Noted Authority On UN to Speak

by Bob Bomboy

Vince Capo, senior social studies major and president of C.C.U.N., has announced that Mr. Clark M. Eichelberger, Executive Director of the American Association for the United Nations, will speak at Tuesday's assembly.

The assembly, pointing up the importance of the U.N. as a steady force in international relations, will be held in conjunction with the local observance of United Nations Week.

Mayor Frank Slattery, in proclaiming October 23 through 29 as United Nations Week, locally, explained that the importance of the U.N. cannot be minimized.

Two years ago, Eichelberger, drawing on years of public service as a statesman, author, and world traveler, delighted our assembly with his warm Illinoisian humor and easy manner.

As National Director and Chairman of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, Mr. Eichelberger served the nation and the world.

Eichelberger materially assisted the preparation of the American draft of the Charter of the United Nations in his capacity as Consultant to the Department of State during World War II.

Later, in 1945, at the San Francisco Convention, Mr. Eichelberger aided the U.S. delegation which helped prepare the Charter of the United Nations.

Eichelberger will discuss some of the problems now facing the United Nations, in rapid-fire succession on Monday and Tuesday, to audiences at the Hotel Sterling, the Jewish Community Center, the Rotary Club, and the Wilkes assembly.

November 1 Deadline Set for Fulbright Scholarship Forms

by Patricia Boyle

The Institute of International Education has announced that November 1 is the deadline for accepting applications for Fulbright scholarships and Inter-American Cultural Convention awards.

The Fulbright awards provide recipients with transportation, expenses for the language refresher or orientation course, tuition, books, and maintenance for one academic year of study in Europe, Latin America, or the Asia-Pacific area. Recipients of the IACC awards will receive tuition, transportation, and partial maintenance costs for one year of study in one of seventeen Latin American countries.

Eligibility requirements for these awards are: United States citizenship; a bachelor's degree or its equivalent before the beginning date of the grant; knowledge of the language of the host country; and good health.

A demonstrated capacity for independent study and a good academic record are also important. Applicants are asked to submit a study plan in their major field to be carried out in one academic year abroad.

Students interested in these programs should consult the campus Fulbright advisor, Dean Cole, for further information and applications as soon as possible so that application can be completed before the November 1 deadline.

TENNIS NOTICE

Intramural tennis begins Monday, October 24. All candidates may pick up schedules at the office of Mr. Reese Friday afternoon. Announcement of matches will be posted on all bulletin boards.

UF Drive Reaches $800; Class Response Lacking

by Wayne Thomas

The campus United Fund Drive has achieved approximately two-thirds of its goal of $1200. At this time, over $885.75 has been turned in. The drive will close on Wednesday.

Mohn Cited for Outstanding Game

Jerry Mohn

The Beacon "Athlete" award this week goes to Jerry Mohn, five foot, eight inch, 180 pound sophomore guard from Levittown, Pa., for his outstanding performance in the 12-7 losing effort against Ursinus College last Saturday.

His fine play also attracted the attention of the press-box observers as a result of which he gained the designation "Sophomore of the Week" of the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference (ECAC). The first lineman to earn this intercollegiate honor this year, he knocked down four passes and made 15 tackles as the Colonels lost their fourth consecutive game of the season.

When one stops to consider that the ECAC has as members such teams as Bucknell, Army, Syracuse, Navy, Penn State, Lehigh, Holy Cross, and Penn, being Sophomore of the Week is definitely quite an honor.

He earned his letter in football in high school and quickly fit into football at Wilkes, gaining the yellow "W" in his freshman year. Mohn is a resident of Hollenback Hall and is majoring in chemistry.

This report is incomplete, however, and organizations have until Tuesday to complete their returns.

The total amount realized from the United Fund Dance which was sponsored by the Freshman Class was $157.70.

It should be noted from the above figures that support for the drive is especially lacking among the classes, and the total amount there has not reached the anticipated total of one dollar per person. The contributions in the classes are made by day students since dormitory students contribute through their respective residence.

Gordon Roberts and Al Kishel spoke at each compulsory class meeting on Thursday at which time they will stress the importance of the last several days of the drive.

The drive at this point has attained an amount higher than that reached by any previous United Fund drive on campus. All students are urged to make final returns to their respective representatives immediately.

No fees are charged for acceptance or submission of verse. Each poem must be typed or printed on a separate paper, and must bear the name and home address of the student, as well as the name of his college.

All work will be judged on its merit alone, and winning entries will possibly appear in the College yearbook.

Freshman elections, supervised by Student Government Representatives will be held Tuesday, October 25. Ted Begun is chairman of elections.

A committee with Ralph Pinsky as chairman was established to investigate the possibilities of having a Winter Carnival or a substitute event this year.

Literary Society to Hold Weekly Meetings; Classic Works Discussed

by Neil Castagnaro

Last Tuesday at 4 p.m. saw the first meeting of the Literary Society. This group which was formed last year is now under the supervision of Mr. Dirk R. Budd. The basic theme of the group for this year is to search for values through a study of contemporary literature.

At this past meeting, works of Thomas Henry Huxley and Matthew Arnold were considered in relation to criticism and value judgment. The first half of the discussion was led by Dr. F. J. J. Davies, head of the English department.

Planned for next week is a discussion of the poetry of Algernon Charles Swinburne and Dante Rossetti, which highlights the esthetic movement. ("Faustine", "Laus Veneris", "The Triumph of Time", "Hymn to Proserpine" and "The Garden of Proserpine" by Swinburne. "The Blessed Damozel", "Jenny", and "Troy Town" by Rossetti)

At an organizational meeting which was held a fortnight ago the following were elected to office. Stephen Schwartz, president; Ned Van Dyke, janitor; Pat Schwartz, secretary; and March Hirschmann, treasurer.

The group is open to new membership. Meetings are held every Tuesday afternoon at 4:00 p.m. in Mr. Budd's office on the third floor of Sturdevant Hall. The only prerequisite is that one read the selection due for the week.

Beggars Welcome at Paupers' Swing Tonight

by Gloria Zaludek

Are your shabby clothes beyond repair? Are you tired of being stared at because your best tattered outfit and newest worn-out shoes are conspicuous? That's great! Don your unique outfit, come to the Junior Class Dance, and for a change, be in style!

From nine 'til twelve tonight the gym will be a beggar's paradise. For fifty cents, the price of a ticket, every destitute in attendance will become eligible to receive a five dollar gift certificate from The HUB.

This prize, which will be awarded during intermission, will be given to the one most in need—the one with the oldest clothing.

Regarding the decorations for the dance, the "Paupers' Swing," the Junior Class promises that the gym will look different. Bobby Baird and his jazz band will not only furnish the dance music, but will also present a Dixieland jam session after intermission.

The Retailing Club is sponsoring a film "Terry Takes a Trip" Tuesday at 10 a.m. in Parrish 34. The film deals with selling techniques.

EDITORIAL—

A Memorable Weekend

Last week's Homecoming festivities were certainly a credit to all, students and administration alike, who worked so diligently for its success. Special mention must also be made of the fine weather which greeted the beginning of the weekend and continued through Sunday. The weather added immensely to the colorful Homecoming pageantry—the student displays, the soccer game, the crowning ceremonies, and the football game.

As expected, Queen Beverly and Princesses Betsy and Jan gave each activity which they attended a refreshing touch of royal beauty.

The Undergraduate Dinner-Dance was, as last year, attended by a capacity crowd. All seemed especially exuberant over the singing of Dean Ralston and the Collegians.

From the alumni view point, the week-end seemed to be the best ever. The Warm-Up party was held at the Carousel Motel for the first time, and many remarks were heard concerning the pleasant atmosphere which prevailed.

The weekend concluded with the Alumni Dance at the Irem Temple Country Club. As in the past, this affair was well attended. We certainly enjoyed seeing many friends and renewing acquaintances at the dance.

Special commendation should go to Gordon Roberts, Executive Alumni Secretary, and Bill Davis, Homecoming Chairman, for their fine efforts in bringing about a successful Homecoming.

Letter to the Editor . . .

To the Members of the Student Body:

This letter, unfortunately, will be published at the end of the 1960 Freshman Orientation Program. It is not being published in time to put an end to the injustices of this program, but we hope that it will act as a catalyst, to speed up a long-overdue reappraisal and reconstruction of Freshman Orientation.

The purpose of orientation is astonishingly simple: it is designed to help the incoming freshmen adjust to a new way of life so that the years he will spend at college will be rewarding ones. As a result of the weakness of the present program, thoughtless or misguided upperclassmen are permitted to release their near-sadistic tendencies or to compensate for their feelings of inferiority by taking advantage of the naive and inexperienced freshmen.

If the purpose of the program is to help the freshmen adjust, bravo! This is a fine and noble task to which the upperclassman must apply himself arduously and maturely. But if, in reality, there is an aberration, a deviation from the normal course and purpose of the program, the intelligent observer or participant in such a program must, in accordance with his rationality and reason, shun such a falsified and ignoble program as arduously as we worked for the fine and noble.

But, you say, what are the injustices of which I am speaking? When the incoming freshman arrives at Wilkes College, he is bombarded by a week of welcoming speeches, teas, dinners, and parties. During this week, life for him is relatively easy and free from stress; he is handled with kid gloves. But as he wakes to begin his first day of classes, the treatment of the previous week abruptly comes to an end. Not only must he contend with the trying and sometimes frustrating problem of academic adjustment, but he must also accomplish this while under the additional inconvenience of generally being subservient and pandering to requests of the most ridiculous and humiliating nature.

If we examine the situation carefully at this point, we will see one of the more illogical and unjust deviations of the program. We refer to the inequality and imbalance of it. The day student, who continues to life in an atmosphere which does not facilitate speedy adjustment to his new educational environment, is left relatively untouched and unassimilated, while the dormitory student, who is constantly surrounded by students with whom he lives, is made to bear the greater effects of upper-classman maliciousness.

In the dormitories, the freshman's burdens are compounded. There, he must study in between answering phones, shining shoes, going out for food, scrubbing stairs with a toothbrush, and otherwise catering to the whims of his superiors. The dormitory freshman, furthermore, is subjected to acts so crude and barbaric in nature that many of them defy description in a newspaper. It might here be advantageous to enumerate some of the less barbaric practices which are performed on Dormitory Hell Night:

Subjection to physical mistreatment as exemplified by paddling and the application of heat and pain-producing ointments to the body.

Subjection to processes which amount to brainwashing.

Subjection to the willful destruction of personal property.

Subjection to acute and unnecessary servitude and humiliation.

Subjection to situations of dangerous and traumatic effect.

Subjection to mild physical disfigurement, e.g., the shaving of W's and the dying of hair.

You say, "Well, the great majority of dormitory freshmen come

Presenting The Issues

This is the fourth in a series of articles concerning some of the issues prevalent in the current presidential campaign.

by Jerome Krasa, Chairman, "Students for Kennedy-Johnson"

It is necessary at this time to correct the misleading statements which were presented in this column for the last two weeks. Much that was presented was not the truth.

Regardless of what may be said about the kitchen debate, the fact remains that the Vice-President admitted to the world that the United States was behind the Russians in certain areas of scientific rocket development. (N.Y. Times, 7-25-59)

A well known and undisputed fact of the constitutional law of any nation is that, should a Prime Minister and his cabinet be forced to resign, his government is said to have fallen. This remains true if his party stays in power or not.

Before making his trip to South America, Mr. Nixon was warned by our State Department that trouble was brewing there. He was stoned as a symbol of adverse reactions to GOP policies in this area. These riots were "Communist inspired" only because Eisenhower policies toward Latin America provide a fertile bed for Communist infiltration. Walter Lippman, the noted columnist, wrote that "those who are responsible for the management of our relations with South America must answer to the charge of gross incompetence."

Although it is true that a large crowd turned out at Washington's National Airport to welcome Nixon home from South America, they came to pay their respect to the office of the United States Vice-Presidency which had never, under any administration, been so humiliated and degraded in the eyes of the world.

It is interesting to note that many points of my previous article were not even considered. It was not denied that only the Democratic Party cared enough about our foreign policy to make use of the best brains the Republican Party had to offer, and that the Republicans have disregarded this element of bipartisanship. It was not denied that the Eisenhower policy of tying economic aid to acceptance of military bases has caused many nations to join the neutralist camp. The Kishi Government did fall, along with the friendly governments of other nations. World opinion toward us is deteriorating. Every year we find fewer nations supporting our fight to keep Red China out of the United Nations. The 22 nations who abstained this year were more than enough to have turned the close vote against us. It was not denied that Cuba is now a member of the Communist camp. Our prestige in South America has slipped so far that the new president of Brazil had to curry favor with Castro in order to win the election. These items were not even mentioned in the last two weeks for even twice as much space cannot deny the facts.

In consideration of Nixon's experience, we find that his past record is incompatible with the claims of experience now being put forth in his behalf. In 1947, Nixon was a member of the GOP 80th Congress which disregarded President Truman's request for aid to Korea. In 1949, Nixon cast the deciding vote which killed the Korean aid bill only 5 months before the Communist attack. Three months before this attack, Nixon was absent and unrecorded on passage of a bill for 100 billion dollars in military aid to Korea.

He voted to cut initial military aid to our European allies by 50 per cent. (8-18-49) He voted to place a four division limit on U. S. troops in Europe. He was absent and unrecorded on the Point Four Program of technical assistance. (3-31-50) He followed the GOP "restrictionist" line in the fight for reciprocal trade. That was his foreign policy record.

Merely to have travelled to many countries is no evidence of an understanding of the problems of these countries. Columnist James Reston commented as follows, "Senator Kennedy has probably been a deeper student of foreign affairs for longer than the Vice-President." (N.Y. Times, 8-2-60)

Evidence of this comes when we consider the record of Senator Kennedy. Despite what anyone may have said to repudiate Senator Kennedy at the time of his Algerian speech in 1957, the fact remains that Charles DeGaulle presently is seeking a solution to the Algerian problem along the moderate lines laid down by John Kennedy.

A member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, chairman of the sub-committee on Africa, member of the Far East and Disarmament Sub-committees, Senator Kennedy recognizes and understands the problems of the world. In 1959, he co-sponsored a resolution which would establish an international free world mission to explore the long range foreign exchange needs of India and Pakistan. His proposals on India, such as the Kennedy-Cooper Resolution, his support throughout his terms in Congress of the Point Four Program, and his efforts to shift the emphasis of our foreign policy aid program away from a purely military basis are recognized as integral features of the realistic approach to foreign policy needed in the '60's.

In 1958 and 1959, Senator Kennedy was joined by Senator Aiken in leading the attempt to drive a wedge between Moscow and her satellite nations by use of U. S. aid at the discretion of the President through an amendment of the Battle Act. He was one of the original co-sponsors of the Food-for-Peace Act which would greatly expand America's ability to meet the food and development requirements of needy nations. He co-sponsored the development of a 5-Year Development Loan Program as part of the Mutual Security Act. His views have won acceptance in such publications as Foreign Affairs (10-57), The Reporter (9-18-58), The Progressive (1-58), and The New York Times Magazine (7-8-54) to name only a few. His book "Why England Slept", a best seller published in 1940, was an acute analysis of public thought in England before World War II. His newest

FOOTBALL TEAM AWAY AT LYCOMING

Booters Away at Long Island Against Hofstra; Ferrismen Out for Second Win of Season; Shut Out by Lycoming, 4-0, in Homecoming Match

Warriors' Fast Line, Accurate Passing Down Colonel Legmen

by George Tensa

Tomorrow coach Jim Ferris' soccermen will make the long journey to Long Island to meet Hofstra College in a MAC contest. Both squads have a small nucleus of returning veterans but are faced with the identical problem of having to use inexperienced men on the starting lineup. This contest should be one of the best matched games on the schedule. Last year the two teams battled to a 1-1 tie in a muddy Wilkes Homecoming match.

In the Homecoming contest last Saturday, the Colonel booters were defeated by a spirited Lycoming College squad, 4-0. The team seemed to lack the spirit and drive that has kept Wilkes soccer at a high level.

The Warriors started fast by stealing the ball from the Colonels early in the first period and promptly setting up Fred Feigley for their first goal. The booters fought back throughout the quarter with Frank Lepore and Walt Prusakowski leading the way. Only the top-notch play of goalie Bob Ontko kept the Warriors from scoring again. Lou Zwiebel set up several scoring opportunities but there was a lack of a "big foot" to dent the net.

Outstanding defensive play by both backfields highlighted the second period until a bad kick by a Colonel defender put the ball in front of the Wilkes net from where Travis banged it home for Lycoming's second goal.

Lycoming struck again early in the third stanza for their third score when Mike Burr headed the ball into the net on a corner kick. The Colonels kept the ball deep in Warrior territory for most of the remaining time in the quarter but failed to score. They came as close as possible when the ball settled on the goal line but although several linemen had a kick at it, the ball eluded their efforts and their biggest opportunity was lost when a Lycoming defender booted it out of scoring territory.

The Colonels kept the pressure on the Warrior goalie throughout the first half of the last stanza but still lacked that "little extra" needed to score. When the Ferrismen began to fade with the final minutes ticking away, the Warriors reversed the situation and applied the offensive pressure on John Adams, the Wilkes goalie. Adams stood up against the sudden offense and robbed Lycoming of three goals with difficult saves but Travis hit the net for the second time in the day and gave the Warriors a 4-0 victory over Wilkes.

Pinbusters, Alley Cats Tie for First Place; Watkins' 211 Sets Pace

In last Sunday's intramural bowling competition the Alley Cats entered a first place tie with the Pinbusters by virtue of their 3-1 win over the Tornados. The Pinbusters split with the Screwballs, winning the first two games only to lose the series by one pin. The Gutterdusters slipped to third place after managing to tie their first game with the Boozers.

The only 4-0 shutout of the night was turned in by the Ebonites as they romped over the Playboys, giving the Ebonites a firm hold on second place. Mike Dydo, assistant football coach displayed fine form as he turned in a 381 total for two games and a league high average of 190 in the Boozers 3 1/2-1/2 defeat of the Gutterdusters.

Ebonites 4, Playboys 0

Behind Dave Sokira's 183-515 the Ebonites fought their way to a clean sweep over the Playboys. Bill Watkins' 211-528 was high for the Playboys.

Ebonites: Sokira 183-515, Tony Doknovitch 161-430, Bob Schechter 152-404, Steve Klein, 151-368, Elva Chernow 149-362.

Playboys: Watkins 211-528, Ed Stofko 137-497, Jim Antonio 152-393, Tom Dysleski 153-267, Jim Pace 120-212, Mary Fox 87-167.

Boozers 3 1/2, Gutterdusters 1/2

The score closest to a clean sweep without actually going all the way was turned in by the Boozers as they and the Gutterdusters tied their first game before the Boozers took control of the situation and

Bears' TD on Kickoff Return, Missed Scoring Chances Help Ursinus Downs Gridders, 14-7

The football team travels to Williamsport tomorrow to take on the Warriors of Lycoming College in an effort to pick up their first win of the season and to try to rid themselves of the seeming inability to capitalize on scoring opportunities.

The Colonels were defeated, 13-0, in last year's contest between the two teams and their record against Lycoming stands at one win and five losses. The Warriors have essentially the same team as they had last year, having lost only three men through graduation. Their record so far this fall is one win and three losses, having picked up their first victory last Saturday as they downed Edinboro State College, 12-6.

The gridders lost their fourth consecutive game of the season Saturday as they were defeated by Ursinus, 12-7, before a large Homecoming Day crowd in Kingston High School stadium. The game was highlighted by the Bears' left halfback Ron Ritz's 82 yard scoring return of the Colonels' second half opening kickoff to give Ursinus a 12-7 lead and all the scoring that was then needed to win.

Wilkes' first opportunity came early in the first quarter when Al Dobrowski's punt was fumbled by Ursinus on their 33, where it was recovered by Tom Krisulevich. The scoring chance faded shortly thereafter as the Colonels gained only four yards to the 29 where the Bears took over on downs.

Minutes later Krisulevich intercepted a Ursinus pass and returned it to the 50, from where the Colonels marched to the Bears' five before again losing the ball on downs. Marv Antinnes, who had returned to the lineup after recovering from his shoulder injury, and Tom Krisulevich did the bulk of the ball-carrying on this futile drive.

The gridders' defensive wall held and Ursinus was forced to punt, with Krisulevich returning it to his own 49. With Antinnes and Krisulevich again carrying the ball, the team moved to the Ursinus one, from where Antinnes scored through a hole in the Bears' left tackle slot. Quarterback Paul Aquilino added the point after touchdown with a boot between the uprights. Wilkes led, 7-0.

Ursinus came roaring back to the Wilkes 46 but were forced to punt. Again the Colonels started to move but a fumble gave the Bears possession of the ball on the Wilkes 36. Emmert, the Bears' quarterback, took to the air and hit Leatherman with a pass on the ten. Leatherman then carried the ball five more yards before he was brought down. Two plays later Emmert completed a pass to Allenback in the end zone for the Bears' first score. Wilkes led, 7-6.

The second half started fast with Ritz' runback of the opening kickoff which gave Ursinus a 12-7 lead and all the scoring necessary to win the game.

Statistically the Colonels led by piling up thirteen first downs to six for the Bears. They outgained Ursinus on the ground, mostly on the running of Antinnes and Krisulevich.

Jerry Mohn was not the only member of the team to gain ECAC recognition for his outstanding play in the game as fullback Marv Antinnes received honorable mention from the conference in its weekly poll of press observers.

Antinnes won the pair of Bostonian shoes which Tom MacHale of the Bostonian Shoe Department of The HUB had offered to the member of the team who made the longest run against Ursinus.

Catlin, Hollenback, Chemists Capture Homecoming Awards

by Neil Castagnaro

This year as in previous years there were various awards for Homecoming displays last weekend. Trophies were presented to the best men's and best women's dormitory displays, as well as to the best club or organization.

Catlin Hall took first honors in the women's competition while Hollenback received honors for the best men's dormitory display.

In the club and organization category, the Chemistry Club took first place with their distillation display.

Catlin Hall also received the overall award for the best display on the entire campus.

The awards were provided by the Alumni association. With the exception of the overall award all are kept permanently by the respective winners. The overall award, given to Catlin Hall, is a rotating one which is passed on from winner to winner with each succeeding year.

The entire project of organizing, decorating and judging was under the direction of the I.D.C. which deserves a compliment for the high caliber displays. Of course the complete success or failure of the competition rested upon those who actually planned and erected the displays; to those who served on their respective dorm committees must go a great deal of praise.

ICG Exec. Committee Holds Convention; Mock Election Coming

The state executive committee of the Intercollegiate Conference on Government met in Harrisburg on October 16. Over fifty Pennsylvania colleges and universities were represented by the sixty-five state and regional representatives present.

Plans for the Model State Legislature were discussed and a complete program of political and governmental activities decided upon.

Mike Bianco, Northeastern Regional Director, has announced that I.C.G. activities in this area will be extended from the present thirteen chapters to at least three or four more colleges.

Mr. Arthur Hoover, I.C.G. advisor, also announced that the Citizenship Clearing House would cooperate with the I.C.G. again this year in sponsoring internships at the state and national level for qualified students, political debates, and in inviting members to the C.C.H. convention later this year.

Membership in the I.C.G. is open to all interested students regardless of major. Meetings are held on Tuesday at 11 a.m. The scheduled program for this year is as follows: Mock presidential elections; I.C.G. dance on November 4; Instruction in Parliamentary Procedure; election night social; a lecture series by government officials; organizational study of student government and club functions in every aspect; Regional Executive Committee Meeting on November 13, at the college; and legislative enactments for the model state legislature.

Economics Club Selects Outing Site; Plans for Field Trips

by Leona A. Baiera

At the Economics Club meeting last Tuesday at 11 o'clock in Gies Hall, plans for the forthcoming year were discussed. Mark Levy, chairman of the Economics Club Outing on October 30, suggested two places for the outing, Rummage's Grove and Veto's Grove in Nanticoke. The club voted for Veto's. This has to be approved by the Student Government.

The club decided to have Joe Nardone and his All-Stars for their Friday night dance on December 16. Jerry Chisarick, treasurer of the club, is chairman of the dance. Plans for future field trips will be discussed at a later date.

A treasurer's report showed a cash working balance of $69.90. A motion was passed to donate $5.00 to the United Fund.

Lois Agostini gave a report on the Club's homecoming display at the Guidance Center. A motion made to set aside a special fund for next year's homecoming display was defeated.

President Pete Back appointed Lois Agostini to fill a vacancy on the Economics Council. Nominations for the Stock Committee was postponed for next week's meeting due to a lack of time.

Ballot Applications Due

by Jerry Shilanski

The date of the presidential election is drawing nearer and it has been brought to the attention of this paper that there is very little time left in which students may apply for an absentee ballot. The deadline for the return of the applications to the individual County Board of Elections in Pennsylvania and New York is November 1. October 31 is the New Jersey deadline.

It has been estimated that fifty thousand students in Pennsylvania are eligible to vote by absentee ballot. These would include most senior class members and nearly all graduate students.

In order to qualify for the absentee ballot the student must be registered in his home district. A personally signed request for the application must be submitted to the Chief Clerk of the County Board of Elections.

The student will then receive an application which must be filled out and returned not later than November 1. The absentee ballot with instructions will be forwarded to the prospective voter prior to the election date.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

through hazing with ease." You may be right; yet, we must not forget the "weak." It is the "weak" who suffer traumatic effect; it is the "weak" to whom harm may more readily come. And the minority must not be overlooked. In fact, reasoning members of our college community are certain to realize that the "weak" must be protected.

Presently, the orientation system is foolish, illogical, and antiquated. With the need for proper education, more and more schools are doing away with institutions which detract from scholarship. Wilkes College, in this respect, is the avant garde, because it has un-stressed intercollegiate athletics and "rah-rah" campus activity, and placed the greater emphasis on learning.

And now perhaps this problem should be approached from the view of principle and logic. I have previously said that maturity and guidance are necessary requirements for the adaption of an orientation program. Can we, the upperclassmen, say in all truth and sincerity that the orientation programs in which we have participated have been guided by the principles of maturity, good judgement, and discretion? Can we, the upperclassmen, say in all truth and sincerity that we have not many times lost sight of the very clearly defined objective of orientation? We can not! The upperclassman, unfortunately, does not have the maturity to plan and execute an effective orientation program. Such a program must be handled by school administrators, qualified guidance counselors, and psychologists, men who have had the necessary experience to guide the young.

Sacred indelible tradition must be erased, and it must be replaced by reason and maturity. We, the students, are the only ones who can cause the abolition of the old program and the institution of a new one. We must begin to realize the need for reason in our relations with people. It is time we started helping with our heads, and that we stopped hazing with our hands.

book "Strategy of Peace" further demonstrates his brilliant grasp of the problems of foreign policy.

It is not Senator Kennedy who is conducting a smear campaign or who is trying to defraud the American people. It is not John Kennedy who is asking Americans to reject party labels, to forget party philosophies, to disregard past records. It is not he who is naively trying to confuse past record with false promises for the future. Reconsider the issues, re-evaluate past records, weigh the merits of both candidates. You will then realize that Senator Kennedy is the only candidate who has consistently demonstrated those qualities which are essential to the leadership necessary for the '60's.

Best Sellers Offered For Leisure Readers

by Gloria Zaludek

Most students utilize library facilities only when they have a term paper due, a research project on hand, or some other pressing assignment deadline. Reading for enjoyment is at a minimum in the library. However, the leisure reading facilities in the library are in the process of being improved.

The recent college evaluation pointed up the need to stock library shelves with more best-selling novels and general works of outstanding quality. Needless to say, materials which will augment the courses of study will also be incorporated into the expanded facilities.

This year has been encouraging in that circulation statistics show the number of books borrowed by students greater than at any previous time. Likewise, the cataloging and processing departments are bringing out large volumes of books at an ever-increasing rate — approximately 3,000 titles have been processed since the fifty thousandth book was added during the spring semester.

In keeping with the interest in improved library facilities, and consequently new books, the Beacon will run features on some of the most outstanding library selections.
