampetti scored two runs.

Last Saturday night the Colonels dropped a 14-7 decision to Lebanon Valley College in an eleven run fourth inning loss. With Bob Fleming making the contest a runaway as pitcher Mike Schweefel lost his first game of the season. Five Wilkes fielding miscues aided the Flying Dutchman in gaining the victory.

Walt Folks and Matt Himlin each produced two hits for the Colonels and Lou Zampetti smashed his first home run of the season.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Joe Hinzay Sparkles on Greens, Undefeated in Four Matches

In recognition of his steady stroke and prolific scoring ability against four tough opponents, Joe Hinzay has made the week's nod as "Athlete of the Week".

Joe demonstrated some beautiful shortmaking in shutting out his Mansfield and Scranton opponents by 5-0 scores. In both matches he scored in the seventies as his booming drive and consistent iron game proved too much for his opponents. Against Scranton the slender senior shut out the Warriors' Grant Jones and followed suit in Tuesday's action against Mansfield.

The veteran swinger is in his fourth year of collegiate competition and will be one of the Colonels' contingent of four looking for honors in the Midwest Atlantic Conference Tourney at Iowa State Temple University on Monday.

Hinzay is an alumnus of Wyoming High School where he starred in football, basketball and track. While at Wyoming High he was introduced to the game of golf. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hinzay of Wilkes-Barre.

The tourney has Temple University, Upsala College and Rutgers University competing for the first time. These additions bring the roster of entries to twenty-five.

The Colonels doffers picked up their third win of the season against Juniata Monday in defeating the Black and Gold State College's squad at Iowa State Temple by a score of 11½ to 6½.

Bob Balls is undefeated in two years of match play after downing Harry Jones of Juniata Sunday.
