Lawn Party, Softball League To Hold Annual Outing Tomorrow At Toby's Park

COUNCIL SPONSORED AFFAIR TO FEATURE GAME BETWEEN ALL STARS AND FIRST-PLACE CLOWNS

BUSES TO LEAVE CHASE AT 11:30

By BILL KARASUT

(Ed. note: Any similarity between the following article and the recent story by Bill Griffith on the Rumble's Grove outing is purely coincidental.)

One of the biggest events of the Wilkes Summer Social calendar will take place tomorrow, when the Wilkes Intramural Soft Ball League will hold its Second Annual Outing at Toby's Park. Jack Peeney, Chairman of this event, stated that buses will be available for the benefit of those students without transportation. The buses will depart from the front of Chase Hall at 11:30.

Although this clam bake, which is sponsored by the Student Council, is being held for the benefit of all those students who sacrificed their precious time to help the Wilkes Soft Ball League a success, the whole student body is invited to attend. The outing will appeal to all. As ever clean, cool streams will delight the would-be Weimanns of Wilkes. An air-cooled dandelion where dream as well as hot jazz plunks will enthrall our own Astaires and Murrays. Gamblers can try their luck in the Penny Arcade at Toby's Park. Would-be members of the Choral Club can demonstrate their vocal talents, while others will be spending time to and fro, from the park, singing old time favorites.

The main event of the day will be a soft ball game between the Choral Club after the victory of the 1948 Wilkes Soft Ball League, and the Wilkes All Stars. Before the game, a first-place trophy will be presented to the Choral Club for their outstanding victory.

No lunches need to be taken as Jack Peeney and Tony Zalubski have spent the past few days working on the menu. Jack pointed out that two chefs have been hired to console the appeals of the starved. To make this outing an event long to be remembered, Tony Zalubski has prepared a menu that will put that of the Waldorf to shame. Adequate sheltered picnic tables are available so that the connoisseur of good food can eat to his heart's content, come rain or shine.

Toby's Park, formerly Harrison's Park, is located above the Blaistenie corner on route 119 (East End-New York Turnpike).
EDITORIAL

The Social Leech

It is becoming increasingly evident from observation and experience that dishonesty can never be completely eradicated from the moral slates of any society. Of course this is true of any of the moral tenets of humankind, but not so prevalently as of dishonesty. And the warning information is that dishonesty doesn’t stand one modicum of a chance for entire obliteration from the ranks of our moral taboos, for there are too many ethnical loop-holes whereby our dishonest morality is able to find a means of escape.

Honesty, as you must realize, is selfish in aspect, for who, actually, will make strong endeavor to follow the path of honesty if he foresees no personal gain? Try to count these persons on your right index finger and see for yourself. Of course, however, it is not contradictory for it is entirely comprehensible, as witnessed by the history of man’s social relations.

On the antithetical side of the position of honesty in society’s moral digest stands dishonesty, logically enough, synonymous with selfishness, and therefore, for it too is egocentric in nature, perhaps more so. But its particular egocentricity is much more vicious, more cruel, more destructive than in the case of honesty’s self-centeredness.

“Show me a liar, and I’ll show you a thief!” runs the ancient adage. It could easily be read “Show me a dishonest person, and I’ll show you one who is working harder AGAINST the progress of culture than one who is working FOR the progress of culture.” For that’s exactly what the dishonest person is doing. He is laboring under self-dis-acknowledgement, attempting to retard the advancement of culture through the medium of personal achievement and gain.

“Culture is the study of perfection”, said one eminent man, and dishonesty is presented as an object which, when fully understood and represent- ed, as the little blots of imperfection on that study, blots that will never experience plenary absorption.

It is a great mistake that such is the case. Much has been done in the past to combat this ever-present trend of dishonesty which is spread. One standard has been established, as the little blots of imperfection on that study, blots that will never experience plenary absorption.

French Tutor-To Offer Services

A beautiful opportunity to learn the intricacies of the French language is presented itself in the person of Monsieur Ehrmann, who is connected with the French University in the winter semesters of 1948-1949. Both undergraduate and graduate students interested in taking classes depending upon the subject matter and number of hours selected.

- Biology
- General Bacteriology
- General Physiology
- Chemistry
- Business Education and Guidance
- English
- French
- History
- German
- Italian
- Spanish
- Psychology
- Sociology

ECONOMICS

- Business Law—Contracts
- Business Law—Corporations
- Business Law—Taxes
- Business Management
- Business Law—Contracts
- Business Law—Corporations
- Business Law—Taxes
- Business Management
- Business Law—Contracts
- Business Law—Corporations
- Business Law—Taxes
- Business Management

SIX EXTENSION COURSES OFFERED

The following courses will be given in the Fall for 1948 at Bucknell University for the winter semesters of 1948-1949. Both undergraduate and graduate students interested in taking classes depending upon the subject matter and number of hours selected.

- Biology
- General Bacteriology
- General Physiology
- Chemistry
- Business Education and Guidance
- English
- French
- History
- German
- Italian
- Spanish
- Psychology
- Sociology

NOTICE!

Wednesday night’s game, the deciding game for the next spot in the Softball League, was won by the Cowmen with a score of 2-1.

Wilkes Announces Evening Courses

TEXAS ACCOUNTING

- Auditing
- Accounting
- Business Management
- Business Law—Contracts
- Business Law—Corporations
- Business Law—Taxes
- Business Management
- Business Law—Contracts
- Business Law—Corporations
- Business Law—Taxes
- Business Management

322 Of Our Books Are Missing

Three hundred and thirty-two (332) of the most popular volumes in the library are missing from the shelves of that domicile of knowledge, announced Mr. Joseph H. Meyers, Wilkes librarian. Recently one student copied and represent- ed, as the little blots of imperfection on that study, blots that will never experience plenary absorption.

And this evil is not so far from home, for no community or society is immune to this terrible disease. Wake up to the world and to yourself, look around you, study the situation, and see the reduction. Why the world can be a much better place in which to live if honesty could only hold undisputed sway over its rival.

322 Of Our Books Are Missing

Three hundred and thirty-two (332) of the most popular volumes in the library are missing from the shelves of that domicile of knowledge, announced Mr. Joseph H. Meyers, Wilkes librarian. Recently one student copied and represent- ed, as the little blots of imperfection on that study, blots that will never experience plenary absorption.

And this evil is not so far from home, for no community or society is immune to this terrible disease. Wake up to the world and to yourself, look around you, study the situation, and see the reduction. Why the world can be a much better place in which to live if honesty could only hold undisputed sway over its rival.

322 Of Our Books Are Missing

Three hundred and thirty-two (332) of the most popular volumes in the library are missing from the shelves of that domicile of knowledge, announced Mr. Joseph H. Meyers, Wilkes librarian. Recently one student copied and represent- ed, as the little blots of imperfection on that study, blots that will never experience plenary absorption.

And this evil is not so far from home, for no community or society is immune to this terrible disease. Wake up to the world and to yourself, look around you, study the situation, and see the reduction. Why the world can be a much better place in which to live if honesty could only hold undisputed sway over its rival.

322 Of Our Books Are Missing

Three hundred and thirty-two (332) of the most popular volumes in the library are missing from the shelves of that domicile of knowledge, announced Mr. Joseph H. Meyers, Wilkes librarian. Recently one student copied and represent- ed, as the little blots of imperfection on that study, blots that will never experience plenary absorption.

And this evil is not so far from home, for no community or society is immune to this terrible disease. Wake up to the world and to yourself, look around you, study the situation, and see the reduction. Why the world can be a much better place in which to live if honesty could only hold undisputed sway over its rival.

322 Of Our Books Are Missing

Three hundred and thirty-two (332) of the most popular volumes in the library are missing from the shelves of that domicile of knowledge, announced Mr. Joseph H. Meyers, Wilkes librarian. Recently one student copied and represent- ed, as the little blots of imperfection on that study, blots that will never experience plenary absorption.

And this evil is not so far from home, for no community or society is immune to this terrible disease. Wake up to the world and to yourself, look around you, study the situation, and see the reduction. Why the world can be a much better place in which to live if honesty could only hold undisputed sway over its rival.

322 Of Our Books Are Missing

Three hundred and thirty-two (332) of the most popular volumes in the library are missing from the shelves of that domicile of knowledge, announced Mr. Joseph H. Meyers, Wilkes librarian. Recently one student copied and represent- ed, as the little blots of imperfection on that study, blots that will never experience plenary absorption.

And this evil is not so far from home, for no community or society is immune to this terrible disease. Wake up to the world and to yourself, look around you, study the situation, and see the reduction. Why the world can be a much better place in which to live if honesty could only hold undisputed sway over its rival.
LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Whither The Liberal

Liberalism means freedom from narrowness or prejudice in one's ideas and doctrines.
And that is what is sorely needed today!

There appears to exist throughout the nation tremendous confusion as to the nature and meaning of the various political and ideological labels... and perhaps the most distorted of all is the "liberal"

Now just about everyone who can think in this land of ours claims to be a liberal—many of whom do not even comprehend the meaning of the term. And just about every thought, argument and deed is explained and justified by parading out the label in question. One wonders if there is anything wrong with "liberalism".

There is something wrong somewhere! Especially when it becomes commonplace to see one self-avowed "liberal" snickering behind his or her hand as another "liberal" earnestly espouses his views and beliefs.

What does seem to be popularly agreed on is that liberalism is associated with intelligence, whereas conservatism is associated with a poor one, which is both a superstitious and a lazy way to understand how the latter came by their property except through intelligence—and frugality.

What appears then to be overlooked at the present time is ability or inability to distinguish between "What is" and "What should be". There is a world of difference between the two. We have an incurable habit of confusing the two. Since both interact upon each other as we attempt to understand and control our environment we tend to become confused and lose time.

The conservative seeks to conserve the material and spiritual values of the past and tends to go slow in accepting the new and radical; in short to maintain the status quo—and for good reasons.

The liberal seeks to make changes in the status quo—and again for good reasons. But since we are discussing the liberal, let's investigate his reasons for changing in the social and political structure of our society.

There are two. They may be altruistic—or personal. Then the day comes when issues concerning an individualistic scheme of society for the sake of the collective good, or that of a collectivist scheme of society for the sake of the individual good.

Our social order has a natural hunger for the truth which it cannot always find in its existing schemes and is incorporating a better truth by doling out one poorer. And most liberals sincere in their hopes, beliefs, and intentions of contributing to the progress of our civilization have done much in making this nation the greatest power on earth.

There is the liberal who is his own brand of Individualism and Liberalism has produced an industrial race of men; a rural population without a peasantry, and an industrial population without a proletariat. What other country can boast of this?

On the other hand false or misguided liberalism can be productive of immense mischief which outweighs any good that may be derived.

There are those pseudo-liberals who hide behind the cloak of decent liberalism for the sole purpose of promoting their private and selfish interests. They are the worst kind of liberals and tend to disintegrate colleges, and universities who hold honorable liberal beliefs.

Among these we have noted that as boys and girls they believed themselves idealists and friends of the common man. As such they join various organizations, discussing this and that without any real understanding of the problems of living with others, but only with the hope of a new job when they come to college.

Then there is the poor weather liberal, who is kind chiefly to those at a distance with whom he has no long-time dealings; who falsifies every social actuality, beginning with his own moral condition which he refines from discovering any honest wrongs, his own or another. He is the kind of liberal that the average person gets the impression of seeing every society and are ever anxious for betterment through some change in political machinery.

Change for the sake of change, however, is not progress. True liberalism is that endeavor by which we improve our knowledge and understanding, thereby shaping our institutions and adjusting our moral sentiments so as to promote the welfare of the nation and the human race.

The liberal who discriminates among colleges, and universities who hold honorable liberal beliefs?

Among these we have noted that as boys and girls they believed themselves idealists and friends of the common man. As such they join various organizations, discussing this and that without any real understanding of the problems of living with others, but only with the hope of a new job when they come to college.

Then there is the poor weather liberal, who is kind chiefly to those at a distance with whom he has no long-time dealings; who falsifies every social actuality, beginning with his own moral condition which he refines from discovering any honest wrongs, his own or another. He is the kind of liberal that the average person gets the impression of seeing every society and are ever anxious for betterment through some change in political machinery.

Change for the sake of change, however, is not progress. True liberalism is that endeavor by which we improve our knowledge and understanding, thereby shaping our institutions and adjusting our moral sentiments so as to promote the welfare of the nation and the human race.
In medicine these days, most of the research is on discovery. However, one thing is becoming clear—chemists must administer the new treatments and cures once they have been discovered.

Private medical schools which have as little as 60 per cent of their doctors and nurses going to drop out, but the doctors who might apply might give the results to the public in the form of a book or article. According to recent estimates, if the government president of the University of Rochester and spokesman for the foundation treating AIDS, the number of people over the age of 7, 10, and 13. This type of treatment has been tried with 50 children, but no one knows, with certainty, whether this type of treatment is a permanent cure or not. It would be best to do it in a controlled setting, the evidence is un

The state of Connecticut has recently changed its name from the long-discovered classification of alcoholism. The new classification is based on the severity of the condition, which is now known as a "floundering condition." This term is used to describe a situation where the emphasis is being given to the physical and emotional problems associated with alcoholism, rather than the legal aspects of the condition. This change in terminology is intended to get the message across to the public that alcoholism is a serious condition that needs to be dealt with appropriately.

In order to keep going from year to year, we need to find a way to live on our own. What we are proposing is that we begin to spend our time on things that will help us find a way to live on our own. We are proposing the idea of a "small business" that will provide a way for us to live on our own. We are proposing this idea because we believe that it is the only way for us to live on our own. We believe that we should be able to make a living on our own, and we believe that we should be able to do it by ourselves.

Second, the hospital plan will provide the community with an opportunity to do something about the problem of hunger. It will be possible for the community to come together and work on solving this problem. It will be possible for the community to work together to find solutions to the problems of hunger.

Individuals with a dominating fear of hypodermic syringes and the pain associated with injections have no cause for relief with the recent developments in the field of spring—without an aggravating needle. The Hypodorsy, as it is called, is a device that delivers a high pressure jet spray which is directed into the solution of sodium fluoride in a jet so small (only 0.025 millimeters in diameter) that it will not cause pain. Results have proved so successful that the U. S. Public Health Service has been testing the instrument for possible use in minimizing the risk of dental decay. The first use of the device in a clinical situation was made a survey of the USPHS on the effectiveness of the device and the preliminary results indicate that it is extremely useful in doing hypodermic patients who are suffering from pain. It is possible for the device to be used in a condition of a hypersensitive tooth which makes needle injections unbearable.

The fact that nine out of every ten children have decayed teeth by the time they are five years old is also a cause for concern. The American Dental Association has written a letter to the state, now before Congress, which would allow the state to collect and use dental care. The service to be provided by this program is a type of educational service that is a revolutionary technique in preventing tooth cavities.

Naturally, the situation is different with children. Children will have their teeth decayed by the time they are five years old. There will be such warts on the age of 3, 5, and 10. These warts will be given the stage, but the evidence is un...