BURNS ELECTED NEW SOLON PRESIDENT

Weekend's Events Close Social Season

Newly elected officers of Student Government are Richard Burns, president; Cathy DeAngelis, vice-president; Jim Jones, secretary; Vicki Tats, treasurer.

Alumni Memorial Fund Established By Seniors to Aid Present Donations

The I.G. recently held a meeting at which Jeff Gallett, chairman of the club, announced next year's officers. They are: Carol Meneguzo, vice-chairman; Jim Lisowski, secretary; Richard Shemo, treasurer. Gallett also appointed chairs for the standing committees: Carol Meneguzo, membership; Richard Shemo, ways and means; Gary Roberts, programs; Ali Pucilowski, publicity; Al Airold, debate; George Vallakett, constitution; Karen Valgamos, newsletter.

I.G. was presented with a new Constitution which states that the purpose of the club is to make available to students of the College a medium for promoting active interest, application, and participation in the various phases of practical politics involved in a democratic society, and to affiliate themselves with the parent organization, the Intercollegiate Conference on Government. The club also voted unanimously to present a type of newsletter, written by a member, on various current issues to other colleges for comment. Also discussed were the club's participation in next year's assembly program and the possibility of a debate team.

This was the final meeting of the current semester.

Alumni Memorial Fund Established By Seniors to Aid Present Donations

The I.C.G. has set a national precedent by agreeing to establish its own Alumni Fund, separate and distinct from the type now conducted by the Wilkes College Alumni Association. The project will operate along the lines of a Class Memorial Fund, to which members would add over the years. The donated money itself, however, will serve as the "memorial." Class members will specify the area in which they desire their particular donations to be allocated.

Planned by class officers, the project was presented to the Class of '68 at a recent meeting. The group showed its enthusiasm by adopting the measure and pledging $1700 toward the goal. This represents $7 per cent participation and brings the average amount pledged to approximately 1/20th per person.

Senior Class President Brent O'Connell said that the fund would serve as a tie between the graduate class and the College. Contributions are necessary to the growth of one's alma mater, he said. And the progress the school makes will certainly be "reflected in our diplomas and our worth." O'Connell also commented that the establishment of such a fund would give a greater incentive to Alumni donations. Graduates would take a more active interest if the contributions were to be placed in a distinct Alumni Memorial Fund in which they would have an interest as a class as well as alumni of the institution. The senior leader also expressed his hopes that succeeding classes will continue the tradition.

HOVER CLARIFIES FACTS CONCERNING FINANCIAL AID

Misunderstandings concerning financial aid from the College has prompted Arthur J. Hoover, administrative assistant to the President, to clarify some points, namely:

(1) That the deadline for filing scholarship renewal and National Defense Student Loan forms is next Friday, May 17.

(2) That students desiring a National Defense Student Loan must file an application every year.

I would like to remind the campus and Jack Hardie that: "You cannot have your cake and eat it too."

*I thank my small mind for the compliment.

I would very much like to bring to the attention of those setting up the correct situation present (and for as long as I can remember), that Griffith, intended, when I refer to the unique drinking fountain in the man's half. I can be turned so that the handle is on the outside, but the cleaning lady (in a very large, Clark Line because he has his (in his show) complain when the water runs down the floor. Well, when I'm thirsty, I'll just be off, and get my head (up the elbow) soaking wet in order to partake of that fluid. However, I draw the line at waterboarding.

It seems to me that someone in the building of the mathematics department and engineers' drawing board geometry classes, and that every fountain which the crew could install in it. However, there is no problem. The fountain should not have to go through such an ordeal to get a drink.

We feel confident in stating that all who participated in the activities of Hampton Weekend were reaped the benefits of an enlightening education. In addition, the positive social experience was necessary for the success of the event.

It goes without saying that the decision to call a constitutional convention is a political act. The decision to propose a constitutional convention depends upon how individuals and groups feel about the constitution and how likely they are to affect the provisions of the Con- gression, whenever the question of constitutional change arises, many argue that, in order to be effective, it is costly and cumbersome and suggest the ultimate resolution by amend- ment. The opponents of the con- stitutional convention cite the complexities of a constitutional convention, but this is not the case. For example, the question could be, "close-up," the "full-line." Are there any advantages to the constitutional convention over the majority of reformers in Pennsyl- vania?

It should be noted that with re- spect to constitutional revision in Pennsylvania, the legislature and the proposed constitutional conven- tion differ in different purposes and face different problems. The state legislature, by and large, confronts a great number of social, economic, and political issues, all of which are important in the formulation and implementation of the state's day-to-day life. Thus any consideration of constitutional change in the form of a constitutional convention should be inserted among many other le- sions relative to the responsibilities of the constitutional convention, on the other hand, is called for a single pur- pose, and concerned only with those issues involving a revision of the state constitution.

Managed in a true spirit of constructive reform, a convention may attract a sufficient number of delegates and advisors with superi- or talent, character, and prestige. All this will be reflected in the final document.

What about the charge of radical- ism? It is significant to say that almost two hundred years of politi- cal experience lend little support to the charge, and may simply be stated as baseless. In many cases of constitutional revision, the real danger is the apparent weakness of the opposition experience. This, of course, is the argument which is often presented when suggesting and making changes.

Finally, constitutional conven- tion is the only advantage that the distinct advantage of widespread public attention of the subject matter. The past, amendment proposals to our 1874 constitution were lost in the dustbin of history. In the 1965 General Assembly. Should our legislators once again propose this November, public interest throughout the state will focus up- on the constitutional issues and upon them alone.

It is true conventions do involve a difficult proposition. The shortcoming在于 one in four of the changes that Griffith introduced, is considered by motion picture historians, critics, and directors to be the "father" of the modern motion picture. He wanted to treat the film seriously, using the motion picture camera not as a glorifying (which it had been in the early decades of the "silent" era) but for its potential of dramatic story, either in drama or comedy, in a medium different from the conventional theatre of that time.

This does not detract from the American feature film, and certainly the most important, if not the best, movie in the development of the motion picture. Overnight the "moving picture," who once held a mixture of documentary and romanticist styles, raised the film from mere novelty entertainment to the status of an art.

Although "Birth of a Nation" was an artistic and financial success, its treatment of the Negro during the Reconstruction (portraying the Negro as an ignorant and barbaric) brought much criticism of Griffith's participation in the Civil War and Reconstruction. In order to answer his critics, Griffith made a film which was a moral commentary on man's inhumanity to man from the point of view of politics. The result was "Intolerance," an incredible picture, a masterpiece even by today's most sophisticated standards.

It is in four different couples—history—Belzazzah’s Babylon, the Crucifixion of Christ, the mas- sacre of the Huguenots in Renais- sance France, the American Revolution, the struggle between good and evil in the slums of early twentieth century Chicago, and the movie’s act is released, "Intolerance" has had enormous influence on the motion picture everywhere, especially in Russia, where D. W. Griffith was a mentor for other directors including Eisenstein. Directors around the world acknowledged their debt to Griffith. "Intolerance" was not a public or financial suc- cess, but because it was made many years ahead of its time. D. W. went broke filming the lengthy pic- ture and, though he made many movies, he never again reached the heights of "Intolerance.""*"

Tobias Reveals Magic of 'Cabala'

The magic of "Cabala" was recently presented to the Forum by Harris Tobias. He defined cabala as a secret, mystical theology of Judaism based on the magical properties of the alphabet, which they believed to be the bridge between the finite and the infinite. He stated that the legend says that God gave cabala to the angels, who gave it to Moses, who gave it to the priestly class, who translated it to the people. Tobias commented that there were, however, three methods of cabala: Geometric, in which numbers are associated to letters; Nototikum, in which a type of shorthand had been developed by taking the initials of words and making up new words; permutations, an agamicagrammatic type of interpretation.

The absence of vowels in the Hebrew alphabet made many variations in word meaning possible. The Zohar is considered to be the bible of the cabala. The last treatise on the cabala was written in 1653. Its effect, said Tobias, was "lost to man."

Intramural Softball Nearin Finale

With the 1963 edition of intramural softball drawing to a close, the Beacon Sports Department has chosen to take a pictorial glance at this segment of the College's athletic program.

Now a traditional Spring program, intramural softball has become an integral part of spring on campus. Although there are not many teams participating this year as in previous years, the number of forfeited games has been nominal. As in the past, the league is divided into two divisions, the Independent League and the Dormitory League which is composed of teams from six residence halls.

Competition in the Dorm League has been extremely keen. This past Monday the Butler Hall squad turned back the boys from Gore in an exciting 5-4 contest to clinch the league title. The steady pitching of Butler's Joe Slesser enabled his team to edge the tough Gormans.

Prior to the contest, both Gore and Butler came forth with innovations that had not been seen before on campus. This of course, was the publicizing of the contest by means of a new and6reliable publicity devices. Perhaps the most striking of these attempts was the Gore rendition of "I Live a Dream," which was suspended from a tree next to the Commons.

The Gore and Butler endeavors were typical of the spirit with which the softball games have been played this year. In past years many teams put forth only half-hearted efforts, not even showing up for many of their games. This is not the case this season.

It was stated that play in these contests was spirited. This needed qualification. While the competition has been sharp the play on the field is still reminiscent of last year's Mets. Pitching is definitely not one of the strengths of the League. Nor is defense. Hitting is the thing that wins the games. This is well demonstrated by this facet of the game of baseball is perhaps the most satisfying to the participants. After all the program is designed as a recreational measure. As a result, the Independent League race is still nudged by the Scorpions 7 to 3 in the top spot with 8 runs. The Rejects and the Radicals are tied with 2-2 records while the Heads are plugging along and school wise, course, could be changed a great deal after yesterday's games. The Independent League has one make-up date next week. Butler Hall will meet the winner of the Independent race for the over-all title.

College Man Profiled by 'Playboy'
In New Student Preference Survey

He is 20.5 years old. Twelve chances out of a hundred, he is married. He spent $86 in refurbishing his book-to-campus wardrobe. It's an even bet that he owns or has full-time use on automobile. He makes a point of being enterogenous and has already accumulated much of the year's good food.

He is Joe College, 1963.

A mass of broad new information about the nation of male undergraduates is revealed in a new study. "Male College Student Survey," conducted by the research firm, Benn Management Corporation, in cooperation with the Market Research Department of Playboy magazine, involving a sample designed on the basis of 12,100 mail questionnaires, the survey results we now present in our final returns from more than 5,000 male students from 72 U.S. colleges and universities. The survey shows that 11.2% of this year's junior class, 11.8% of this year's graduates have undertaken to receive all of their college expenses, while 15.6% of young men are receiving 50% or more of their college expenses from their families. The 11.8% of college students that have undertaken to support their own college expenses is a 1964, 2.8% increase over 1963.

How dependent are today's college students on the automobile? The survey shows that 36.8% possess their own cars while 10.7% have full-time personal use of one. While December was still early in the current model year, 5.7% already drive an automobile. This is 6% above the 1962, 10.7% a model year, 1962 this group. 6% above the median price of the automobile is in 1962.

When asked about alcoholic beverage consumption, 63.7% of all males, undergraduates responded affirmatively. Moreover, 62.5% drink beer, 25.5% wine, 56% liquor.

60.4% of all male college students surveyed answered that they smoked: 41.8% cigars, 33.9% pipes and 14.8% pipes. Among cigarette smokers, filter types were the favorite, with the total sample having 62.7% of all college students being regulars.

Bob Fleming returns to the Beacon as "Athletes of the Week," this issue for his basketball ability. Bob is generally noted as a mainstay of the Colonels basketball team of this "Week" earlier in the year.

Bob attended Valley Flwy Wilkes. At Valley Forge he captained the basketball and baseball teams while serving as class treasurer. Bob was also a leader of his class at Hoppew High School, where he was an officer for two years, and was named to the Second Section, P.I.A.A. first team on the basketball team.

In addition to his basketball prowess Bob has also distinguished himself as a musician. The wall niners as evidenced by his pitching in Douglass Still Unbeaten;

Netmen Lose Second, 9-3

The team lost its second straight Monday night at Scranton. The Colonels defeated Wilkes, 9-3, in the home opener. Last season Wilkes defeated Scranton, 9-0, and 8-1.

In the first inning the Colonels return to their home court to play Moravian College.

The team's potential is obvious. Unruh had a 7-2 record and was in second place in the Middle Atlantic Conference.

Bob credits his teammates as unusual and remarked that some defensive changes may have been the reason for the team's finding itself. Bob had little difficulty in "everything. everything that's going to be going for me," said Bob.

There wasn't a great deal of action until the ninth inning. Bob had retired 16 men in a row before allowing a single. In the same inning Russ Frederick and Len Yan- kowsky came across with the Colonels' two runners. Things settled down again until Bob walked the first man of the ninth. A cautious pitch to the next batter turned into a run after a bad bounce in centerfield. A rough pitch Bob added turned into a double placed runners on 2nd and third and a foul ball was long enough to score another from third. And that was that.

Asking what seemed to be the diffucy, Bob said that everything was huge, the big factor of course, but the basing runners were a bit of improvement in. All in Bob managed to take the game to bring his season's record to 1-1. This was the first game of the "Week" honors.

Diamondmen Home; Beat Ursinus, Stevens For First Two Victories

Tomorrow afternoon the Colonels hardballers will return home for 2:00 p.m. encounter with the Greyhounds of Moravian College. Earlier this year the Colonels defeated the Greyhounds 6-4, 4-2 and twice this year in similar fashion. The Greyhounds will be facing a "new" Wilkes squad as the Colonels are playing just the way they played last year.

On Tuesday Coach Schmidt's diamondmen will journey to Selins- gate, Pa., to play their 24th game of the season against Lebanon College and Quehanna University nine. The Colonels also took the measure of Wilkes earlier this season and the Colonels are eager to reverse that situation.

Pick Up First Win

Last Saturday the Colonels piled up their first victory of the season as they edged the Ursinus Bears, 2-1, in a thriller. At the time, Ursinus was riding in second place in the Middle and Atlantic Confer- ence standings with a 5-2 record. Bob Fleming piled up a 2-0 record for the Colonels and at one point had retired 16 batters in a row. He walked his way out of it in a disastrous jam in the ninth. With one out Fleming walked the first batter in the ninth. This was fol- lowed by a bad-bounce double, put- ting Ursinus runners on second and third with none out. A sacrifice fly by Fleming and Fleming got the final two batters on a ground out to third baseman Lou Com- pelli and a fly out to the outfield.

The Colonel defense was much improved and defensive continuity, time this previous year. Coach Schmidt altered his defensive strategy to achieve more valuable defensive moves.

Turn Back Stevens

Wednesday's diamond action saw the Colonels in their second straight win over Stevens Tech. This time the home team stopped Stevens Tech, 4-0. Richie Byrum was the winning pitcher as they edged the rowanites, 7-2, in Wilkesmen, while fanning nine and making only two bases on balls in the first game. The freshman curver and Fleming got the final three runners off first. Bob Fleming and Fleming had the most brilliant of singles to lead the Wilkes offense.

It is interesting to note that this was the second consecutive error- less game for the Diamondmen.

Willy to Spend 7 Weeks at Albright

On Stipend to Further German Study

Edie Wilk, senior German major, has been granted a seven-week stipend at Albright College. During the seven-week summer session, Wilk will attend classes at Albright to study conversational German and German teaching methods. Following this program, he will assume his teaching position at Hershey High School.

This grant was awarded to Wilk because of his outstanding record at the college, and the recommendations he received from Herr Diuse, Chairman of the Language Department. Although many students have submitted applications for this award, only a few are selected on the national basis to participate in this program.

Wilk had the following comment to make concerning this presentation. "I am very grateful to the language department for opening this opportunity to me, and I know that I will benefit a great deal from the experience. I hope to use the credits I will receive toward my master's degree, after which I hope to go to Germany to work toward my doctorate."
