Jazz Royalty — Duke Ellington

Jazz King Presents "Just Music": Juniors Expect Large Turnout

by Barbara A. Loe

Sound the trumpets — strike up the brass band — roll out the red carpet. For Tuesday evening, the "King of Swing," Duke Ellington, will reign at the Junior Class Jazz Concert tomorrow evening in the gym.

To activate the community interest, Duke's visit, WBRX will broadcast a personal interview with him either on Friday evening or Saturday afternoon, depending on his arrival. An offer was even received by the committee in charge to broadcast the entire concert, but feeling that this would defeat the purpose of the "live show," the committee refused.

Because of the splendid cooperation Bernard Cohen, publicity chairman, received from the local television, radio, and newspaper media, no one in the valley will have an excuse for missing this "opus," with the Jazz Concert Show, WILK, and the Nightbeat Show, WGBI, even donated entire shows to Ellington music as a preview of what to expect at the concert.

These previews should have been sufficient proof that Ellington's appeal is not limited to a "jive" out — jazz enthusiasts who gather in back street, dim, smoke-filled dives, but is universal. The first bandleader to crack Carnegie Hall, Ellington has returned there annually since 1943 — proof of his warm and hearty welcome. His combination of his highbrow appeal his compositions Harris was commissioned by the NBC Symphony Orches- tra under the baton of Arturo Toscanini.

Evidence that his many facets extend to the realm of motion pictures is Ellington's prominence for the movies of Anatomy of a Murder and Sunset Blvd. for the television series Asphalt Jungle.

Not only do his records and albums own wide-spread acclaim, but audiences, young and old, high and low of the concert, dance halls, concert halls, theaters, auditoriums, and even bomb shelters in Japan, respond to his music.

Perhaps the answer to his phenomenal appeal lies in his own statement: "There's no longer a problem in jazz. Ellington just music."

A vote of confidence with a Capitol touch came from contestant Lambert who wrote: "Duke Ellington is a real composer — the first jazz composer of note and the first who has the opportunity of forming a personal staff of talent. There are few contemporary composers who display the invention and sense of life to be found in Duke Ellington's imagination."

Handling arrangements for this evening is Raymond Carver, chairman of the committee, and Stephen Faskey, chairman of the committee, who has announced that general admission tickets at $3 and reserved tickets at $3.50 are available. Tickets are available at Square Record Shop, from any member of the junior class, at the college, and at the door. Reservations can be made by calling WILK 3-6003 or writing to Duke Ellington in care of Wilkes College.

Secondary Students Are Guests Of Education Club This Tuesday

Representatives of more than 40 area high schools have been invited to a meeting of regional Future Teachers of America Clubs on Tuesday evening from 7:30 p.m. on the second floor of the College. Fred Rossi, president of the college, announced that female members of the club will serve as hostesses for the affair which is expected to draw about 100 high school students.

In addition to being a social affair, the event has a definite educational purpose. In the words of Mike Elais, general chairman for the event, the meeting will introduce prospective teachers to Wilkes College and its educational facilities, giving students of local high schools an opportunity to acquaint themselves with the elementary and secondary fields. The event will also help initiate F.T.A. Clubs in those area high schools where none now exist.

The program will begin with a special address by Dr. Ham- mers, who in the general group, will then be divided, according to the students' major fields of in- terest. A feature of the meeting will be the group's luncheon. A senior education major, who has done a great deal of preservice and in-service work, will conduct the session, which will be addressed by members of the faculty.

"Hampton Twist" Tonight

Waxweiler and Butler dormitory musical group, "Hampton Twist" will tonight at Butler Hall from 9 to 12 p.m. Admission is free.

Honored guests at this dance are the members of the Hampton In- diana College group, sponsored by the ad hoc committee.
Welcome Hampton

This weekend marks the first phase of the annual Wilkes-Beacon exchange program. We of the Beacon would like to take this opportunity to welcome these students to our campus and to extend to them an enjoyable weekend. Much can be gotten from this annual program. In addition to the entertainment factor involved, much can be learned by both parties. We hope that the improvements in all phases of collegiate life made by both Wilkes and Hampton can be greatly beneficial.

Alumni Seminar

Seminars have made frequent appearances in the news lately and no doubt much profit has been gained from such gatherings. Tomorrow evening, a step forward in the area of alumni development will take place when the first President's Alumni Seminar is conducted. The planning of such a conference and recognition needed for the establishment of a program which will bring the alumni closer together with the college. The seminar is a means which will aid greatly in shortening the gap which separates the generations, and the college after the individual leaves the campus. Several other purposes will be fulfilled by such a conference. Alumni from widely-separated areas closer together and to the college, the session will also provide an opportunity for the free expression of opinions, many of which may be contributory to the development of the college. Our alumni represent a wide variety of fields of endeavor and their professional opinion, accented by their personal experience with the college will prove invaluable.

Letter to the Editor...

Dear Editor,

Congratulations Ashley Hall! Once again you have proven your virility, perseverance, and maturity to the Student Senate of Wilkes College, which you are now a member of. Congratulations also to James Smith, who, as a member of Albert Einstein's, admits the agility and physical prowess of his team. Students at Wilkes College will be present to enable the student to make his contribution as quickly as possible.

With the increased involvement in the blood donor program, no student who is eligible to give blood shall fail to do so next Wednesday. A goal of 200 pints has been set for the student body which is about 142 members. This means that if only one-sixth of the total student body donates a pint of blood, the goal will be reached. It takes so little of one's time, and yet means so much. The goal of 200 pints is very small as compared with the tremendous potential we have on our campus.

We all realize that there are many who for various reasons are unable to give blood, but these exceptions are few. Every healthy adult on campus should make the effort on Wednesday to do your share for your fellow man. Give blood... and help save a life. It will cost you nothing.

Debate Society Travels To New York City For C. W. Post Meet

The Debate Society will attend a three-round debate tournament at C. W. Post College in Long Island, New York. The debate question is "Resolved: That labor unions shall be under the jurisdiction of the anti-trust legislation of the country." The affirmative side of the question is Lynne Danto and John Campbell with opposing resolutions, the regulars, Jerome Krasa and John Pikulski. On the afternoon of Saturday, the group will travel to City College, New York to attend a one-on-one tournament. There will be a change on the team. Andy Majewski will replace Jack Blumenthal, the regular affirmative team.

The State Society will participate at Bucknell University. The Good Neighbor Tournament is an annual affair, and this year it was held on this campus, April 14, 1962. At each of the tournaments, the top three teams will receive awards.

"Would You Build A Fallout Shelter?"

Mr. Joseph Kanner, instructor, psychology dept.

Yes, I would build a fallout shelter. To prepare for the worst while I work for the best, whatever the best or worst may be. If the worst becomes a nuclear holocaust, it might be worth the time and effort to build a shelter so that I would want to survive in such a world. Yes, I would want to survive in such a world. Then I would want to re-create. To reach once again for the time when there was peace. To ask once again the same questions and hope for better answers. Why? Because I didn't understand. No answer would satisfy you.

Barbara Looe, sophomore, English major

I would build a fallout shelter at the present time would be a waste of time, energy, and money. But if we are going to war and the atomic bomb is dropped, it is necessary to protect ourselves from this atomic attack.

Unfortunately that fallout shelters have been undergirded by a "false security."

George Gavales, senior, political science major

I would not build a fallout shelter. I would not build a fallout shelter any more than I would live in a cave or a tree house. People who build fallout shelters are fools not that I forget one important fact: the next war can only be won by fighting back. Burrowing in holes, surrendering ourselves with concrete walls and steel doors. They can be sold at exorbitant prices does not make them any more expensive. Such action simply adds to the grim humor to a situation that is deadly serious.

Dr. Frederic E. Ballew, Associate Professor of Physics

Your question might be reworded as "Would you want to send your son or daughter on a missionary pact of a post nuclear war society?"

My answer is "Yes," but my spirit wants to answer "No." I should not, therefore, build a shelter.

Krasa Chooses Legal Profession, Speaks of Debate Experience

by Gloria Zaludek

"Unaccustomed as I am to public speaking..." thus began this interview with a senior who is undoubtedly one of the best public speakers on campus — Jerome Krasa of Hanover Township.

"Modest Jerry" as he is known to his friends, is a senior political science major who has had previous experience with the Wilkes Debate Society and previous debate experience as a member of the Hanover Township High School debate team.

Jerry has also coached a group of high school students debaters of Jewish Community Youth. Of his debating experience Jerry says, "Traveling experiences with students on other campuses is both exciting and educational. I've enjoyed travelling with the debate team, and I believe this speaking experiences have been an important profession." Jerry intends to study law, and has been accepted to Vandelbilt Law School in Nashville, Tennessee — how will he possibly face a case with such a well-modulated, and expressive voice?

Active in other segments of campus life, Jerry was named to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. He is a Dean's List student, and a member of his class executive committee. For the past year Jerry has been chairman of the Kraus-Robinson debate on the political campaign. An avid baseball fan, Jerry also enjoys "fishing, although I was once told that reading wasn't a hobby." He paused, then added, "I like to sing, but don't mention that; maybe my voice sounds like a warped record. All right, Jerry, we won't mention it.

When changing his major from engineering to political science, he had the opportunity to take a year off, as he is on campus. Readers will remember articles written for the Beacon last year in the Kraus-Robinson debate on the political campaign. He paused, then added, "I like to sing, but don't mention that; maybe my voice sounds like a warped record. All right, Jerry, we won't mention it.

Shawneeites Win American Crown As National Playoffs Continue

In a modern marathon of speed and endurance the Shawneeites ended the long American Intermural Basketball League trials with one last scoring surge to capture their league laurels. The long awaited clash with their National League counterparts was further delayed by a "mooz-lique"-played series to determine the leading team. At last count four teams were battling for playoff berths in the junior circuit.

Taking the lead with a beginning tally of four consecutive goals, the Shawneeites gained a lead over the Heads that they never relinquished. Quick goals by Matt Himlin and Stan Marzicovich gave the high-flying Indians their opening scores before "Head" Wruble put the Pittstonmen on the score-board with a jump-shot.

The Plymouthmen utilized a fast-break to take a commanding lead at the half as the Heads were on the short end of a 32-22 score.

In the third period the Heads put a full-court press into operation. With Bond and Carver scoring and Len Yankoskey sweeping the backboards clean, the Heads cut the Shawnee margin to a scant three points. With two minutes left in the period, the five ironmen of Plymouth rallied to their lead to nine points, 49-40, at the three-quarter mark.

Final period action found the Heads put in a powerful effort by which they scored twenty-one goals between the 9:00 and 11:00 marks. The game was lost to the Shawneeites.

Diamonds Open At Muhlenburg: Underclassmen Dominate Lineup

On Tuesday the Colonel baseball team will be confronted with their initial conflict of the season when they meet the Mules of Muhlenberg College. Last season the Dymence blasted the Mules 11-4, as they connected for fifteen singles behind the steady nine-hit hurling of Bossert. The forces from ulenberg on their home field will be seeking to reverse this humiliation.

Coach Dyde has been drilling the squad for the past few weeks and will be going into the opening engagement with a team composed essentially of underclassmen. From the tentative starting lineup, it appears that there are three freshmen and a couple of varsity veterans.

Freemason Ron Grohowski of Meyers High School will start at first base. Don is a spray-type hitter that sparked the Meyers club last year.

JOBS . . . CAREERS . . .
What's the difference between the two?

A JOBS
It necessary to earn a living or to supplement present limited income

A CAREER
It a goal that creates a man or woman who is willing to make early sacrifices by working hard and long, of course, to become a qualified executive. A CAREER may begin with their initial asset or stake that awaits the eager hand of another freshman, Don Vasoski of Newport. Last season he gained All-District honors in both baseball and basketball. He played semi-pro ball last summer with the Sh.Navigator, the Central League.

Lou Zappetti, a sophomore third baseman, will provide a degree of the power's core. Last season the G.A.R. product provided fine performances both at bat and in the field. From early indications the right-hand swinger is right on target to embark upon another productive campaign.

At present Tom Troks and Al Gilbert, both freshmen, are contending for the varsity spot. Tom Troks, last year, played for Plains High in the Wyoming Valley Championship by defeating Newport in the final.

Progress of the only senior on the starting line-up, will add more power to the squad. Playing his fourth season for the Colonels, Pat will be stationed in left field.

Another returning letters-winner in sophomore, Matt Himlin, who will man the centerfield post for Dyde's charges. Matt was one of the leading hitters on last year's squad and is expected to repeat his previous performance.

Sophomore Len Yankosky will be stationed in right field. Last season Len was a catcher, but he was converted to third base in an effort to give the colonels a more robust attack.

In a perfect world, a player will perform catch duties. Ken, a sophomore, is at this goaldigger from last year's squad.

Among the members of the squad of Coach Gary Persich, are returning lettermen, Joe Kluck and Mike Tavelli. Both are experienced and are to be the mainstays of the staff. Nick Gentile and Bob Weck will be relied upon for the rather lean pitching rotation.
Reif's Topic Is Over-population
At Student Seminar On Sunday

by Lynne Dente

Dr. Peter B. Reif, chairman of the biology department, will conduct the third seminar discussion sponsored by the Associated Women's Students Sunday at 8 p.m. on the second floor of the Commons. Dr. Reif's topic will be "Overpopulation: a controversial subject of universal concern. Overpopulation has become a major crisis in an age when the infant mortality rate has been lowered and the life span has been increased. Experts estimate that ultimately at the present rate of reproduction there will be only one square mile of living area per person, which is not adequate to meet the ever-increasing population explosion and its resulting effects.

Last Thursday, Mr. Joseph Kan-ner, assistant professor of history, led the seminar group in a discussion on "Individual Joy and Individual Responsibility." Mr. Kanner introduced his remarks by briefly discussing the meaning of individual responsibility, one area leading to surrendering responsibility in the larger areas, thereby reducing all freedom.

At the conclusion of the discussion, Mr. Kanner presented a working definition of what society should censor what material. The AAWC's seminar discussion is open to all students interested in thought-provoking conversation.

Foreign Movie Based On French Novel
To Be Presented

The Red and the Black, a movie based on the novel by Stendahl, will be shown at the French Club, Thursday, April 8 at 8 p.m. The movie is an international production, voted the best feature film of the year by the French Film Dates. It is the story of the life of Julien Sorel, born too late to be a part of Napoleon's army, aspiring for the red in the title.

A portable language laboratory, the gift of the Class of 1960, will arrive within 30 days and will be installed for use next semester in the modern language department.

This compact laboratory will perform all the functions of the larger language record laboratory. It will also have the added advantage of being easy to install and store. Finger-point control will allow the instructor to communicate with one or all of the students at a flick of his master control switch. This equipment will also allow the student to monitor and evaluate his own progress by playing back recordings of his own voice in a foreign language.

I realize that day hops, commuting students who often work part time, find it difficult to return for evening activities. Transportation is also a problem. Such inconveniences tend to kill spirit and participation, I added. Jerry, incidentally, works part time in the cutting room of a local paper factory, yet finds time to be active on campus. This year he was chairman of his senior class dinner dance, and of the United Fund Campaign on campus.

Concluding the interview, Jerry expressed a desire to see a fine arts building erected soon. He feels that as much time should be spent in developing this cultural aspect of the campus as it goes on in developing other fields of study.
