Jerry Jean Baird, general chairman of the Cinderella affair, reminds all students that the purchasing of a ticket to the Smothers Brothers Concert, also that weekend, will entitle them to obtain tickets to the Ball for only two dollars per couple rather than the normal $3 admission price. Although Cinderella will be chosen today, her identity will not be revealed to anyone until midnight at the prom. Tickets are now available at the Bookstore.

Annual Freshman Weekend Prospective Frosh Invade Campus

by Lois Petroski

S G PROMOTES KENNEDY FUND

by Barbara Simms

The Student Government of Wilkes College is presently sponsoring a drive which will take place on the college campus from April 29 to May 8 for the Student Wing of the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Library to be

The spirit of a "collegiate life" will be noted and very likely absorbed by approximately 367 in-coming freshmen who will tread the campus this weekend for a preview of the existence which will be theirs next fall. Annually, I.D.C. sponsors Freshman Weekend in order to give incoming freshmen a true picture of the scholastic habits, principles, extra-curricular activities, and geography of the College prior to their official orientation in September.

After much planning with John Whitby, I.D.C. has prepared a well-rounded schedule for the 117 future residents and the 250 prospective day students who are expected to attend Freshman Weekend. Unlike in the past, I.D.C. is including local students in most of the activity. Future dormitory students will be arriving on campus all afternoon, during which time offices in Chase Hall will be open to them. Administrative officers are ready to aid freshmen with any problems which may confront them.

At 5 p.m. the campus guests will have dinner in the Commons, after which they will have free time when they can prepare for the first scheduled event of Freshman Weekend, a Manuscript film, Viridiana in Stark 116.

Next the freshmen will travel to the gym where tentative residents will be guests of the Accounting Club at the "Freshman Frolic." To make sure newcomers grasp the friendly air present in an atmosphere strange to them, accountants, I.D.C. members, and Student Government representatives will circulate among the "freshmen," making introductions and insuring enjoyment. The "Starfires" will play. The Collegians will lead an intermission "sing-along."

Saturday's events will commence at 8:30 a.m. when administrative officers will again be in Chase to help incoming freshmen. After breakfast, both day and dormitory students will attend a 9 o'clock meeting in the gym, at which Boyd Aebli will preside. Dr. Francis Michelini will officially welcome incoming freshmen. Deans Margaret Ahlborn and George Ralston will comment on "College Life." Alfonso Zawadski will discuss finances.

To make incoming freshmen aware of the great transition from high school to college, four professors will hold mock classes. Stanley Gutin will conduct a World-Literature class; Dr. Robert Riley, a child psychology class; Robert Werner, an economics class; and Harry Gershenowiz, a Biology class.

A noon buffet luncheon will be held in the gym. Upperclassmen will attend, along with incoming freshmen. At 1 p.m. three upperclassmen, Dick Burns, Darlene Moll, and George Evancho, will rotate throughout classrooms in Stark Hall. They will present worthwhile suggestions to freshmen.

From 2:30 to 4 p.m. campus guests are invited to attend an Art Exhibit in Conyngham Annex, a Science Fair in Stark Hall, and an Accounting Club Seminar in Stark 116. Designed specifically for prospective business students, the seminar will begin with a film, "Day in the Life of a CPA." Dr. Samuel Rosenberg will comment on "what a student should expect to encounter during his four years of college life." William Carver, senior accounting major, will analyze some of his personal educational experiences, after which he will review the accounting club's Internship Program. A question and answer period will follow.

At 8:30 p.m. Sterling and Butler Halls will host a "dorm" party on the second floor of the Commons. "The Concepts" will provide the music.

Sunday morning, students can attend religious services of their choice. At noon they will depart for home with it is hoped a few pieces of college life at Wilkes.

Ten Constitutional Amendments Appear On Student Ballot

John Lore, member of the Student Government Constitutional committee, explains proposed revisions to interested students.

by Andrea Gallet

Today the Wilkes Student Body will vote on the first ten of twenty-eight amendments to the Student Government Constitution. The other eighteen amendments will be considered on May 11.

Article V, Section 3, if passed, will give the student body a chance to elect the President of Student Government, for the first time, by popular election.

Under these amendments, the newly elected members of Student Government will nominate three persons to run for the office of President within one week after their election.

The student body will then choose the President from these candidates during the fourteenth week of the spring semester. In order to be elected to the office of President, a candidate must receive a plurality of the votes cast.

The nomination and election of the Vice President, Treasurer, and Secretary of Student Government will be elected by a plurality vote of the new Student Government members during the last week of the spring semester.

John Lore, spokesman for the Student Government Constitution Committee, urges all students to take an interest in furthering democratic government at Wilkes College and to vote in the April 27th election.

Dick Burns and Dr. Farley

built in Boston. In addition to donating money, any student or member of the faculty or staff is urged to sign the individual college participation book which will be on display in the Library.

Funds from students and other interested persons will provide the money to build the wing which will house information about the late President Kennedy. This information will be available to any college or university student in the county.

BANNERS IN THE ODDEST PLACES

Placards on every tree, posters on every bush, and banners suspended from the oddest places remind even the most aloof student that its spring election time.

Today we are asked to choose class officers and Cinderella, and ratify amendments to the student government Constitution. All of us who sit in the caf complaining about the present state of affairs now have the chance to change them.

Beat you to the polls!

WHAT MAKES GENNIE RUN?

What makes Genevieve Blatt run? Why did Miss Blatt, a long time organization stalwart and State Secretary of the party organization, oppose the organization designee for U.S. Senator? The SUNDAY INDEPENDENT, in an unsigned political column, suggested the reason she is running is to soften up Judge Michael Musmanno for the Fall elections and therefore help Senator Scott.

We cannot go along with that theory. The INDEPENDENT assumes that Musmanno would be a stronger candidate than Miss Blatt in the Fall. We remind the INDEPENDENT that Miss Blatt is one of the most popular officials in the state and that she ran far ahead of the ticket in 1962. To say that she would be a weaker candidate than the relatively unknown Musmanno seems to be putting things in reverse.

In an age of candidates chosen for their toothy smiles and T.V. images. Miss Blatt is a pleasant change. Even her opponents have difficulty in finding fault with her fine record of service. She is running this campaign as she has all of her others—on the issues. Given the opportunity to attack her opponent on personal grounds, she rejected it saying that his age or place of birth had nothing to do with his qualifications for the Senate.

Miss Blatt's attitude is refreshing and her stated positions are highly impressive. She is in favor of the present civil rights bill; federal aid to education on the primary, secondary, and college levels; a domestic peace corps and outright federal grants for areas such as ours, reorganization of the Senate Establishment; and the Alliance for Progress.

The position of her main opponent, Judge Musmanno, is in question. His supporters claim he is a New Deal-New Frontier Democrat, but the record shows that he was once elected to the legislature as a Hoover Republican. We are also displeased with Judge Musmanno's position on Legal Canon 30, which requires sitting judges to resign if they run for other than judicial office. Mr. Musmanno has refused to resign. We would like to have seen him resign and campaign for the office in the manner Miss Blatt did—by touring the state and discussing the issues.

Our main reason for supporting Miss Blatt is her record as a public official. She has served the state well as Secretary of Internal Affairs. Among other accomplishments, she reorganized the agencies under her control, worked for cooperation between municipalities, and instigated reforms to help the consumer.

We tend to agree with Miss Blatt's reasons for running. The endorsement of Judge Musmanno by the State Democratic Committee is one of the most blatant examples of political pressure we have seen in a long time.

In endorsing Musmanno the state's Democratic leaders bought peace in the face of a possible primary fight. We cannot endorse this method of selecting candidates.

On primary day, April 28, we urge the nomination of Genevieve Blatt for Senator. J.H.G.

Rants 'n Raves

Duty, Honor, Country

by A. M. Airola

"Duty-Honor-Country. Those three hallowed words reverently dictate what you ought to be, what you can be, and what you will be. They are your rallying points: to build courage when courage seems to fail; to regain faith when there seems to be little cause for faith; to create hope when hope becomes forlorn." Douglas MacArthur

A man died recently, a man whose high ideals can be expressed by the three words he used so often, and which we have come to regard as symbolic of American ideals. "Duty, Honor, Country." Are these the ideals that we profess and believe, or have we slipped further and further away from those beliefs and ideals which were the foundation stones of American democracy? Foundations which have been laid upon the dignity of man.

Can we equate belief in the dignity of man with brick-throwing? A nation whose citizens at one moment express belief in the freedom of speech, and at the next shout Communist and heap vindictiveness upon those who dare to express what they believe? Can we equate honor with corrupt government, business, and personal morals, with citizens who at one moment reaffirm their belief in free enterprise, and at the next conspire to fix prices in industry? Flag waving editorials try to convince us that the conspirator and the slanderer are only minorities.

NO! NO! Those people are not a minority. With pride we say that we have no racial problems in Wilkes-Barre. And yet, a brick is thrown. Was that brick-thrower a minority? Or, perhaps, did not some of us sit back and acquiesce in our opinions? Did not some of us agree? Or, worse yet, did not some of us even lack the courage to commit ourselves in either direction and merely say nothing?

The man who conspires to cheat and steal is the man who sits next to us in church, the pillar of our community, the man to whom we look up → the $250,000 a year success. The man who personifies for us the American dream.

What does Country mean to such people? Does the ideal of equality before law and liberty to all men mean nothing in a moment of practical application? How can a country remain great if the very ideals of democracy it professes abroad mean nothing at home?

What do Duty and Honor mean to such people? Is one's duty to his company so great that he must prostitute his honor in order to cheat and steal by fixing prices at the expense of free enterprise? Does duty to country mean so little?

Letters to the editor or sermons do little because each one of us disassociates ourselves from the conspirator or slanderer. We are not guilty of fixing prices; we did not throw a brick. We turn to each other with smug smiles of complaisance. Who did do those things? The person who was caught; certainly not us.

A man died recently a man of high ideals. He was laid to rest in a memorial. Perhaps we have buried his conception of "Duty, Honor, Country" with him. Another monument to something which once was, another monument to a people that were.

What is the solution to this hypocrisy? It is our Duty not only to respect the rights of others, but to defend those rights against the brick-thrower.

Similarly we are Honor bound to protect free enterprise from the selfish conspirator.

Only through such applications of Duty, and Honor can our Country hope to remain viable.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

V. P. Nominee Speaks

To the Class of '67:

Thanks for allowing me to serve you as vice-president of our class. It has given me a great deal of pleasure and satisfaction to help the class start functioning as a well organized body.

Our class officers and student government representatives have worked to promote the unity of the freshman class. Our treasury now stands at $155. With an upcoming class project—the sale of car wash tickets at a discount price—we hope that the class funds will increase even more. We are also promoting class activities such as a dance and a picnic.

As I have said, I have tremendously enjoyed working with the class, and I hope that you will again give me the opportunity to serve you as vice-president.

Sincerely yours,
Bob Zebrowski

No Uncertain Terms

Dear Editor,

Congratulations to Harris Tobias for "going on record," "in no uncertain terms," against Things I Should Know About Me. I, too, Mr. Tobias, have never been so "demeaned" in all my life. (Or is that an uncertain term?)

EDITOR'S NOTE

The purpose of the booklet, THINGS I SHOULD KNOW ABOUT ME, mentioned in two letters in last week's issue of the BEACON needs to be clarified. This booklet is to be used as part of the Freshman Orientation Program and was not intended for general distribution.

The frat party theme will be carried out by the decorations, and "appropriate" refreshments offered.

The party will be the highlight of the Freshmen Weekend, which is held annually for all prospective Wilkes freshmen to introduce them to what they might expect next year.

Everyone is assured a great time and urged to attend. Admission will be 50 cents per person, and activity cards must be shown.

Curriculum Changes Announced Librarian Checkmates Beaconite

by Ruth Partilla

With the recent publication of the 1964-65 college catalogue, a few major curriculum changes may be expected, according to Dr. Francis Michelini, Dean of Academic Affairs. For the most part, these changes will effect only incoming freshmen. However, upper-classmen will have to adjust their courses to the changes.

The present requirements for one semester survey courses, such as Biology 100 and Sociology 100, will be extended to include two full semesters or Biology 101 and 102 and Sociology 101 and 102. This change will necessitate the need for more close counselling between students and advisors.

Previously, the catalogue requirements under which all students originally registered provided for the basic survey courses. However, in some cases the student may fulfill his course requirements by registering for one semester of the two-semester courses. In other cases, both semesters are necessary to fulfill the student's requirements.

Another major change will include the corporation of these general subject requirements into the total Bachelor of Arts program: English 101, 102, 151, 152; History 101, 102; Philosophy 101, 102; Fine Arts 101 or Music 100; Foreign Languages 101, 102, 103, 104; Mathematics 101, 102, Physics 101, 102, or Biology 101, 102; Economics 101, 102, Political Science 101, 102, Psychology 101, 102, or Sociology 101, 102; Physical Education 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106.

The required program for the education curriculum has also been greatly altered. The Bachelor of Science degree in Education has been eliminated from the curriculum. Students who plan to teach either at the elementary or secondary level must choose a major from one of the major subject areas. This subject must be chosen from those listed under the Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degree programs. The individual department will then advise the student on what subjects he should take to fulfill the state teaching certification requirements, which can be scheduled as electives in his junior and senior years. Teaching certification requirements necessary for most states can be met at the College. However, students are expected to familiarize themselves with specific state requirements.

In addition to changes in the curriculum, there have also been many changes in the catalogue itself. A number of new sections have been added by the Administration. A special section devoted to social activities has been added to interest prospective freshmen. A section on buildings and plant explains the significance of each building on campus.

FTA Holds Forum

The Wilkes College chapter of the Student Pennsylvania Education Association will hold their third annual Future Teachers of America Forum in the Commons on Sunday, April 26, from 2 to 5 p.m.

KENNEDY MEMORIAL

The idea for this memorial was conceived when college students heard of the plans for the Library. Many of them wrote and suggested the student-given wing. The Directors of the Library Corporation agreed and named a committee, manned and staffed completely by college students.

Erected in Boston

The Library will be erected in Boston, Massachusetts at a site along the Charles River. Besides the memorial room, it will include a Museum, an Archive, and an Institute. The Museum will employ electronics and modern design to give the exhibits of President Kennedy and his times a living impact. The Archives will hold papers, documents, and other recorded material by and about Kennedy. The Institute will seek to further the late President's attempt to bring together the worlds of scholarship and decision.

The Kennedy Library, like the other Presidential Libraries, under the law of 1955 authorizing the establishment of these institutions, are to be built by public subscription and then transferred to the United States Government. The National Archives will then take over the maintenance of the Museum and the Archive. There is no provision in the law for the Institute, however, and this project, which is the unique feature of the Library, will require a substantial endowment.

Scene: Circulation Room of Wilkes College Library. The floor is laid out in blocks.

Characters: Rook, or Marvin Rasnick, new reference librarian
Pawn, or Interviewer
Queen, or Mrs. Vujica, head librarian

Rook is seated at a cluttered desk on King's Bishop 5. He is reading a biography of Alexander Alekhine. Pawn moves to King's and coughs.

Rook: Are you looking, looking looking for something? May I help you? Is there anything you need?

Pawn: I'm from the Beacon, and -

Rook: Right, right! I was born in Brooklyn 1937, but came to Wilkes via Monticello-where the nags run and the horses walk. Chuckle, yuk, yuk. I received an Associate Arts degree from Orange County Community College-you never heard of it, I know-and then I pursued a B.S. in Elementary Ed. at New Paltz College-or this one either-until it caught me. After student teaching I decided to go into library work immediately. My M.A. in Library Science is from New York State University at Albany. This is my first library job, and I like it very much. But NOTHING interferes with my chess!

Rook takes his book and moves to Queen's Knight 4. Pawn follows.

Pawn: Do-

Rook: Yes? May I help you?

Pawn: Do you have any special-

Rook: Chess mostly, I guess. Yes.

chess. Bowling and ping pong, but chess is best. Chess.

Pawn-special interests?

Rook: I like chess.

Pawn (quick on the uptake): Do you like chess?

Rook: Yes, but I have other interests.

Rook returns to his book.

Pawn: Reading?

Rook: No, just looking at the pictures.

Oh, as an interest? Yes, I enjoy reading psychological books. Joyce.

Chess is very psychological. I wonder if Joyce played? Dr. Cox plays.

Very good. But he's history, not psychology. Joyce is so psychological. We're forming a chess club on campus. Cox, not Joyce.

Rook moves to Queen's Knight 7.

Pawn (calling after him): Before chess?

Rook: All was in darkness. Oh, I enjoyed go-carts for awhile, but gave it up after I got killed. Snicker!

Pawn: Where do you get all your jokes?

Rook: I don't tell jokes. But what I pass off as jokes I got from the village undertaker.

Pawn: Oh, Good Lord.

Rook: No, Harry Lattimer.

Pawn (in desperation): Do you like any music? Pleasee.

Rook: Classical. Those Beatles should be trampled by an army of King's Knights.

Pawn: (resigned to a fated interview): Any notable achievements in chess?

Rook: A few years ago I took third place in the Marshall B Tournament in NYC. I rattled all my opponents with a full repertoire of Harry's jokes.

Pawn: They're not going to believe this back at the Beacon.

Rook: Sure they will. I've found all Wilkes students to be friendly, intelligent, co-operative, easy to work with, interested in their studies.

Pawn: Yeh, yeh. Let's go back to the chess.

Enter Queen to Queen's Rook 5.

Queen: Checkmate, you loafers. Tea break is over. Back to work, please.

Rook returns to his "desk", and the broken pawn is removed from the board.

BUNUEL'S 'VIRIDIANA' TONIGHT

Manuscript presents Viridiana (1961 winner of the Grand Prix of the Cannes Film Festival) tonight at 7:00 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. In filming Viridiana, Luis Bunuel, the director, spared none of the characteristics attributed to his work. Its boldness and cruelty place it among the most cynical stories to be depicted on the screen. The repercussions of its first viewing by Generalissimo Franco ended in the firing of the minister of culture, a complete press blackout, and a banning of the film itself.

Viridiana, a young novice, goes to visit her uncle before taking her vows. He attempts to seduce her by drugging her, but cannot go through with his plan. He tells her, however, he has completed the seduction. She flees, and he hangs himself. She and her cousin Jorge inherit the estate, and Viridiana turns her share into a haven for beggars. Jorge, contemptuous of her carity, takes a servant as his mistress. In the absence of the masters, the beggars break into the house and turn their feast into an orgy. Upon the arrival of Viridiana and Jorge, the beggars attempt to rape her. Jorge bribes one man to murder the would-be rapist. The beggars flee, and Viridiana, humiliated and disillusioned, goes to Jorge's room.

The film ends with Viridiana joining Jorge and his mistress in a game of cards, a triumphant grin on Jorge's face.

In reviewing Viridiana, the Saturday Review said, "If the film were less well made, if it were not so strikingly written and directed by Bunuel, it could be dismissed as sensationalism. The acting, by the way, is impeccable."

Bill Douglas Named 'Athlete Of The Week'; Cops 15th Singles Win

by Ivor Smith

Spring sports now highlight campus activities. With this the Beacon resumes its selection of the outstanding campus athletes. Bill Douglas, a handy man with the tennis racket, looms as this issue's "Athlete of the Week." Bill, a junior, is a business Administration major residing in Barre Hall.

Bill hails from Montrose, Pennsylvania and had a commendable athletic background during his high school career. He was a member of the basketball team, which placed second in state competition. Bill was also a member of the track team while attending high school. Here at Wilkes, Bill also contributes his efforts to the intramural basketball and football leagues.

Bill is currently aiding the tennis team in attempting to build an interest in the sport. Being a consistent winner, Bill is especially outstanding in singles matches.

Last year Bill produced an unblemished singles record and is continuing along an identical road this season. To date he has won fifteen consecutive singles matches and has exhibited many fine performances in the doubles events which he has participated in.

Bill has stated his desire for an increase in interest in tennis by the student body and feels that the team would be greatly supported by an increase in attendance at the matches.

Bill's play has certainly been one of the main reasons the Colonels look forward to a winning season.

Netmen Break 3-3 Deadlock To Defeat Susquehanna University 6-3

by Don DeFranco

Bursting through with three doubles wins last Saturday afternoon, the Wilkes College tennis team overcame a 3-3 tie against the netmen of Susquehanna University, handing the Crusaders a 6-3 setback at the Wilkes Athletic Field.

Outstanding team play was instrumental in gaining the win as Bill Douglas, Gary Einhorn and Dave Closterman turned in twin victories for the day. The Colonels took three of the six singles matches and made a clean sweep of the doubles.

Einhorn, playing exceptionally consistent tennis, overcame his opposition 6-2, 6-4. Closterman, inconsistent at first, lost the opening set 4-6. Not ready to give up, he pushed hard and overcame a deficit of 0-3 in the second set to eventually win it 6-4 and followed this with a beautiful 3rd set win of 6-3. Douglas smashed his way to another one of his many triumphs 6-2, 6-3. The win was Douglas' 15th straight over two seasons.

Popovich Takes Loss As Strong Upsala Nine Blanks Colonels 9-0

Gary Popovich was knocked from the pitcher's mound in four and two-thirds innings as Upsala touched him for 8 runs on their way to a 9-0 victory. The Colonels are now 2-2 on the season.

The Wilkes team produced nine hits, but had trouble moving its base-runners as 10 Colonels died on the base-paths. Wilkes had numerous scoring opportunities, but failed to capitalize. Bob Banko led the afternoon's hitting for Upsala, with 3 doubles. Dave Gregory was the winner, making his record 4-0 on the season. Popovich suffered his first defeat against one victory.

Tomorrow the Colonels will try to pull their log into the black when they tangle with Lebanon Valley. The game will get under way at 2 p.m. in the Athletic Field.

On Monday, the hardballers will try to make it two in a row against East Stroudsburg State College. Wilkes squeezed past the Indians 7-6 when they played Stroudsburg away earlier in the season. This game, scheduled for 3:30 p.m. will be at home.

On Thursday the Colonels will travel to Scranton for a game with the Royals. An earlier game with Scranton was scheduled for May 14. The contest on Thursday will start at 4 p.m.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL SEASON ENDED WITH CHAMPIONSHIP PLAYOFF GAME

by Lee Wasilewski

The 1964 intramural basketball season finished on an exciting note as the champions from each league met to decide the campus championship. When the evening was finished, the day league champions walked off the floor with an upset victory over Barre Hall.

The Trojans pulled out to an early lead in the game and were never headed, even though Barre threatened their lead several times. The sharp shooting Trojans hit with amazing accuracy as they outscored from the field with 30 goals to 21. Vetter, of the Trojans, collected 13 of these goals while he hit a total of 7 free throws out of 8 attempts. Vetter turned in the most prolific scoring effort of the night as he compiled a total of 33 points. Barre Hall was led by Craig Houlistan, who played a masterful game from the pivot position and racked up 8 goals and 4 fouls for a total of 20 points. Barre suffered from the free throw line as they converted only 44 percent of their attempts, while the Trojans managed to sink 69 percent.

The Day teams made it a clean sweep as the Day All Stars pounced on the Dorm All Star team for a 72-58 victory.
