Anti-Intellectuals

Dear Editor:

When I was in high school, sick at mind over the ignorance and phony of the teachers concerning their studies, particularly their mockery of study for study's sake, a wise man told me that on the college level such philistines are not present, that there I would find soul-mates, my kind of people, people intrigued by scholarship.

Alas and Alack squared one hundred and forty-four to forty-two. I still see this disdainful, this anti-intellectual attitude among students not only towards the subjects not related to their majors (I do understand that one can become enamored by subjects outside of one's special field, but an educated man, or woman, who hopes to become, should at least be able to find some value, some worth in the variety of the liberal arts to towards their majors. To wit: They're crazy, thinking I should have two language courses? Ya know, that's a pretty bad attitude.

Be not mistaken, O gentle readers or O indignant readers, if such you are: I have found friends whose attitudes are similar to mine, but this is not the banning of all such books. As an educated man, I am disturbed that this dislike of knowledge is still present amongst some college students (I have no statistics - I'd be fearful of an exact count), and this man does not know what the wrong people are over-crowding colleges today, who the wrong people are being given the opportunity for intellectual stimulation while worthy souls may be denied these same opportunities.

But don't tell me. I don't wanna know if I'm afraid the truth is more horrible than what I suspect.

Sincerely,

Student Claims Aims Of Education Distorted

by Helen Dugan

"The aim of education should be to teach rather how to think, than what to think — rather to improve our minds, so as to be able to acquire knowledge, and to load the memory with the thoughts of other men." So stated the famous Canadian, Francis Beattie. A truly active mind must be able to calculate and devise, as well as just to absorb accumulated information.

In order for one to gain this capacity to fluctuate, he must be given a chance to do something other than re-relate facts. One must be given the chance to pick things out for himself and not merely conclude that "life is a journey," the "whole point" for the common man in England in the eighteenth century, because on page 157, line four of "An American Study of English Peasantry" it says "life was hard for all common men in England in the eighteenth century."

Unemotional Facts

Unless one is given a chance to come into contact with sources other than those assigned to the whole class (and these are usually purely fact-based), the whole subject may be a use of compensating information, in the class subject may be useful in compensating the interest of the class. But by allowing to do more literary reading and by showing some relationship to his work, the student is more likely to do the reading since he will be reading more of what he wants to read. He would also have to read the book in order to show an intelligent relationship between the book and the class.

Quantity or Quality?

Administrators and instructors scoff at the idea of Leacock, and the college where pure intellectual indulgence and not a degree is the "as being totally irrelavant in this day and age. It is up to the student to show. However, administration to offer a chance to explore excluding reference and purely factual books.

Unrealistic Utopia

Although Stephan Leacock's "The Need For A Queen College" would be the ideal situation, one realizes such an administrative change is an unrealistic utopia which is quickly replaced by restrictive regulations. One should at least hold this ideal as an aim and try to encourage instructors to lend the way of a looser, more individual, supple-

Twin Bill To Include Chekhov's “Proposal”

by S. Gavala

Curt and Curtain will present Anton Chekhov's “The Marriage Proposal” as a part of a two-week festival with Edward Albee's “The Death of Beatie Smoth.” Performances are Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., and Sunday at 3 p.m., 10, 11, and 12.

In “The Marriage Proposal,” Chekhov presents humor, composed of misadventures and dramatic situations, arranged with no edge toward climax, but with the definite design of reproducing the apparently haphazard pattern of life in a realistically believable manner. He takes no responsibility for solving these problems; they are simply frankly stated to a definite social background, that of turn-of-the-century Russia.

Serving as Chekhov's instruments of humor are the Russian landed gentry, as portrayed by Jan Kubicki in the role of the prosperous landowner, Stepan Stepanovich Tchekov; Beverly Wisloski as his beautiful daughter Natalya Stepanovna; James Gallagher as Ivan Vassilyvitch Lonov, Tchekov’s neighbor and Natalya’s 35 year old prospective suitor; Mrs. Wisloski as a senior English major who brings to her role much experience in her recent work with a theater company and in an acting capacity; she appeared most recently in last year’s production of “Man With A Tranquil Mind.”

For Kubicki, a junior English major, and Gallagher, a freshman English major, this is one of their first roles in a college production. Director Gavala will direct this production.

Many newcomers as well as experienced players in the ensemble will be working behind the scenes in various capacities during these productions. Al Airola, as production executive, Margaret Klein as technical director, Susan Grosh as house and yard program coordinator, and Beverly Wisloski as publicity chairman will be involved in both productions.

In charge of costumes for both plays will be Susan Harris, make-up designed by Leslie Coleman, and sound designed by Lonon. Cinematographer Joanne Margolis will act as advisor to these committees. Inn George will be in charge of the lighting, hour, and shirt in the show.

For “The Marriage Proposal” were designed and actualized by Jere Sher and Stephen Gavala. The program was designed by Bob Smith.

Indian Student Gives View on American revolution

by Nancy Leland

This is the second trip to America for Abdul Premawala, one of the College’s Indian foreign exchange students. Abdul graduated from Clark Summit High School in 1965 after spending his senior year there as a Rotary Exchange student. His home is in Bombay.

Abdul, unlike most of his native country’s population, is a Muslim. But since India is a democratic republic, Muslims have no fear of being Mus- lims in their own nation and in their own religion. The new religious conflict made a division necessary in India, mainly Hindu, be- came a Hindu nation, while Pakistan, primarily Muslim, became a Muslim nation. Unfortunately located between India and Pakistan, was populated greatly by Muslims, but had a Hindu who joined India religiously; combined. Kashmir and India form the Indian Union.

Abdul thinks that the war will last because both sides are strong, and that it may become a religious war because of its original religious split. The main result of such a war would be a drain on the economies of both countries. It would hurt a lot of people, and in the long run the war will come to an end.

Students Take Different Views of Demonstrations

by S. Gavala

The American people are中华民族看待支持 and are talking about the American people in this world that they fully support the American people. For this reason, demonstrations on the farm, of course, is psychological. As far as the American people are concerned, we must continue fighting against the non-existence of demonstrations. However, I am sure that they appreciate the American people's support and they will help me.

Vicki Tust: Any demonstration here is an up public opinion and to make people aware of the issues. Demonstrations are not necessary, but they are a means of communicating with the public. They give people a sense of solidarity, and they can be a means of expressing their opinions. I would enter an anti-policy demonstration because I think it is against national interest. I believe in staying within legal limits. I oppose the burning of draft cards. I believe that government can accomplish nothing.

Al Saidman: A demonstration in this area is one way to get people to take notice. I would never support a demonstration that I don’t have to participate in. I am a loyal American. I might enter a demonstration against the national interest. I have been broken or that people were being demonstrated against. But the important thing is that we not simply demonstrated against theenemy. They can’t have it both ways.

Jay Rockey: Would a demonstration in this area accomplish anything? Sure, it would let Dan Flood know that we care. I don’t think my feelings are going to touch the world. I would never participate in a demonstration. Anti-policy demonstrations offer no alternative. They just don’t get to the heart of the matter, and the demonstrators are satisfied with U.S. policy. I do not entirely agree with...

Mary Jezler: A demonstration on Viet Nam in our area would only be making our President feel more secure. I think demonstrations promote President Johnson's policy. If its purpose was to express the student’s opinion, it would only serve to bring unwanted publicity for this area and Wilkes College. However, a demonstration against the policy in Viet Nam, the latter demonstration would be excite- ing and would bring a lot of publicity. It is composed of radicals and rioters. I think a demonstration in this area would work only in a political way.

Ray Lowery: So long as demonstration is in support of American policy in Viet Nam exist, it is necessary for the American people to stage supporting demonstrations. For this reason, I think that the United States owes more to its citizens in this area and in other areas where they have no right to be.

My country means more to me than this country.

Claire Sheridan: What day are the marchers going to enlist? My view is that the demonstrators accomplishes nothing else, at least provides a peaceful, non-violent re- peal to the opposition. Personally, I strongly believe in this view and I think that a majority of the students in this area and demonstrations for any cause are unsuccessful.

John Butten: Demonstrations are useless. Those who are in power have made a decision that is almost certain to be effective. It will result in a hold debates on this topic. Demon- strations based on one’s rights un- der the constitution.

Rich Herrman: A demonstration on Viet Nam can accomplish very little. I think that the students should read books and then realize that people who initiate demonstra- tions are seeking personal gains, often even violent and irrational. Most people who join these demonstrations are in the area. These demonstrations are for any serious purpose. Those who do have a serious purpose are overshadowed by the amount of marchers, and therefore, do not succeed.

Steven GRiggs: I feel that it is every American’s duty to support our stand in Viet Nam. Every individual who supports President Johnson’s policy is carrying out his duty.

George Pawlish: Demonstrations are useless. I think that the students really have a cause to fight for. Too many people have been involved only for the action and noise, having no firm beliefs in what they are fighting for. I believe in democracy, worthy demonstrations are necessary to preserve the basic freedoms given to us by our fore- fathers.

C. C. Dorfman: I think democracy is the true purpose.

Laura Pajaro: I feel that the students have the right to protest against the President’s policy. If a demonstration will show this support, then I am for it.

Lyse McNally: Such a demonstration is not effective, but is as much for this area as any demonstr- ation. This is a means of protest, not to be accepted elsewhere. Exactly what is “accomplished” is nothing but an expression of group sentiment. I think there should be a kind of demonstrations in which I think the students be organized by a great many of the demonstrators as they are caught up in the joy of just “demonstrating.”

Angelo Speciale: There is little value in a demonstration which is to be held at the local which cannot be held over in the medium. I ask you to analyze this demonstra- tion. It is a demonstration of students willing to donate their blood lying on the ground. I think they should be brought downtown, but what would the reaction be if we asked them to give their blood to the sick? I think this demonstration of these people going through just five weeks of basic training.

Edward Albee's play "The Zoo Story" will be performed twice tomorrow at 7:30 and 9 p.m. in the Center for the Performing Arts. Presented under the auspices of the College Drama Guild, the play was originally produced last year by the Drama Guild of the Jewish Community Center. Rehearsing its roles will be David Albrick as Jerry and Fred Harrison as Peter.

Mr. Harrison is a local businessman who is active in both the Drama Guild and the Little Theatre. Mr. Hendrick is a graduate of the College and is a former faculty member. He was a member of Cae and Curtain while a student and participated in many productions including the lead in "The Music Man." He is currently pursuing his master's degree at Syracuse University. Joseph Salzburg, a member of the College mathematics department, is directing the production. Mr. Salzburg is also very active in Little Theatre and the Drama Guild, in both acting and directing capacities.

The Zoo Story" is being presented for the benefit of the freshman class. The play is on the compulsory reading list for the freshmen students, and the purpose of this production is to give the students a greater insight into the philosophies which Albee has infused into his play. Although primarily presented for the freshmen, attendance of the play is open to faculty and all interested members of the student body.

The setting for the play is New York's Central Park at the present time. The set, staff, and all technical work will be carried out by members of Cae and Curtain. This production is given through the courtesy of the Dramatists Play Service.

The Zoo Story Performance Set For Saturday Night

by Chris Salut

Final plans for the annual Thanksgiving dinner for dormitory students were discussed at last Tuesday's IDC meeting. President Steve Van Dyke has arranged everything in cooperation at the dinner to be held this Sunday night. Although tables will be set, the students must go through the line. The upstairs will be filled first and there will be ID cards used to help seat the students. Those dormitory students who are not on contract for the cafeteria service are asked not to attend because there has been ordered enough food to feed contracted students.

To avoid crowds, all the dormitories have been designated certain times to arrive at the cafeteria. Ashley, 36 West River, and 76 South Street will arrive at five o'clock. Next, in order, Carlin and Butler, Chapman and Barre, Dennison and Helenbrook Core and McClintock; Miner and Stlocum; Sterling Hotel and Sturdevant; Susquehannock and Warner; Weckesser and YMCA and Weiss and Hanness will arrive at five minutes intervals. The weekend of February 11 has been set to welcome the students' "little brothers and little sisters" to the campus. Plans tentatively scheduled for the enjoyment of the visitors during this weekend include: Basketball games and a wrestling match. The visitors will be able to stay in the dormitory of their brother or sister.

A committee has been set up to make plans for the annual IDC Christmas party. The co-chairmen of this committee are Charlotte Peterson and the late Wayne Yeter. Arrangements are currently being made for a presentation of winter sports. One boys' dormitory and one girls' will work together to put on the show. It will be called "The Christmas Spectacular."
BooTers End Season with Loss to Drew

by Bill Bush

The Wilkes booters closed their current season last Saturday by bowing to Drew University, 5-2, at Madison, N.J. The booters ended their tilt with a 6-6 record, a fine improvement over last year’s tally of 8-3.

Against Drew the Colonels faced one of their toughest opponents of the season. Wilkes fell behind early in the first period when Drew scored an offensive goal to begin the game. The second period the Wilkes men fought back and tied the score, 1, on a shot by Joe Karda. The booters continued their offensive play and Rich Beck scored on a shot by Don Sprack. The Colonels’ 1-2 lead held when the final period ended.

The third and fourth quarters were bested by Drew as they rampaged the Colonels’ net for four goals against the fine defensive play by Felix, the powerful Drew offensive proved too strong in the second half. The game ended with Drew commanding a 5-2 lead over the Colonels. Wilkes 0 2 0 2-0 Drew 1 2 2-5

The Wilkes booters have captured the Eastern Dorrantine League title for the past two years. Biever Hall was the Dorm League champion. In the Western Dorrantine League a three way tie for first place exists between the Y.M.C.A., the Sterling Hotel, and Gore Hall. Each of the three teams has three victories.

Yesterdays Gore played the Y.M.C.A., with the winner of this game meeting the Sterling on Monday to decide the Western Dorm League champions. The winner of Mondays’ game will later meet Biever to decide the Dorm League champion.

In intramural action, Barre Hall has captured the Eastern Dormitory League title. For the past two years, Barre Hall was the Dorm League champion. In the Western Dormitory League a three way tie for first place exists between the Y.M.C.A., the Sterling Hotel, and Gore Hall. Each of the three teams has three victories.

The standings of the independent teams is as yet undecided. Independent League team captains are asked to contact Forest for “The” Eichmann at Miner Hall. 823-9338, to double check and clear up team results and statistics.

This past week, one game remained in both the Dorm and Independent Leagues. Neither game, however, had any effect on the final team standings. In last week’s action the Trojans won their second straight in a forfeit match. The “Y” trimmed Minor Hall, 9-4, and Gore triumphed over the Y.M.C.A., 27-0.

The standings of the independent teams is as yet undecided. Independent League team captains are asked to contact Forest for “The” Eichmann at Miner Hall. 823-9338, to double check and clear up team results and statistics.

Winning Season Forecast for Winter Sports Teams

by Bob Thompson

With the conclusion of the football and soccer seasons, we can look forward to the College’s winter sports programs, and just as for the fall sports, the season is beginning. The season doesn’t come alive until December.

The Colleges of Coach Reese, who attained a 9-1 log last year, will be out to run up a perfect tally this year. The grappers have the personnel to do so. Mr. Reese has probably the best returning line ever. Leading the squad will be Captain John Carr. Carr is defending M.A.C. champion and an N.C.A.A. college champion at 167 pounds. In addition there are five other returning lettermen—Krofik, Vie Alphonse, Dick Olevy, and Dave Hall who was de- feated only once last year by default. Returning after a year’s lay-off are John Gardner, Bob Weston, and Joe Settineri. Settineri was an M.A.C. champion in his freshman year. This year Coach Reese was greeted by the largest turnout ever and by the best group of freshmen. In Jim McCormick, Joe Witten, and Francis Michael he has three 65 state champions. Other promising freshmen are Al Arnold, Dennis Sperre, Jim Collins, Ed Witczak, Gaylord Guise, and others.

Mr. Reese, like all coaches, never likes to be optimistic, but he says that the group is really working hard and, barring injuries, the outlook is brighter than ever.

The varsity team will participate in exhibition matches on November 23rd and a regular match November 6th and 8th at West Point. The season opens with a home match against Ithaca College on December 11th.

Under the mentorship of Ron Rainey, new head coach, the basketball team looks much improved and much better than last year. In addition to returning lettermen, there is a large group of talented freshmen. Among the lettermen are the four leading seniors of the College’s team—Joe Chris- tuck and Dale Nicholos, co-captains, Bill Litts, and Jim Sprouse.

The Colonels will be playing in a large conference this year. Berks, with whom the Colonels tied last year after two years ago, have returned to the squad. Don Widdorf, Dick Mc- Kay, and Bob Little will be valuable additions when they become eligible.

The Colonels is not a tall team although it is taller than last year. However, they make up for their lack of height with speed and desire, two important elements that the Colonels need to develop into an outstanding team.

Mr. Rainey did not want to comment any more than to say that he noticed the good attitude and the hard work and that, if this continues, Wilkes may pull a few surprises. The regular season is five games, the first one coming at Ithaca on December 1st.

The 1963-64 swimming team is ex- pected to be better than last year’s 5’7 record. The team again has a nine meet schedule, dropped with the second Wyoming meet dropped this year in favor of Ells- behrtown, a new M.A.C. contender.

Returning lettermen this year are co- captain Chuck Petrus, and freshmen John Litts, John Webb and Russ Bittier. Other experienced appearances include Wayne Clark, Rick Herrman, Armand Masecot, Ed Lenahan, and Jon Perino. Freshmen entries may be valuable resource for the swim team’s success. Two local swimmers, Ron Raffe, and Dick Mills, should be exciting matches in the free-style events. Other promising freshmen are Jeff Graham, Pard Burke, Marshall Knechtall, Bob Hink, Paul Windor, and W. Winik.

The lack of depth which has hurt the team in years past should be alleviated this year. The freshmen are working very hard and are being helped extremely by the experienced team members.

COLONELS ICE LIONS TO TAKE MAC CROWN
by George Pawlish

The Wilkes Colonels returned triumphant last Saturday night after copping their first M.A.C. title crown in the College’s history. The Colonels ended a very successful season by clobbering the Roaring Lions of Albright College, 37-7, before a large aggregation of Colossal fans at Reading.

Wilkes wrapped up the title with its sixth conference win in seven games and completed its most successful season with an overall 7-1 record.

In its early stages the game appeared to be a touch for both sides. Albright and Wilkes fought to even terms in the first half, but the Colonels gridiron machine, scoring 23 points in the second half, turned on the power in the second half to completely devastation the Lion’s defense.

The Colonels had trouble moving through the early part of the first quarter. The big break came in the closing stages of the first stanza when the Lions were penalized fifteen yards on a face mask pulling infraction. This brought the ball to the Albright 50-yard line. In six plays Rich Roshong and John Gardner popped the pigskin to the 7-yard boundary. On third and five situation Roshong took to the airways and found Mike Connolly along the left sideline and his assisting the Wilkes squad their first score of the game. Paul Purta split the uprights to give the Colonels a 7-0 lead.

The Lions, unable to penetrate the first quarter, moved through the second quarter and mustered only a minute, which failed to deadlock the score.

The ball shifted back and forth for the remainder of the half, until Dan Malley electrified the fans by pulling an Albright aerial and scoring a touchdown. With seconds left in the first half, Paul Purta converted the extra point, and the Colonels went into the lockerroom with a 14-7 lead.

The Colonels returned to the field in the second half and proceeded to put the ball up on the field. Layden recovered a fumble on the 15 early in the stanza. Four plays later Bob Wizel ripped in from the 3 to give Wilkes a fourteen point lead. Min. later, Rich Roshong of Wilkes picked off a Lion aerial and, catching Albright off guard, lateralized to Joe Wendel. The offensive squad followed with a 23 points drive, which saw them score 61 yards on a play. Paul Purta split the uprights to increase the score to 28-7. Early in the fourth period Roshong ended the Colonels’ touchdowns parade when he raked in a 54 yards carry for the 6-1 lead. Paul Purta failed to split the uprights on this extra point attempt, but the Colonels could not be stopped. With 5:15 left in the game the Colonels wrapped up the ball on the Lion 30, and Paul Purta converted the extra point to make the final score 37-7.

The Colonels led in first downs, 14-8. The Lions completed 6 out of 21 aerials for 82 yards while the Colonels collected 7 yards on 2 passes. Purta took up the slack caused by the absence of hard-running Ray Lowery and bulled out 68 yards on 15 carries for a 4.6 average per carry.

Wilkes 7 7 14 9 37
Albright 0 7 0 0 7
Wilkes scoring: Touchdowns: Roshong 2 (runs), Connolly (pass), Malley (run), Beatty (run). PAT: Purta 9 (kicks).

Albright scoring: Touchdowns: Hering (pass), PAT: Bowersox (kick)

Seventy-three points was the score.

Colonels’ John Gardner (47) fights to keep his feet on the ground as the Lions’ Kopp (66) and Gamber (83) attempt to bring him down.

Hendershot Earns Beacon’s Acclaim
by George Pawlish

This week the Beacon has selected Ralph Hendershot to receive player of the week honors. He was a 5’11”, 215 pound center hailing from York, Pennsylvania.

Ralph has been on the offensive line all four years. The Beacon’s offensive line has often been overlooked while the defense and offensive backfield gobbled up much of the media attention. All year long Ralph has been an integral part of the offensive line that has been as effective as it was.

The keystone of this offensive line was Hendershot. Charging out of his center position, he has been a potent leader of the offensive line all year. Serving as the captain he inspired the young team all year with his brilliant showing of leadership, aggressiveness, and blocking. Hendershot has been a very consistent player when you consider the few fumbles, if any, his exchanges which occurred while he was in the game.

Hendershot is a junior, preparing for a future in the field of biology. He doubles his leadership off the gridiron by serving as the president of his class. A graduate of Wilkesburg High School in Wilkes-Barre, he is a local legend for being a football player and is expected to fit in at Wilkes.

KANOOK’S KORNER

We certainly want to heap our praises upon Coach Rollie Schmidt and his grandies for their outstanding performance this past season. The acclaim that they have been receiving of late has doubtlessly and truly deserved when one considers that last season the Colonels were the bottom rung on their M.A.C. division ladder. That the Colonels are now on the top of the mountain in one season is indicative of the caliber of the year’s squad.

The Colonels’ success can be attributed to many reasons—the experience that the members of the team acquired in one or two years of play; increased effort, determination, and spirit on the part of the team; more experienced players who are drawn to the College by increased assistance to athletes, the excellent quality of the coaching staff; and more expression of spirit and support on the part of the student body. Whatever the reason, the results are all too evident.

As Art Hoover has pointed out, many schools, expecting Wilkes to be an easy touch, had scheduled the Colonels for a Homecoming or Parents’ Day game in past seasons. They have been defeated. The parents of all of the schools which have used this sort of planning in the future these same colleges will have to think twice before resuming this practice again.

Since his team is composed mainly of underclassmen, especially freshmen and sophomores, Coach Schmidt will be looking forward to a repeat performance of this year’s success next season.

After closing their slate with a 6-6 log as compared to last season’s 1-8 tally, the Colonels boasting have also weighed the record of twenty-six which was set by the 1958 squad. Also, this year marked the first time in the past ten years that the boaters have defeated Stevens Institute of Technology.

It is our hope that the boaters, who will have a large nucleus of their team returning next season, will witness an even greater improvement in their game.

Alumni Praises Teams Success
Dear Editor:

As an alumnus of Wilkes College I feel compelled to take this opportunity to extend my congratulations to Coach Schmidt, his assistants, and the 1965 Wilkes College football team on their fine success this season. While there have been lean years on the gridiron, it is a reality that the spirit of the administration has always resided to the game of football.

Although not always able to attract the large audiences of previous years, Wilkes' athletic teams have always been able to attract the students in attendance. The interest and spirit that have been exhibited by the fans that have attended Colonnels football games this year have been most gratifying.

We, the alumnus of Wilkes College, have been most impressed with the excellent management of Coach Schmidt.

Sincerely,

Bernard J. Kosch

Gridders Shower Schmidt, Aides

After copping the M.A.C. northern division crown last Saturday afternoon, the jubilant Colonels tossed Colonel shoes, hats, sweaters, etc., upon their most inspired and meritorious—John Rowlands, Jonathon Goodie, and Chuck Adonizio—into the showers, with the Colonels’ achievements last season. The entire team, including the Colonels’ assistant coaches, were given an encore in the locker room.

The Colonels’ defense, which has been a source of pride to the school, is being cited by many coaches as a model of teamwork and coordination.

One of the Colonels’ most successful games was the 1957 game against Ursinus, where they defeated the Lions 7-0.

Coach Schmidt was asked if he felt that the Colonels could take the Mid-Atlantic Conference this year. He replied, "This is the first time in many years that I have felt that the Colonels can take the Mid-Atlantic Conference. However, I do feel that the Colonels have the ability to do so, and that they will do so this year."

The Colonels are currently ranked fourth in the Mid-Atlantic Conference, and are looking forward to a successful season.
