SG Enforces Rules For Attendance At Monday Meetings

At a recent meeting Student Government discussed the attendance of its members. The problem becomes acute when representatives are also active participants in the sports at the College. Cathy DeAngelis, president, pointed out that Student Government should be the primary interest of any representative. If a member does not attend meetings repeatedly he cannot fulfill his obligations to his class and to the Government.

According to the constitution, Article IX, Section 1, paragraph 3, "Representatives who fail to attend Government meetings must explain each absence in writing, such explanations to be given to the secretary of the Student Government and read at the following meeting. Those who absences during a semester will require a secret ballot of the Government to determine whether or not the member should be dismissed and a vacancy created. A three-fourths vote of the Student Government can also request a class to recall a representative on the grounds of inefficiency." This article will be enforced.

Barre and Sturdevant Halls were fined a total of five dollars for failing to submit an activities form for their dorm party last Saturday night. Butler Hall has been fined an additional two dollars for not selecting a Student Government, but the request was denied. Dates could not be granted for each dormitory, if requested, so a precedent cannot be established.

The annual Cherry Tree Chop, sponsored by the Lettermen's Club, will be held tonight in the gym. Intermission will be highlighted by a pie-eating and log-sawing competition between the faculty and the Lettermen.

Dr. Harold "The South-Will-Rise-Again" Cox will try to uphold the title won by Dr. Francis Michelini in the log-eating contest. He is being challenged by Dr. "Polish Falcon" Chaniericka. Due to his advanced age, Dr. Cox has demanded certain concessions which will not be revealed until the actual time of the contest. Dr. Michelini, who has been the champion for ten consecutive years, is unable to uphold his title due to the acquisition of the无需@ execute nervous stomach. After much urging, he agreed to allow Dr. Cox, who begged for the honor, to carry on this noble phase of the faculty-student struggle.

Dean Ralston and Dr. Michelini will attempt to regain the log-sawing title from Tom Tresko and Ed Constock. Concerning the competition, Dean Ralston has stated, "I do not beat any Lettermen on campus. Rumor states that the Lettermen are being coached by Mr. P. Bynum. WILKES COLLEGE BEACON

Students Wallow In Mud Road
As Idealists Look To Future

Friday, February 19, 19--

The recently published REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT outlines in detail the progress which the College has made in the past 30 years. In most cases, we must applaud the efforts which have been made to further the development of the College.

One must admit that the community has certainly benefited from this growth. Witness the Graduate and Research Center in Stirling Hall. The Radio Corporation of America would never have come to the area without this center promised by the College.

The community must also thank the College for its construction of the Center for Performing Arts. The stimulation of creative endeavor which is expected to result from the facilities of this building will certainly raise the cultural level of the community. The College will be given the opportunity to add to the cultural activity now dominated by the local Little Theatre groups and the Philharmonic Orchestra.

Fund raising has also been accomplished through the College in the Institute of Municipal Government, the Fine Arts Fiesta, and in the Labor-Management-Committees Committee. For all these efforts, we congratulate the efforts of everyone concerned. But there are still many areas which have been sadly neglected.

The necessity for more dormitory space has been partially alleviated by the construction of a new dormitory on West River Street. Plans for further living space in the controversial Wright Street parking area have also been formulated. All day students who drive a car, which is more than likely that a sturdy dormitory will sink into the mud like a lightweight automobile.

A suggestive list of finances spent on buildings and equipment can be found in the Report. But the glaring absence of a list of the finances spent on faculty salaries may also be noted. Perhaps some of the money spent on new dormitories and new dining halls could be channeled into higher salaries to attract more Ph.D.'s to the faculty. True, most of the heads of the various departments have their Ph.D.'s, but perhaps these could be given the opportunity to teach only advanced courses and others without their doctorates could be restricted to survey courses. Or perhaps the faculty salaries could be raised to the science faculty, but what about the other departments? A College is judged chiefly by its academic standards. The number of Ph.D.'s indicates the quality of teaching.

The Report also proudly states, "Seven and one-half acres were added to the recently-acquired field house and playing fields that adjoin Kirby Park making it a total of one-half acre at a very reasonable acquisition of which the College can boast. What a pity that these seven and one-half acres are not located on this side of the Susquehanna river."

Wealth, however, the College can enjoy the endeavors of its athletic teams. But after construction begins on the new dormitories and new dining halls, public parking lots and meters may be filled to capacity, the students will be forced to park in driveways, on the River Commons, or on automobiles that are barely discernible by their sideline laws.

But perhaps we have been too critical. Resources are not unlimited. The future of the College depends on the finances provided by the students. Perhaps these finances could be used in some of the areas where they are sorely needed.

Sears Explains Consultation Services: Discusses Two Major Problems of Students

by David Stoner

Moaning about my average, mixed-up life over a cup of coffee one day in the cafe, my bored coffee friend finally broke in and said, "With all your problems, Stuart, you should see a psychologist."

That’s another of my woes. I never have any money for the things really need. I wish I were independent and could.

"Wills have a psychologist, you know."

"My car and time clothes and a stereo. There are too many meaningless get me coke spaces in my life that I never got the drink, but my subconscious received and nurtured a seed labeled "help." I decided to find out more about it. Naturally, I didn’t want to see anyone, so I consulted my college catalogue. Students may apply directly to the Consultation Service for consideration through the Dean’s Office."

"The approach is prefigurative of my overwhelming choice. After all, I didn’t want the Dean to know. But where was the Consultation Service? Summoning a great deal of courage, I approached the Information Desk in Chase Hall, opened my mouth, turned yellow, and lied in a low whisper, ‘I am writing an article for the Beacon on the College’s Consultation Service."

"The petite, young secretary hobbled out, asked why I was interested in the extension number of Dr. Sears? I was mortified. I just knew everyone was looking at me. They weren’t. Dial 65. The analyst’s office is in the back of Studebaker Hall, you know."

L.C.G. will hold classes on parliamentary procedure in Pickering 206, Tuesday at 11 a.m.

colored smoke poured out from the chimney, and as its pursuer, now unable to see, sought to escape.

For not long, however, the Mercedes, when the smoke cleared, shifted into fourth and was seen on the Aston’s tail again. Pushing a different button, the driver of the car glanced into the rear view mirror and saw a ball moving dangerously on the oil slick but, just ejected from his left taillight. The Mercedes, again making a speedy recovery, showed its prowess by not only closing in behind his quay, but also driving up alongside the first car, a fatal mistake. A third button in the console of the Aston proved to be his undoing. A bulb, the flames of which could be seen from the air, were soon engulfing the car, and the driver was trapped. The Aston, however, was still burning, and its exhaust gases,2

Informational Math Club Planned To Discuss Extra-Class Topics

A group of interested students met recently to formulate the plans for a math club on campus. The main objective of this departmental organization is to present to students topics that might not be covered formally in class. To fulfill this objective, programs will be presented at the club meetings by persons in various fields of mathematics.

Boyd Earl, advisor, has noted that the club membership desires a way to keep up with the latest developments in their field. Earl has selected two lecturers to give talks on the topics of interest. These will be Dr. L. C. G. G. and Dr. William J. T. O. H. on the topics of analysis and algebra, respectively. The club meetings will be held in the Auditorium at 3 p.m. on alternate Saturdays.

Heart Fund Dance

The All-College Heart Fund Dance will be held at the King’s College Auditorium on Saturday, March 18, at 8 p.m. The dance is being sponsored by the two college women’s clubs, Wilkes, the Pennsylvania State University, and the Wilkes-Beacon College. All proceeds will go to the American Heart Association. Tickets, available for one dollar, may be obtained from Roberta Schiltz or any Student Government member. Highlight of the evening will be the crowning of the Queen during the intermission. Music will be provided by the Carlisle Winds and Strings.

Miss Lois Kutish, vice-president of T.D.R., was chosen queen of this year’s Valentine semi-formal recently held at Genetti’s Ballroom. The queen was crowned and presented a list of orchids by Delores Cline, president of T.D.R.

Miss Kutish, who was chairman of the appointments and arrangements committee, is a junior major in mathematics. She is captain of the majorettes, vice-president of the S.A.A. and a member of Delta Phi Epsilon.

Herb Glebe provided the music for the romantic and exotic "Polyne- sian Paradise." The strippers were decorated with fish nets and seashells. Orchids dominated the South Seas motif, and a primitive bridge extended over a pool of the fountains. In addition, each couple had the opportunity to have their pictures taken. Refreshments consisted of punch and cookies.

Two Profs Present Two Modern Plays

The Jewish Community will present two one-act plays to the states of the absurd on February 27, 78, and March 1. The first play, written by Elia Kazan, is "A Night to Remember," based on the experience of the crew of the SS Normandie. The second play, written by James A. Beckett, is "Kafka’s Last Tape," based on the life of Franz Kafka. The plays will be directed by Dr. Solomon B. S. and Dr. Daniel R. F.

The plays will be presented in Weitz Auditorium at the J.C.C. at 8 p.m., and the admission is free.

"Old Timers" reunion here; Antinnes to receive award

John Reese, director of athletics and wrestling coach at the College, designated tomorrow evening as "Old Timers' Night". Leading up to the event will be the presentation of a trophy for "Wrestler of the Decade" to Marc Antinnes, now a member of the wrestling coach. Antinnes compiled an enviable record in his four years at Wilkes. Overall, Antinnes produced 36 wins; losing only once in dual-meet competition, and securing 19 of the victories on falls.

As a freshman, Antinnes was the Middle Atlantic Conference Runner-Up in the 167-pound class. The following year, he captured the 167-pound title. In his junior and senior years, Antinnes topped the MAC crowns and was twice runner-up in the Wilkes Open, wrestling in the 177-pound class.

Finally, Antinnes was the 177-pound NAIA Small College Champion as a senior.

Following the introduction and presentation ceremonies, the wrestlers will be escorted to a banquet at the Kingston House. Reese plans to show a film which will be accompanied by excerpts from past wrestling meets.

Lycoming Upset; Colonels Matmen Win 6th In A Row

The young Wilkes wrestling team seems to be coming of age by virtue of its 15-13 upset victory over the Warriors of Lycoming recently. The Lycoming encounter was the first stiff competition the Colonels have faced since Idaho. The win was the sixth in a row for the Wilkes team.

The Colonels’ victory had many highlights, including a pin by Dave Hall in the 167-pound class with one second to go in the match and Francis Ovsey’s draw in the heavyweight class.

Hall remained undefeated, along with Ned McGinley and John Carr, by pinning Drange. The pin was the third registered by Hall this season, with two of his victories coming by defaults.

Ovsey, substituting for injured Bill Timney, turned out in one of the finest performances seen in a long while. Sporting Lycoming’s Pete Goguts a 55-pound advantage, Ovsey gave up a neutral to Goguts and escaped to a neutral position, with one of the action taking place from the standing position. Ovsey was under added pressure, since a win by Goguts would have meant a loss for the Colonels.

The changes of coach John Reese had to finish strong to produce the win. Ned McGinley led off with a win for the Colonels, but Lycoming took three of the next four bouts and initially seemed to be on its way to an upset. Hall with a 7-3 decision at 154 and three bouts remaining. The Colonels completed the final three bouts to win.

RESULTS:
123 – McGinley (W) D. Samuels 3-1
130 – Mitchell (L) D. Kreier 5-0
137 – Knoebel (L) D. Aiton 16-11
147 – Stautler (W) and Lorenz drew at 4-1
157 – Bachardy (L) D. Cook 6-2
167 – Hall (W) P. Drange, 8-5
177 – Carr (W) D. Fortin, 5-1

Heavyweight – Ovsey (W) and Goguts drew at 1-1.

and then left to enter Penn State University where he continued on to be graduated with a B.S. in Physical Education.

Reese proved to have a talent for wrestling while at college. Four times he won the "YMCA Invitational Tournament," the four-pointer of the "Wilkes Invitational," was outstanding wrestler one year, won in the MAC- AAI divisions in 1947, and placed third in the Eastern Regional Tournament.

In 1951 Reese was graduated from Penn State University and joined the faculty of Kingston High School, his alma mater, and taught there two years. As wrestling coach, he molded winning teams that took first in districts both years he was there. In 1955 he assumed a full time position at Wilkes, coaching soccer, wrestling and baseball.

Coach Reese demonstrated his talent for bringing out the potential in good wrestlers when he and his grapplers took MAC honors in 1957 through 1961. The team’s record from 1955 is astounding to the Wilkes sports fans. The statistics speak for themselves: 1955-56: 9-1; 1956-57: 10-0-1; 1957-58: 9-0; 1958-59: 7-0; 1959-60: 7-0; 1960-61: 7-0. In his time Reese has coached 13 Middle Atlantic Conference Champions.

Coach Reese is proud of all the wrestlers on his past and present teams. Reese explains that you need a wonderful attitude and tremendous desire to win to make the deciding factor in matches. Reese states that he is finding it difficult to keep the same team every year, because of the number of out-of-town boys on the team, consequently, making it difficult to build the certain attitude and pride that trademarked our past. This may be true, but his team’s head is heading for MAC honors if it keeps on its current pace.

Reese is a member of the American Wrestling Coaches and Officials Association and has served as Director of the Wilkes Blood Donor Drive. He is presently wrestling editor of the sports magazine Mentor. Reese reflects the type of coach needed to take the Colonels to their next heights.

COACH JOHN REESE FEATURED FOR EXCELLENT MAT RECORD

Wilkes Mentor Captured 5 MAC Team Titles

Wilkes College has had successful campaigns in wrestling under the coaching talents of John Reese. Since Coach Reese joined the Wilkes staff in 1955, he has moulded championship teams and many outstanding individuals. The teams Reese has coached have been consistent winners and currently his team boasts a 6-1 record with three matches remaining.

Coach Reese is a 1945 graduate of Kingston High School, where he began his wrestling career. He wrestled three years for Kingston, winning in District meets and reaching the semi-final in state competition. After graduation, Reese entered the Navy for two years and then entered Millersville State Teachers College upon his discharge. He studied a year there.

COLONELS SUCCEED 90-70; PODEHL SINKS 21 POINTS

The Wilkes cagers were unable to capture the winning margin which has been so elusive this season in losing to Upsala 90-70. Ned Podenh led the Colonels with 21 points, while Upsala’s Zaraska led both teams with 25 points. Dale Nicholson chipped in with 19 for the Wilkemans, but the Vikings of Upsala controlled the game all the way.

The Greyhounds were led by Bob Zaraska, Silver, bluffs and Podenh, 21 points.

The Greyhounds have been hurt by the loss of Denny Robinson, high scorer, and Ray Pfeiffer, the top rebounder, to the army. Patroe and Bob Mushur, two of coach Rocco Calvo’s backcourt veterans, were lost through graduation. Calvo will be relying on freshmen Bob Zelick and Barry Jacks, up-and-comers, to fill the big shoes of Robinson and Mushur, respectively.

The Greyhounds will start the season on Thursday, November 27, when they visit Upsala for a 1:30 p.m. contest.

Season’s Finale Appears Without Serious Threat

Having proved themselves at Lycoming, and with the results of the East Stroudsburg meet not available, in time for publication, the Wilkes wrestlers should coast to one of their finest seasons in several years.

The Colonels have but two meets remaining, tomorrow with Dickinson and next weekend with Moravian.

Dickinson was defeated by Moravian last year by a score of 18-8, while Wilkes swamped the Moravian team, 54-0. Dickenson does not seem to offer much of a threat this season, and Moravian appears to be no stronger this season than last.

The Greyhounds of Moravian have Dave Wilson and Dave Mack back in the line-up at 130-pounds and 177-pounds, respectively. Wilson was 8-2 last season and Mack was 8-1. Mack, however, will probably be forced to contend with John Carr, since the Greyhounds are required to send their man to the mats firsts.

WILKES 41-23, DICKINSON 32-1, MORAVIAN 18-8

The Greyhounds have been hurt by the loss of Denny Robinson, high scorer, and Ray Pfeiffer, the top rebounder, to the army. Patroe and Bob Mushur, two of coach Rocco Calvo’s backcourt veterans, were lost through graduation. Calvo will be relying on freshmen Bob Zelick and Barry Jacks, up-and-comers, to fill the big shoes of Robinson and Mushur, respectively.

The Greyhounds will start the season on Thursday, November 27, when they visit Upsala for a 1:30 p.m. contest.
