FATHER-DAUGHTER COMBO UNIQUE FEATURE AT WILKES

One of the few father and daughter teams attending college together in American universities and colleges is found at Wilkes College, where Audrey Kohl, age 17, and her father, Earl Kohl, age 43, are working for degrees.

Earl Kohl is leading a strenuous double life while attending Wilkes College. From 11 P.M. to 7 A.M., he is employed as a watchman at the Vulcan Iron Works in Wilkes Barre. According to the 48-year-old sophomore, "the schedule that I've prepared for myself doesn't bother me in the least. The important thing is that I'm doing something that has always seemed out of the question before last year."

Kohl, who is one of the most active members of his church, is majoring in religion. At present, he teaches several classes in Sunday School and is looking forward to the day when his degree will allow him to go further into the field of religious teaching.

His daughter is working for a Bachelor of Science degree in biology. She has already established herself as one of the most active students in the freshman class as a member of several college organizations.

INCREASING DEMAND FOR PSYCHOLOGISTS, SAYS ROBERT RILEY

"I would like to see more students majoring in psychology here at Wilkes College," said Mr. Robert Riley, who was expressed recently by Mr. Robert Riley, who is now psychology instructor on the faculty, during a Beacon interview. Mr. Riley also stated that the college was experiencing an increasing demand for psychologists in the world and that various opportunities await those who choose to enter the field.

Mr. Riley graduated from Maryvale High School where he acted as assistant editor on the school paper. He was also an enthusiastic participant in sports particularly track and swimming. He later served his country as a member of the Army Air Forces in the Air and Ground Forces. This covered a period of three years, a year being spent in the Philippine Islands. After receiving his B.S. degree from Wilkes College in June '48, Mr. Riley spent an additional year at the University of Pittsburgh in Pennsylvania. There he studied graduate work in clinical psychology.

Mr. Riley introduces introductory and advanced psychology courses and, in addition, he conducts the psychological testing of incoming students and their aptitudes. He plans to work for his Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology, a specialty in which he is particularly interested on the college he would like to attend.
Moments. Gratifying. Deserved. Nels take a

Drop in like they we and we and tackle, Hendershot, Zapatoski, ever beheld; Zapotoski, which big man of whom we all out with serious injuries. Knapich with a dislocated back, Zapotok, and Radzawaski, a broken hand.

That a mouth of beef in any man's mouth, but it is up enough. True, they have held up, and have held up admirably, but we can only be much of them when we begin getting embarrassed. They have been good, even though they sometimes do.

And if Blessed Bob Gergas didn't do nothing but kick the ball, wouldn't we know how good we were at football before? The center needs no words. The best adjective to describe it is "good," and Dalton. Breaches there a pair with.

About the only thing that has happened to Fenney, Molash, Maslla, et al., this week is that the offense has become better. Molash acquired his pass to the outside; this will make the defense think when the Saints mistook him for a backfield, and spent all night finding. Naturally, the offense has been strong. Joe Fenney got his in the Bridgeport game where he did it twice. A grabthought thought he was a pivot and spent two hours running. Six of the ten touchdowns were faked through him. Ithaca tried it too, but they didn't have much luck, and it seems they will have to change their lesson.

The backfield comes out unchallenged. They are all up and ready to go. Molash, who of course never see, has done a magnificent job from his rocktem, suck'em back, and to back him. He is never at any touchdowns, but they ought to find out that he is a pass that is scored. His is a thankless job. Block, block, block 'til you can't stand, then get up and block again.

Flarley, Pinky, DeRemer, Castle, Thomas, Waters, and others look sharp, and seem to be getting stronger. If you look at the game vs. Bucknell, you may make a coach's sleeping hours the rest of the year. The backfield should be Young. Al Nicholas is rapidly making it to the top of Mount Gravity. A pulled leg muscle should be eliminated before the next scheduled game. The offense is strong.

Well, that's the team's physical condition. How about the generalship? Coach Partridge is a good fellow; he's almost as good as he was last year. He knows when to go, too. He knows when to go in Wilkes-Barre. "We've been into it!" he said. It's a shame we can't stay on track.

The Colonels have a ball team that is well trained, and that team will be worth while from now on.

Our Caravan, the BEACON sports staff, will cover the COLLEGE CARAVAN OF VICTORIES.

Does anyone know where Mansfield is? Seems like they were going to call about a game this week.

Earl "Kinker" Joes has joined an army of bowlers that are one he quit because of occupational fatigue. How about that?

Inside DOPE: Phil Kennedy says the powerful CPCA kegels won't just win because they have the best keglers in the state. They are working together, and we hope they can make the trip.

The outside of the Colonels also click with a vengeance. Ithaca give a great game.

One in a lifetime: Jack Fenney says he waited ten years for a screen block, and it finally came at Ithaca. He had a thirty yard run in the first period, and he had the block in Al Nicholas' 90 yard run.

One thing I haven't heard before was the legend of the going Ithaca. When I tell you the Ithaca would be back in the bleachers.

Fitty the poor soccer team. They are not in college, and it was a forlorn fiturated college that just gets yet Wilkes team can pick it up.

Personal Observation: Al Nicholas is his big time. That boy can really put one to go on the back of his head. He is a great player for the country. He's a natural. Free flowing, effortless, poetic catch-me-you-can't-mold.

Dream Sight: Chet Knappich piles up the line before him while Samson will attempt tackles. Incidentally, how does Samson stay so close to the ground! If he is the back and comes under the ball carrier for his tackles.

I take it back: After the Bridgeport game. Tullerton entered the dressing room almost in tears. Claimed there was nothing to be singing about. He threw the ball and comes under the ball carrier for his tackles. Incidentally, how does Samson stay so close to the ground! If he is the back and comes under the ball carrier for his tackles. Incidentally, how does Samson stay so close to the ground! If he is the back and comes under the ball carrier for his tackles.

Dr. Vujic claims soccer is a bet- ter game than football—because you "really have to use your head!" said.

Wonder if Rasmussen plays soc- cer because he can't wear a different type of shoe!

Did you ever see Alex Molash re-hash a football game? Never speaks a word, just contorts his face, waves his hands, and you see the game all over again.

Chet Molley is jealous of the football team. He is already mak- ing up a game for tomorrow night. I hope they to give George one good sea- son before we.

Heard King's College's Coach Milroy on the air. He said his greets- ing when he got in Wilkes-Barre was "Wilkes is back, Wilkes!" Are we going to stand for that?

A banquet to Ithaca, Colo.: Coach Partridge says the Ithaca team "gave George one good sea- son before we went.

The Classic: Boomar John quick- kicked in the Jayvee-Western Seneca game; he was awarded. Dis- tance: SVEN PEET. Coach Rais- ing, one of the best, in distance, and exclaimed: "Shout man! He can't even KICK a first down!"

Thought: If warranty is called the Colonels, why not call the Jay- cees the "Shavetails"?

Question of the week: Does our College have a football league?

WATERS ELECTED FOR SECOND TERM

Last week the BEACON inaugurated the program of introducing the Colonels to the student body. We would like to continue this week by pin-pointing the Co-Captain and the men who fill in the pupil role.

George "Pickles" Lewis is one of Coach Ralston's many four-year men. He first manned footballs at Forty Port where he starred for that town's high school eleven. When asked if he harbored scholastic honor, Pickles modestly replied, "No, I was just one of the boys." And that might be considered the criterion of his success. He is always one of the boys, and he has been one of the Colonels since 1946. He is one of those linemen who are not just satisfied to play in the line, but love it. Pickles is a sparkplug to the team, and he is there playing his heart out for 60 minutes of any game when he is called on to do so. After three very good years in Colonels, Pickles has been honored by his teammates electing him to the Co-Captain of the team.

John DeReemer is the other Co-Captain. This position is in itself estimates Jack's worthiness to the team. This is just judging the season with the Colonels, when he has been chosen their Co-Captain. Transferring from Southern Methodist University last year, Jack broke right into the starting lineup. His end runs and passes worried many an enemy. This season he is playing defensive halfback for the Colonels which is a very capable position.

Returning for his fourth season with the Colonels, Sammy Elias is in the line-backer for Ralston's defensive team. Last year Sammy was playing the pivot, alternating

U. OF. O. Women Get Men's "Play," Shorter Hours

Norman, Okla., (1. P.)--Women students at the University of Oklahoma now have earlier curfew hours. Closing hours for Friday and Saturday nights have been set at 11:00 p.m. as compared to 12:30 a.m. by the Association of Women Students, recommendation of President George L. Cross. Former hours were 12 midnight on Friday and 11 p.m. on Saturday. Curfew time for freshman women will continue 11 p.m. p.m., Mondays through Thursdays.

There has been considerable criticism of the university in claying the change, "from parents, faculty members, and alumnae," according to the Oklahoma Daily. It was added that the later hour "encouraged students to seek entertain ment out of town; many state they cannot prefer that they partici pate in the social functions on the campus."

He stressed the importance of the change, saying that the colleges and universities have the most favorable environment for social development, democratic living and the encouragement of good scholarship is to be found in the co-educational plan, particularly for students in their pre-college years.
Teachers’ Continual Digging Proves Nothing, Reveals Bones

“NO BONES ABOUT IT”, SAYS BONES. “LIFE IS JUST A BOWL OF BRIER-ROOT”

SPECIAL TO THE BISON

Homer Bones admittedly has no middle name, does not know who his father and mother are, and thinks that his family tree was cut up into toothpicks long ago. Yes, those were some of the items that Homer (?) Bones released to himself in the second exclusive Beccus interview in as many weeks.

“I don’t really care for the idea of a whole middle name”, said Mr. Bones, “but I should have a middle initial. I was last registered during registration week when asked to put down my middle initial—okay, how about ‘T. Now there’s a nice combination, Homer T. Bones. Get it?”

When asked about his classroom experience, Homer said, “Golly, I’ve had a lot of interesting class experiences. I’ll never forget one time when my suspenders broke and my pants dropped down around my ankles. Some joker in the class said Gee, Homer, your legs are so thin that was the way for pipe cleaners. I was mortified.”

He went on to talk of the time he was exasperated teacher described him as nothing more than a lump of clay, a piece of wire, and a hook of fuzz. “Little did he know”, said Bones, “that he was talking to a Jill who can exchange repertoire with the best of them. I jumped up and shouted ‘Just because you slipped on that banana skin, Pal, don’t think you’re one of the bunch’, boy. That stopped him cold. It seems that teachers are always taking it easy on me.”

Homer admits being an orphan, but he can’t recall much about it, except for helping him all his life. “Don Follmer and Art Bloom”, he says, “are my boom buddies. They befriended me at a time when it looked

JACOBSON’S HUMOR PLEASURES STUDENTS

By GEORGE KABUS

Paraphrasing Shakespeare’s statement about sleep being the found of all troubles, Jacobson said, “Laughter and humor is life’s best appetizer. Laughter and humor make life more...”

The humor journalist and actor addressed approximately 400 students of Wilkes College in the Baptist Church last Tuesday. His topic was: Humor—First Aid in Tears. He added:...”

Mrs. Jacobson differentiated between wit and humor. She said that we must laugh with people, not at them. In referring to the nature of humor, she said: “The funniest joke to me is a “...It amounts to a large part of a sense of humor. People who have not all Cockney humor, as most Americans believe, lack the elements of humor to include Irish, Scottish, and Cockney. But if people could...”

Homer T. Bones remarked that the traffic and parking situation around Wilkes should be relieved at all possible. Homer drives a stopped-up Tootle-toe convertible and, although he has a parking permit, finds parking space difficult to locate. He blames the difficulty in parking on the size of his car. Homer revealed that his convertible is even longer than the one Mr. Dalton owns.

“As you can see by this picture I want you to print with the interview, I am interested in music. The person sitting in the chair watching me tickle the ivories is not Mr. Colledge. He is just one of my friends who came in to see how I was doing. I enjoy music a great deal, all kinds of music.”

Homer thinks that music is something to all manner of troubles. He summed up the power of music by saying: “If the leaders of the nations of the world would blow woodwinds instead of their tops would be a lot better off. And we’d have music to boot.”

When asked if he still need humor on the Beacon? Homer’s answer is: “I hate to...”

NAVY WANTS 1200
FOR NAC PROGRAM

WANTED: 1200 Naval Aviation Cadets.

This offer has been tendered by the Secretary to all qualified, unmarried American men between the ages of 18 and 27.

In selecting the applicants preference will be given to those who have graduated from an accredited college or have successfully completed the requirements for graduation in a four-year college course.

A study of the enrollment statistics by Herbert J. Morris, registrar, and Stanley Waskowitz, director of the evening school, revealed that this year finds Wilkes College with the highest combined evening and day school enrollment in the history of the local institution. There are 1,290 students attending the institution.

A count of the evening school registrations disclosed that 944 persons attending classes during the fall semester of 1948, when 621 were attending classes.

The 1949 figures carry 650 students on a reduced day school roster, 56 as special students, 14 as special education students, and 944 in the evening school.

The figures for the total enrollment verify a continual growth in the enrollment at the Wilkes-Barre college. It was expected this year that because of the decrease in the number of veterans enrollment for college courses, the number would be greatly decreased. However, a slight decrease suffered in the day school enrollment was more than made up by the large number of persons who enrolled for the evening classes.

In the fall semester of the evening school in 1948 the number of students was 621, but the following semester found the registration for the evening classes for 1949 increased to 705. This factor leads officials at the college to believe that the present enrollment figure will be increased to over 1,000 marks during the second half of the 1949-50 school year.
