by Mary Quince

Highlighting the overwhelming victory of the Wilkes football team over Ursinus was the crowning of Cathy DeAngelis as Homecoming queen for 1964 by Dr. Eugene S. Farley at halftime. Queen Cathy and princesses Mary Rusin and Josephine Torcillo Russo were honored with a kiss from Dr. Farley and congratulations from the capacity crowd that attended the game. Miss DeAngelis received a gift certificate from Student Government, a charm bracelet from the Beacon staff, and a rose bouquet from the classes of '56, '57, and '58.

Presentations of the awards for the outstanding dormitory and organizational Homecoming displays were then made by Len Multak, president of the Alumni Association. An alumni committee consisting of five members chose the winning displays for their respective categories.

For the second consecutive year, Weckesser Hall won the trophy for the best women's dormitory display, and capped the title of the best over-all display with their appropriate theme "Cubweb the Bears." This unfortunate rename resulting from a riot in Weckesser Hall, had "caught" the miniature Ursinus football players. The colorful "Big Wilkes" Colonel, built by the men of Denison Hall, won the best men's dormitory award. The three-story Colonel admired an Ursinus bear in one hand and a Lynxward Warrior in the other. The Education Club received the most original award. The title of their display was "Cage the Bears," and appeared next to the College Library on South Street.

The award for the best-decorated car in the parade, which was also chosen by the alumni committee, went to Simon Russo. Accompanying and also complementing the decorated cars were the colorful antique cars, which were engaged through the efforts of John Loire, general chairman of Homecoming, who carefully executed every aspect of the Homecoming activities.

Queen Cathy then selected the winners of the Annual Letterman's Scholarship Raffle. Following the presentations, the kickoff and the majorettes, accompanied by the College Band, displayed their special Homecoming route.

The bonfire on Friday night was a great success, due to the combined efforts of Jerr Jean Baird, Diane Alfaro, and their committees. Saturday evening's activities included a dance-dinner for undergraduates, arranged by Grace Jones, Charlotte Wetal, and Marshall Evans, and decorated by Sylvia Prydetski. The alumni, on the other hand, were entertained in the Alexander Room of the Hotel Monte.

SOPHOS PLAN DAY-DORM WEEKEND

by Irene M. Norkaitis

The sophomore class, under the direction of Herman George, is sponsoring a Day-Dorm Weekend to strengthen the relationship between the day student and the dorm student. It is their desire to preserve life on campus, and the dorm student will have the opportunity to be part of a family for a day.

This project originated last year when George, candidate for president of the freshman class, used the idea for such a weekend as a major campaign issue. Although he was defeated in the election, a Day-Dorm Committee consisting of five day students and five dorm students, with George as chairman, was appointed. Because the spring semester was nearly completed, the project was postponed until this semester.

Now that the fall semester has started, the committee has arranged for all interested sophomore day students to spend the weekend of October 30-31 in the dormitories. Following dinner in the Comm, the students may attend the manuscript film, The Little World of Don Camillo, which will be presented in Stark 116, and the entertainment.

N D S L Applications Now Being Accepted

Students wishing to apply for the National Defense Student Loan to be used during the spring semester should contact Arthur Hoover in Chasse Hall. Application deadline is December 1. The primary and most essential consideration of an applicant's eligibility for a National Defense Student Loan is that he be in need of the requested loan to complete his course of study and that he maintain an average of 2.0.

MAKES PLAN DAY-DORM WEEKEND

by Sheryl Napoleon

Wednesday evening four members of the Beacon staff travelled to Chicago to attend the Associated Collegiate Press Conference. The Conrad Hilton Hotel will play host to the four Wilkes representatives, Alis Pucilowski, Linda Edwards, Ruth Parilla, and David Stanton, in addition to the convention's other delegates.

SG PLANS HOOT FOR TOMORROW

An intercollegiate hootenanny will be held Saturday night in the gym, sponsored by the Five College Council. The hootenanny will last from 9 to 12 p.m.; there will be a charge of twenty-five cents. This will be a non-competition event.

The business of the convention began with the Convocation last night at 7:30. Today the delegates will attend meetings where they will discuss such items as layouts and reporting in depth. Max Schulman's appearance as guest speaker at tomorrow's banquet will climax the three-day scholastic publication workshop.

The Beacon believes that the enthusiasm generated by conventions of this nature benefits the newspapers more than any text book on journalism could possibly do. Says Ruth Parilla, co-editor of the Beacon, "Although this will be my first opportunity to attend such a convention, I feel that the knowledge gained there will help make the Beacon better than it already is."

Highlights and pictures of the convention will appear in the next issue of the Beacon.
EDITORIAL

Well Done

Too often individuals are hesitant to put forth any effort in assisting with a project because they do not feel that their efforts will be recognized. And it may well be that we will not receive individual recognition, but the sooner we realize the importance of group, rather than individual effort, the sooner we will be assured of success in all undertakings.

This group effort idea was, we are sure, instrumental in the success of Homecoming Weekend, one of the most significant weekends of the College year. Not only were individuals willing to work together, but organizations also contributed their time and energies to insure the success of this project. To these individuals goes the long overdue credit to which they are entitled, and in extending this credit, it is our hope that others will assume the attitude exemplified by these students.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Beacon Slanted

Dear Editor:

Just one question — how soon can we expect the post-election endorsement President? Should it be seen, from your columns, to be almost imminent?

I have been following your famous Campaign Comment, and have come to the conclusion that it must surely be completely tongue-in-cheek, no intelligent student could possibly come to the same insane conclusions that your political writers do.

As a transfer student, I find it most discouraging to find that the Beacon is dedicated to mis-representing the views of this campus — or does it presume that there are only Liberal-Democrats at Wilkes? There are many who would put forth a great offense at such a presumption.

When will the other side (Repulican) be represented in your newspaper? That is the least you owe this campus — an opportunity to read some of the right side of the Republican campaign (now that your reporters have told us what is going to happen in it) in an intelligent, forthright manner. Or is the Beacon just another cheap tabloid dedicated to journalistic injustice?

Sincerely,

Craig J. Young

Oodles of Efforts

Dear Editor:

Last week the Seveneenth Annual Homecoming took place on the Wilkes campus. This event could not have been conducted as successfully as it was without the efforts of many individuals who aided in the organization of Homecoming activities. Jerri Baird did a great job in the organization and co-ordination of the Friday night activities, the bonfire, and the dance afterwards. Dianne Alfaro, serving on the Student Activities Committee, also deserves much credit for her contributions to Homecoming.

Further, the Undergraduate Dinner Dance committee, also, Sum-Rowan should be recognized for all he did to make Homecoming a success.

Sincerely,

John M. Lorr

Homecoming Chairman

Thank You All

Dear Editor:

We, the co-chairmen of the Undergraduate Dinner Dance committee, would like to take this opportunity to express our deepest gratitude for all the cooperation which we received from our committees, Student Government, and the Beacon. We would not even attempt to list the countless names of those who were so eager to help in the planning and arranging of this affair. Thank you again.

Professor's Study of Integration Leads Her To Existentialism

by Barbara Simms

Well-traveled, well-educated, and well-adjusted—words she describes Miss Marene Olson, attractive new sociology and anthropology teacher.

Miss Olson, a native of Carbondale (Illinois, not Pennsylvania), has traveled all over the world. Her first trip abroad was during her junior year in high school. At this time, she was selected to go to the Philippines as a member of the Stanford University team to establish teacher programs in industrial arts in Southeast Asia.

When asked how she reacted to this move, Miss Olson said, "I didn't want to go, but when the time came to return home, I didn't want to come back." She found the people very warm and sincere and open. While she was there she learned to speak Visayan, the language of the particular island which was her family. She became so attached to this melodious language that after her return to the United States, she had a hard time speaking English again.

After her stay in the Philippines, Miss Olson returned to the Orient with her brother; three summers ago she visited Europe and Africa with her mother. She’s not sure the usual attractions because “I don’t like tourist things, and American tourists have a horrible reputation around the world.”

Miss Olson received her Bachelor of Arts degree in sociology from Hiram College, Appleton, Ohio, and later went on to earn her Master’s degree at Kent State University, Kent, Ohio, where she was later an assistant in the sociology department and attended a student chapter of the N.A.A.C.P. She also participated in various clubs and organizations and spent time abroad.

was hard to convince them that all Americans don’t hate Negroes.” She believed that “…intermarriage is the true test of integration.” Miss Olson stated the following as the basis of the integration problem: “One of the greatest tragedies of this world is that we are living in the United States, and that we don’t (or maybe we can’t) see people as persons—we see them as units of race categories, religious categories, or social class categories. If one is ‘otherized’ for example, people ask, ‘What’s the matter with him?’ Here, I think, lies a terrific challenge in intermarriage. The college atmosphere is usually a pretty liberal place—where places where persons can be put back into their house sapiens shells”.

Her study of integration has led to an interest in existentialism, with the idea that all people exist as individual persons. She believes that, although an unhappy meaning is usually attached to existentialism, it does not necessarily have to be so. Miss Olson’s goal in life is “to exist,” in the existentialist meaning of the word, a goal at which she is succeeding very well.

Of her students she said, with a laugh, “I love my children. I call them my children probably because we’re so far from each other in age. It’s fun.”

In order to help finance many projects, the Accounting Club is holding a car wash in the Parking Lot tomorrow from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. The price for a car wash will be 89 cents, which includes cleaning of white walls and vacuuming of the interior.

Among the club’s proposed activities are tours of regional manufacturing concerns. The following club members are making arrangements for various tours: William Missawaring, Steineger Brewing Company; Carl Worhington, Corning Glassworks; and Jack Barnes, Eberhard Faber.

Plans are also underway for the club’s annual trip to New York City, where the club will visit a number of the world’s largest accounting firms. The purpose of this trip will be to give the accounting students an insight into the functions performed by these firms.

COLONELS SNAP LOSING STREAK; COLONEL BOOTERS JIM CLARK LOSES CHAMPIONSHIP

by Wayne Bloomberg

The Colonels snapped their three game losing streak by defeating Ursinus College, 42-13, in the Homecoming game at the Wilkes Athletic Field.

Ursinus took the opening kickoff and returned the ball to the 27. On the first play from scrimmage Ursinus bobbled the ball and Ralph Hender- son was downed for a loss of four for the Colonels. It took only eight plays for the Wilkes- men to score with Gary Hamilton, behind the center of the Ursinus line for the six pointer. Len Rokicki kicked the extra point for the 7th.

On the kickoff Ursinus fumbled again, but Len Ohrzut recovered the ball for the Colonels. The threat ended however when the Wilkesmen gave up the ball on downs. Midway in the second quarter the Colonels moved ball to the Ursinus 15. Paul Parla took the handoff from Tom Tresilo, momentary gain of three up, and raced for the goal line. The PAT was wide.

In the second half Wilkes exploded for 21 points. Ed Comstock broke through off tackle and powered his way for a 13 yard touchdown to take a 21-0 lead. The Colonels scored on a 94 yard touchdown run through the Wilkes defenders by Jim Degrotheard. The extra point was no good. Wilkes next score came on a 77 yard pass from Steve Fronczak to Ron Grobowski for the two point conversion.

The Bears scored their last TD on a pass from Quinn to Denoghedi. The Colonels scored on their next two drives with Paul Parla scoring in the 16 and Ted Travis-Bey faked his way through the Bears to end the scoring for the Colonels. Parla kicked both extra points.

The Wilkesmen had phenomenal success in their ground game. Eighty- seven plays were run from scrimmage for a net total of 413 yards as opposed to the Bears 47. The Colonels got 27 first downs. The visitors 8. Two Bears passers were intercepted by Travis-Bey and Joe Roeske. The Colonels were forced to pass only three times for an average of 37.7 yards.

INTRAMURAL FOOTBALL

Butler Hall won a hard fought struggle over Mine Hall in the dormitory division of the intramural football league by a score of 1-0. The game was decided in the second half when a long touchdown pass from Bill Tinney to Dennis Quigley. The extra point was added by Pete Galderman.

Leon Obrist and John Cavallaro of the Panthers scored touchdowns and ramped the Transfers 40-0 in the Independent Division.

Teams are asked to check their schedules for next week’s games.
