ALL IN FUN LETTERMAN'S REVUE WILL BE PRESENTED TWICE NEXT WEEK

CHARLES SNYDER

The Lettermen's musical-comedy farce, ALL IN FUN, entered its final week of concentrated rehearsals as interest in the show reached a new high on campus.

Director Alfred Grob has featured original costumes for the cast and newly-constructed scenery prepared with the assistance of the members of the Cue 'n' Curtain. Original music has been composed by Ted Wartkowski, and the book has been prepared by Mr. Grob.

Irvin Gottlieb, production manager, has announced that choreography is being directed by Mrs. Irvin Levy. The dance numbers will feature a chorus of seventeen members headed by Dean George Ralston. The performance will include several specialty dance numbers. The plot centers about a typical college campus situation. Action is presented through two acts and six scenes. All the characters in the production will be portrayed by Lettermen.

The cast have kept the student body and faculty completely ignorant of the nature of the skits and scene in the play. As a result "mock previews" have been impossible to obtain.

Publicity was expanded with the appearance of two Lettermen dressed as "Dixie Belles," at the Square and on a sidewalk quiz on the campus.

"All in Fun" may be seen on the evenings of May 25 and 26 at the Kingston High School Auditorium. Tickets are available at the college bookstore, in the cafeteria between 11 and 1, or from any Lettremen.

FIFTEEN STUDENTS WIN SCHOLARSHIPS TO WILKES COLLEGE

Results of the scholarship examinations given on April 30 were announced this week by the Registrar. Four of the fifteen scholarships offered by Wilkes College to high school seniors were won by students of Forty Fort High School. Three scholarships were awarded to Plymouth High School students. The combined value of the fifteen scholarships is $1,000 a year.

These are the high school seniors who were announced as scholarship winners: David B. Whitten, Truckerville; David W. Park, Hazleton; William Swigert, Forty Fort; Harold W. Grubake, Nanticoke; John Serrinegoud, West Pittston; Thomas H. Reit, Wilkes-Barre; Theodorus L. Kohn, Kingston; Russell G. Lojda, Plymouth; Ann V. Trojov, Forty Fort; Alice J. Quick, Wyoming; William E. Honeypot, South Abington; Joseph A. Kropiwelki, Plains; Dorela W. Thomas, Plymouth; Lucille M. Reese, Forty Fort; and Robert E. Gehrart, Forty Fort.

NOTE

Day school students who will attend summer school should register on June 1, 2 or 3, in the Reception Room at Chase Hall.

MAY 25, DATE SET FOR DISTRIBUTION OF MANUSCRIPT

The spring issue of the Wilkes College literary magazine, THE MANUSCRIPT, will be ready for distribution on May 25, according to David Jones, editor of the publication.

The magazine will have a picture of Kirby Hall on the cover. This is the first time the MANUSCRIPT has had a pictorial cover.

David Jones says that, "On the whole, the tone of the MANUSCRIPT will be lighter this year."

Among the magazine's fourteen pieces there are two short stories, several satires, some humorous selections and two or three more serious articles.

Other members of the MANUSCRIPT staff are Samuel Chambers, Arthur Spengler, Ross Williams, Jean Gumsell, Dolores Matecki, Virginia Snee, Philip Harmon, Jack E. Plesnar, B. Richard Rutkowski and Glen Wacławski.

NOTE

Dr. Reif, Senior Class advisor, announces that practice for graduation exercises will be held at the Irvis Temple at 9 A.M. on Tuesday, May 31.

TICKETS FOR TONIGHT'S DANCE MAY BE PURCHASED AT "AQUADIUM"

VINCE MACRI

Tonight at twelve o'clock the quest for the Wilkes College Cinderella will be ended. At that time, Johnny Long, whose orchestra will provide the music for drilling, will try by the traditional end of each of the eleven Wilkes lovelies who are candidates for Cinderella. The winner will relive the fairy tale of Cinderella, as Long, the modern counterpart of Prince Charming, will present her with many gifts donated by local merchants.

Topping the list of presents in a $600 diamond ring from Tommy Van Sly, the G. L. Jeweler; an album of records from the Square Record Shop; gift certificates from the Paris Shop, and Shapiro's.

In keeping with the theme of the decorations, Bill Griffith will read the Cinderella story to the guests. The band will then dance with a long white carpet to the brandstand where they will be received by Johnny Long. This ceremony will be shorter this year than in previous years.

Preparations for the dances were started at the beginning of March, with the signing of the contract with Long. The "Aquadium" was then procured as the site of the dance. The committees then worked many hours on the little details that come apparent in the staging of such an event. Everything possible has been done to make this affair a memorable one.

The sale of tickets has been brisk all week and a large crowd is anticipated. As an added convenience, tickets will be sold at the door for the benefit of latecomers.

In addition to the chairman Keith Raszusen and Jack Feneey, and Honorary Chairman Art Spengler, the Wilkes Student Council on committees:

Shad Jackson, chairman; John Mertitt, Pete Richards, Bill Kosicki, David Melnick, Charles Thomas and Louella Cashin.

Gifts: Bill Affipelmo, chairman; Art Deliasens.

Arrangements: Bill Griffith, Sandy Lasky, Lester Gross, Art Spengler, Don Vernall, Elwin Thomsen, Frankie Markowitz, Cy Ramropliter, John Harzal.

Publicity: Henry Vackovski, chairman; Walt Harzal, Seymour Merrin, Dallis Frable, Barbara Leaning, Carl Snee, Charlotte Davis and Charlie Knap.

Tickets: Tony Roberts, chairman; Bob Sanders, Vince Macri, Bruce Mackie, Marvin Horvitz, Charles Point, Allan and Lawrence Stanley.

THE SUMMING UP

With this issue, the BEACON will suspend publication until next September to complete a cumulative final number and the shortness of the summer semester are the reasons for the curtailment of publication. This is, therefore, an appropriate time to consider how well the BEACON has fared for these last several months.

Since September, 1948, three editors have directed the policies of the paper. There have been numerous other changes, too, with the result that the staff is, in large part, composed of freshmen reporters.

It appears more than sorrowers that the BEACON has been in a state of transition. Within the last twelve months the BEACON has lost, through graduation and other causes, several staff members of unusual ability. To offset this, a re-building program has been conducted this past semester, and next fall the BEACON will continue to build an active membership. The present staff present year's course which, in addition to those on which the editors are working on materials.

SCHRODE SPEAKS TO ECONOMICS CLUB

"The day will come when we will peacefully negotiate all labor dis- putes," Mr. William Schrode told Wilkes College students at last Tuesday morning's meeting of the Economics Club. Speaking before a group of interested stu- dents, Mr. Schrode, secretary of the local chapter of the Interna- tional Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, pointed out that recent labor troubles are a result of un- covered efforts to negotiate across a contract of its own. In view of existing conditions, he explained, it is ne- cessary that both labor and man- agement have attorneys sit in on the proceedings.

The use of these people coming out of colleges today to settle the grievances that will always exist between labor and management," Mr. Schrode continued. He went on to state that in football, where he is employed, he has incor- porated a clause in the contract which provides for a labor-man- agement committee, composed of four members from each group to review grievances.

The clause states that anyone with a grievance would first bring it to the attention of the commit- tee. The committee would then present it to the foreman and, if necessary, to top management. This, Mr. Schrode said, takes the pro- cess out of the court, which is qui- et, and provides a method for a peaceful solution to the problem.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By TOM ROBBINS

It was a hot day in May when I went to see my adviser. I handed him my list of tentative courses and offered various reasons for wanting to take the subjects. The reasons were that the courses were necessary if I expected to get a degree.

The adviser turned a livid red and cast a doubtful gaze at me, as though questioning my sanity. Not a word was uttered. He pointed to the first course on the list and shook his head. I looked at the last. The first course was English 201, a wonderful course about Shakespeare. My adviser scribbled down another course after crossing out the last. I could barely read the words. I finally distinguished the writing and discovered that he wanted me to take the dreaded course of the college, The Bohemians of Lower Slobovia—Their Breeding and Habitation.

I shuddered to think of the long hours in the lecture hall, doing nothing but scribbling notes about John J. Dooko and his family. My thoughts were rudely interrupted when I went the fearful gaze of my adviser. He had crossed the second course on the list. After another hurried venture with the pen, I realized that he was about to cancel Philosophy and to take in the place The American Moron, his breeding and habitation.

I pleaded, I argued, and threatened to be no avail. At one point I felt that I was winning the argument but was defeated when the adviser held up a mirror and forced me to see my point of view. The study of morons was for me. And so it went. Course after course was revised. Psychology was crossed out. Algebra, American History, German, Economics, Education and Journalism were removed from the schedule. In their places went Native Flowers of Ball Hal, their breeding and habitation; the Bums on the Bouvy, their breeding and habitation; The Beem and Birds of France, their breed and habitation; the Goo-Diggers of New York Bar, their breeding and habitation; and many other similar courses.

After every course of my schedule had been changed, I looked closely at my adviser. He beamed at me, smiling broadly, and patted me on my little.

"Hey," I said, suddenly. "I realize I can't get a degree, but what will I be eligible for after taking these courses?"

"You may not be a degree holder," he said, "but you'll certainly be able to breed and habitate."

ZPGE SHATUT, 8-0

Droskrate Drone ZPGGE exhibited the best form shown by a Wilkes hurler this year, striking out eleven Triple Cities batters to record a one-hit shutout and to give the Colons an 8-0 victory. This lone hit was a line drive in the fifth inning which fell just beyond the outstretched glove of Centerfielder Joe Blankenbush for a double. Sparkling plays by Molash and Blankenbush turned their own serious hits for hits into outs.

With the exception of the first hit which Wilkes rendered the second, Wilkes miscue of the day, and two walks loaded the bases with one out. The third batter was never in trouble. His mixture of curves, hooks, drops and blasting fast balls had the opposing batters warring their bats in a futile attempt to get a hit.

Tuesday afternoon, the Colonels paid a return visit to Bloomberg, and came home on the short end of a 1-5 score. The Huskies got off to a fine start and really piled up the lead. Said about this game the better. Tomorrow the Colonels end their season when they meet Triple Cities College.

PHYSICS SHINDIG SCHEDULED TODAY

Today at 1 P.M., all members of the current and former physics 20- and 300 level classes are holding an outing at Rigo's Glen.

The students are to meet in the parking lot, corner of South Street and Franklin Street and from there they will journey to the glen by Routes 115 and turn left on 315. At Laplace Gas Station they will turn right and go two miles for the glen.

There is a registration fee of $1.00. Sandwiches and birch beer are to be served. There will also be entertainment.

Dear Sirs:
It has been brought to my attention that many students who plan to attend the Cinderella Ball, which your college is planning are a bit perturbed andCi sea, because they are a bit unsure of themselves in regards to social avour-fair.

Before I set down a few simple rules for behavior, I wish to state some of my qualifications: Social editor for the Poultry Gazette, author of the dictionary on social behavior, "Take The Spoon From Your Coffee Cup Before You Pour Into The Saucer!" fashion editor of the women's magazine, "Gol-

The following rules are simple and basic, and followers of these guiding principles are assured an evening free of embarrassment:
1. Shoes must be worn. (The has been an increasing tendency of late to enforce this ruling at all semiannual affairs).
2. Buy a ticket. (Seeking in is considered ill-mannered, and barred wire fences are degrading to women.)
3. Hosting, hollering and throwing tomatoes at the dancers and the hand is bad taste. It is also expensive to buy tomatoes at this time of year.
4. Dancing in the wrong direction on the dance floor is carrying individualism too far. In fact, if you make a habit of it you are liable to be the individual carried.

5. Yelling across the length of the Dance floor to gain attention is childish and amateurish. If you crave attention, lock yourself in a room for ten years and gain nation-wide publicity and a Hollywood screen test.
6. Do not take the orchestra's instruments for souvenirs of the evening; many musicians object to this.

7. Applause is sufficient to show your approval of the music, winners of contests, etc. For horns, cowbells and fire crackers are out. I will stop here, otherwise the rules might become too compli-ated! What happens if you remember these simple rules of etiquette is to take one rule a day, write it down and try it out that way.

Sincerely yours,
M. Lee Pickett.
